Big Revival Wanted
Women Are Braver
And Much Wilder
Are Nations Insane?

By Arthur Brisbane

Los Angeles, May 1—According to Bishop James E. Freeman, religious enthusiasm must save this country from its troubles if it is to be saved. Says he:

"We shall have no permanent recovery in this country, no matter what laws are passed, until we experience from coast to coast a sweeping religious revival."

America has seen great revivals led by Moody and Sankey, the late Billy Sunday and other powerful revivalists, depending largely on music, fear of hell and mass psychology to produce repentance. But those revivals, based on individual desire for salvation, have never been nationwide, or even statewide.

Crusades in the Middle Ages, sweeping entire populations toward the Holy Land, ended disastrously, for the Christians, with "pagans" in charge of Jerusalem until the days of Arthur Balfour and the big war. They proved what might be done if religion, taken seriously, could be turned toward politics; but this is a day of faith smaller than a mustard seed, few mountains are moved except by steam shovels.

In the coming big conventions any reference to Divine power will probably be perfunctory as usual; men will continue to rely on their own law-making wisdom.

Dr. Walter Emerson Briggs, who teaches dentistry in Tufts College, says:

"Women can take any kind of pain without a whimper."

Women endure pain more courageously than men. Childbirth has taught them to suffer, and endure in isolation. Man shows his heroism preferably in crowds, in squadrons, platoons; often he would not do that if it did not take more courage to stay behind alone than to go ahead with the others.

Women's is the courageous sex, man is the other kind, and might as well admit it.

In addition to being braver than men, women feel with greater intensity.

Mrs. Loretta Kruger, arrested, accused of stabbing her husband seven times because "he was going out with his secretary," sits sobbing, telling how much she loves her husband, BUT "I would rather see him dead than with another woman."

Mrs. Kruger lives on the edge of the Atlantic. Miss Helen Livingston, only 23 years old, who lives out here near the Pacific, startled police and traffic, jumping through and shattering a glass window one flight up. She dived over a sofa through the window, landing cut, with clothes torn, saying, "Don't let him near me," and told the police:

"I got so mad at him, I jumped through the window."

Men do that only in comic strips.

Douglas Burton, 30, brilliant English literary critic, was informed by a former "international beauty" that a young author, Douglas Bose, had blackened her eye. Burton dashed at Bose, who turned out to have an "abnormally thin skull," and killed him. The jury found him insane when told he sincerely believed that "murder might be a social duty."

What would that jury say about nations of Europe that have the same theory?

Mussolini's men are close to Addis Ababa. Their planes have landed on the city's airport. Natives are fleeing, Europeans, including representatives of this government, have taken refuge in the British legation's "compound."

England, believing in "preparation," has a good supply of machine guns, cannon and fighting men in her diplomatic "compound," not for protection against Mussolini's men, but against any murderous uprising of Ethiopian natives, maddened by complete defeat.

The United States has not yet "got around" to the preparation theory, but it will do so, here and abroad.

Senator King of Utah, Democrat, says:

"I believe Governor Landon will be the Republican nominee. He is a good man, sound and something of a Coolidge."

Governor Landon's friends say he is more than that. He is "something of a Landon," a good sample of American common sense, convinced that the system under which this country was created might still carry it along. His friends say he has proved that theory in his management of Kansas.

If you bet on the election, you will have to bet on Roosevelt or Landon, judging by the Massachusetts vote, for the governor at the primaries got a vote five times as big as the combined votes for Hoover, Borah, Vandenberg and Knox.

Death Comes To Her Gay Party

Mrs. Marianne Taylor Reece, young Newton mother, who died in flames today in the home of friends, where she had been the honored guest at a birthday party last night.

HITLER ROUSES CRY OF 'JEWS!'

Berlin, May 1 (AP)—In what was termed an "act of state" in the Lustgarten, Reichsfuehrer Hitler again stressed his love of peace today as he addressed hundreds of thousands of persons who had marched five miles in a May Day procession.

"My recent peace offer," declared Hitler, "was not framed by lawyers. It was a plain common sense offer, which, if accepted, would insure peace all around.

"Yet, on top of this, have come all sorts of foreign lies about Germany invading or about to invade Austria or Czechoslovakia.

"Who are those poisoners of the atmosphere?"

The vast audience yelled back at him:

"Jews!"

Hitler compared this day to previous May days "when cabinets trembled and we were relieved if the day passed with only a few killed and wounded."

Today, he said, the regime was supported not by bayonets, but by the hearts of the people.

Roosevelt May Offer Navy Pact

Washington, May 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today it was possible he would send the new London naval treaty to the Senate this session although no definite decision had yet been reached.

Arthur W. Ingalls, who made several heroic attempts to reach the room where Mrs. Reece was engulfed in flames and smoke.

STOCKS MIXED

New York, May 1 (INS)—The stock market turned erratic today, with small buying and selling waves following each other in rapid succession.

There was a moderate amount of selling in the steel shares, despite a plethora of bullish business signs, U. S. Steel losing more than a dollar at one time and Bethlehem drifting lower after a first-hour fractional gain.

WIFE'S DEATH IN FLAMES PROBED

Mrs. Marianne Taylor Reece, young Newton society matron, art student and wife of a wealthy manufacturer, perished in mysterious flames today in a guest bedroom in the home of Newton friends.

Her host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Ingalls of Eliot Memorial road, escaped over a rope ladder from the second floor of their house after being trapped while attempting to rescue their guest.

Their maid, Miss Josephine Wynn, escaped from the first floor.

$1000 Rings Lifted At Lawrence Shop

Lawrence, May 1—A tray of diamond rings, valued at $1000, was stolen today from the jewelry store of Frank Schneider, 314 Essex street.

Three men entered the store during the noon hour, when Mrs. Gladys iFeld, asaleswoman, was alone in the place.

After looking at silverware they departed without buying anything. Shortly afterward she discovered the rings were missing.

Police said a similar theft was committed in Haverhill last week, and they believed the same men were involved.

Zeid, Saved With Bruno, Doomed

Camden, N. J., May 1 (INS)—Charles Zeid, who was saved from preceding Bruno Richard Hauptmann to the electric chair at Trenton, State Prison by a 30-day respite, today was resentenced to die during the week of May 31 by Judge Frank F. Neutz in Camden County court.

Handshake, No News!

Washington, May 1 (AP)—Approximately 40 correspondents of foreign newspapers and news agencies today attended President Roosevelt's semi-weekly press conference. Each shook hands with the executive.

Reds' May Day Rites Fizzle

Communists numbered their audience at the May Day rites on Boston Common today by hundreds, but Veterans of Foreign Wars numbered theirs by thousands.

So far as the attraction of patriotic exercises versus unpatriotic exercises was concerned, it was a case of sharp contrast, not close comparison.

At its height, the Red demonstration attracted less than 200 persons, police estimated, and a five-piece band was mostly responsible for that.

Some of the Communists' audience were Communists. Most of them were hecklers, curious spectators and working newspaper reporters and photographers, each ready and waiting in case of rioting, skull-cracking or other interesting developments.

Police, who were acting under orders to nip anything that looked like incipient trouble, did just that. One group of slightly boisterous spectators was asked to "move along."

The fiery orators of Reds devoted most of their diatribes to Hitler and Mussolini. So did the placards and banners on display.

Further—possibly a sign that they were weakening, police said—Communists had draped on their platform two American flags. It was the first such display in years.

Some o fthe signs read: "Unite Against War and Fascism." Others: "Repeal the Teachers' Oath;" "Hitler is Prepared to Attack the Soviet Union;" "Down with Mussolini's War of Plunder."

FRANKFELD SPEAKS

Philip Frankfeld, New England Communist chieftain, was the principal speaker. Philip Moore, of the International Labor Defense, was chairman. Florence Luscomb, state secretary of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, was another orator.

Communists tried to sell booklets extolling the benefits of their credo, but the cash returns were small. So they distributed free copies of the hymn, "Internationale," instead.

On the other side of the Common, however, enthusiastic thousands jammed about Parkman bandstand for V. F. W. exercises, where U. S. Senator Gerald P. Nye was principal speaker.

ASSAILS WAR

The North Dakota senator, who is chairman of the Senate munitions investigation committee, called upon the country to maintain a policy of "hands-off" in foreign disputes.

"This nation needs a neutrality policy that will prevent our commercial appetite drawing us into the wars of others," he declared.

"We should destroy the prospect of profit from war by writing tax laws that will prevent profit being won by anyone while our country is at war."

LANDON VOTE SPURS CLUB MOVEMENT

The tremendous vote received by Governor Alfred M. Landon in the presidential preferential primary has so inspired the Republican party in Massachusetts that thousands have already signified their intentions of joining the Landon-for-President clubs now being formed throughout the state.

The dolorous condition of the Republicans in the state following the disastrous national election in 1932, has given way to a new lease of life, so much so that many of the delegates elected at the primary are openly declaring that Governor Landon is the only man that can defeat the Democrats at the November election.

STATE ORGANIZATION

The size of the Landon vote stunned the Democrats. The Republican party in the state quickly realized the situation, stiffened their line of attack and today are taking advantage of every oppor-

Absent Zioncheck Fined $66 More

Alexandria, Va., May 1 (AP)—Failing to appear in court, Representative Marion Zioncheck of Washington state was fined a total of $66 for reckless driving and speeding today and a $200 bond was forfeited.

Judge James R. Duncan added that if the stormy House member ever was seen in Alexandria again he would be arrested. Zioncheck was believed to be speeding today toward a Florida honeymoon.

Policeman George Ellmore told how he arrested the representative yesterday afternoon as he traveled through Alexandria with his bride of three days.

Elmore said Zioncheck was going 60 miles an hour. When the congressman finally stopped his big roadster he said:

"When are you damn cops going to leave me alone?"

Gang Gets $50,000 in Detroit

Monroe, Mich., May 1 (INS)—Five bandits who robbed a Detroit bank of $50,000 this morning were reported trapped by State police on the Detroit-Monroe-Toledo road near here today.

Detroit, May 1 (AP)—Five robbers armed with revolvers and an automatic rifle, held up a branch of the Detroit bank, oldest in the city, shortly before 11 o'clock today and escaped with cash officials estimated at $50,000.

One shot was fired by the man carrying the rifle, bank employes told police. The shot splintered a marble counter and the fragments injured Mrs. Inva Hershey and Harry Taylor, Mt. Clemens, customers.

Appearing suddenly in the crowded lobby, the men brandished their weapons and ordered customers to stand back. Two of them climbed over a high teller's cage and scooped the money into a sack.

Running from the bank, they entered the car and speeded away.

The branch, located at Oakland and Woodland avenues, is near the southern boundary of Highland Park, across the street from the Chrysler automobile plant.

Highland Park police were called to a drug store at the northern limits of the suburb just three minutes before the holdup occurred. Police said they believed the call was intentionally placed.

IN GREATER BOSTON THIS YEAR

Death Takes the Wheel! This time to claim the 65th victim in Greater Boston in exactly four months of this year.

An automobile plunged off the General Lawrence highway near Medford today, rolled down the embankment into the marshes, and Fred Genelli, 29, of Vale street, Chelsea, was dead. Genelli's brother, John, 26, also of Chelsea, was taken from the wreckage to Malden hospital. He had escaped with only minor injuries.

Police said a third occupant of the death car, a man known only to the surviving Genelli as "Civey," disappeared after the accident. The Genelli car was cutting out in front of another machine when it went out of control, police reported.

BAY STATE VICTORY WRECKS 'STOP LANDON' DRIVE

LANDON'S PLAIN WAYS APPEAL TO VOTERS

By paying strict attention to his duties and making a magnificent record as governor of the state of Kansas, Alf M. Landon captured the imagination of the country. This is the view expressed in the following article by one of the foremost members of Congress.

By REP. U. S. GUYER

Republican Member of Congress from Kansas

Washington, May 1—The Massachusetts primary demonstrates that Governor Landon has captured the imagination of the people of the United States.

NO FROTHY ORATORY

This is emphasized by the fact that no frothy orators were proclaiming him in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; no torchlight parades or processions; no flaming pennants or fluttering banners; no Landon headquarters with chairmen and chairwomen.

His overwhelming victory was just an expression of the New England Republicans of whom they thought was the logical Republican candidate and would be the answer to the record, history and yearnings of the brain trust and the Roosevelt administration.

I believe the dignified, modest and highly sensible attitude of Governor Landon toward such an exalted office has met the popular idea of the fitness of things.

PEOPLE BORED

His refusal to engage in any unseemly scramble for delegates has met the approval of the Republicans of Massachusetts, and I believe this will be the final verdict and result in the nomination of Governor Landon at Cleveland.

The American people are bored with noisy leaders whose success is largely based on an appeal to emotions rather than reason.

Landon is not spectacular. He is just himself. The voters want a genuine candidate this time.

Starts New Job

Thomas F. Curley of Boston today started his new duties as associate commissioner of the state department of labor and industries, having been administered the oath of office by Governor Curley late yesterday.

She's Sold on Landon

Here is a Landon woman. She has just begun to fight for the Kansas governor. Thrilled by the overwhelming victory in the Tuesday voting battle for presidential preference for Alfred M. Landon, Mrs. Mildred W. Raeder, of Dedham, declares that she is in the Landon battle until election day in November—when she feels that this Republican must win.

Women are rallying to the support of Governor Alf M. Landon and in him find an ideal presidential candidate, Mrs. Oscar J. Raeder, mother of five and a recent candidate as alternate at large to the Republican convention declared today.

"He speaks our language," the 33-year-old Dedham matron said. "His is a simple philosophy. A woman doesn't have to be a student of politics to understand him."

Although defeated, the attractive matron was happy in the tremendous landslide which her choice for the presidency had achieved in this state.

"Of course, his record cannot be overlooked.

"That budget! What woman, especially a mother and housekeeper, does not know all about a budget? And the difficulties of balancing one.

"So that when a woman sees a balanced budget such as Governor Landon has in Kansas, her whole-hearted support is assured."

tunity to forge ahead by cementing their forces to rally to perfect one of the greatest organizations in the history of the state.

Not satisfied with their sterling victory on primary day, the Landon-for-President headquarters at the Parker House have already laid the foundation for a state-wide organization of clubs, estimating before they are through, will have a membership of upwards of 150,000.

One example of how the district Landon-for-President clubs are flourishing was reported to Landon headquarters from Somerville. There it is estimated that more than 1500 active workers have already been enrolled to pledge the other 13,000 registered Republicans.

MEETING IS CALLED

Representative Philip Sherman, who easily won the contest in Tuesday's primary, for Republican delegate to the state convention, has been designated by the state Landon leaders to organize Somerville. A meet of Republican leaders has been planned at which officers will be chosen and the program for the Landon-for-President Club determined.

With each club having a working unit of several hundred, it is easily seen that a complete canvass of the entire state will be made in the interests of Governor Landon.

The leaders of the Landon-for-President campaign in the state will also go into every small town to bring out the vote.

To this end a central campaign committee will be established in the larger cities and the work of late registration and enrollment will be conducted from these centers to the outlying districts.

The committee has already taken active steps to place machinery in motion that will contact practically 700,000 regular Republican voters in the interest of Governor Landon and to bring about his nomination as the most logical man who can beat the present Raw Deal.

Besides this action, there is another on foot that will bear fruit within the next few days. It is a campaign of education that will place before the Republican voters a complete history of the popular Governor of Kansas.

This publication will be sent to the rank and file of the Republicans throughout the state. It will give an inside view of the Kansas governor, his record and his achievement in balancing the budget of his home state and the endorsements that have been received by him from all over the United States.

Coupled with the above two plans the headquarters have also formed a citizens committee in every large city. Those in charge of these local offices will co-operate with the Landon leaders in an endeavor to properly build a working machine, so that no voter in the Republican ranks will be overlooked.

PLAN CLEAN SWEEP

The aim of the Landon leaders is to not only hold the strength shown by the candidate at the preferential primary of 83 per cent of the entire vote cast by the Republican party, but to make a clean sweep in November by putting Landon over with a full 100 per cent vote.

Today the Landon headquarters at the Parker House are sending some 3000 envelopes containing circulars, buttons and other campaign literature to Republican organizations in the state.

This is considered quite significant, in view of the fact that no widespread attempt was made to circularize the state, and the request, coming as it does not more than 36 hours after the primary election, is indicative of the strong feeling among the Republican party in the state that Governor Landon is the only logical candidate to defeat all comers at the Republican national convention, only a few weeks away in Cleveland.

RALLY TO CANDIDATE

Prominent Republicans in the state are now rallying to the Landon movement. Mayor Raymond H. Cowing of Westfield writes to the Landon headquarters:

"I am 100 per cent plus for Governor Alfred N. Landon for President.

"Kindly send me literature. With assurance of sincere support and personal regards, I am,

"Sincerely yours,

"Raymond H. Cowing."

Ralph Lewis, member of the Board of Selectmen of Nahant, has already begun to organize what he calls, "The Young Voters of Essex County." His organization will take in all affiliated clubs and will conduct an intensive drive for new voters this year.

Representative Charles W. Hedges of Quincy, victorious in the 13th Congressional District, pledged to Landon, in speaking of the stupendous victory of the Kansas governor, said:

"I consider it a great tribute to Governor Landon. We will back him to the last ditch."

GIRL IN STREET, HOUSEWIFE BACK LANDON

There is a new kind of Democrat in Massachusetts, apparently. A Landon Democrat. It goes without saying that a Republican is a Landon Republican.

The Boston Evening American decided it would dig beneath the returns of last Tuesday to find what the average person in Boston thinks of Landon and of his triumph at the poles here.

The result was not really surprising, for it merely echoed what the ballots had already attested—that Governor Alfred M. Landon of Kansas is carrying the colors of Mr. and Mrs. Everybody.

Here's what the inquiring reporter brought home:

Miss Esther Turner, 135 Brighton street, Boston, Nurse, Massachusetts General Hospital:

MISS ESTHER TURNER

"I think Governor Landon of Kansas is a marvelous man, and I'm glad to see that Massachusetts thinks the same way. He's the solid substantial type—and just the Doctor we need to cure our economic ills. I'm sure he'll fare as well throughout the country as he did here."

Miss Leah Harris, 112 Poplar street, Boston, Salesgirl:

MISS LEAH HARRIS

"I'm a Republican—and although not a deep student of politics, I feel that the victory of Governor Landon in Massachusetts certainly shows that the people have given the matter serious and constructive thought and have selected the best man by far."

Mrs. Olive Skjold, 7 Roseberry road, Hyde Park housewife:

MRS. OLIVE SKJOLD

"What do I think of Governor Landon and his victory at the Massachusetts polls? I just hope he gets to be President!

"If he does, and he runs the country as he's run Kansas, we'll all be very lucky. Prosperity—and I mean the right kind—will return."

Miss Lillion Hollowit, 44 Beals street, Brookline, stenographer:

MISS LILLION HOLLOWIT

"I'm a Democrat—but I'm a Landon Democrat if that's possible. I've had enough of brain trusters and an alphabetical administration. We want to do something about all this taxation, too. On his past record Landon has proved what he can do if given the chance. I say let's unite and see that he gets it."

New York Rallies to Kansan

New York, May 1 (US)—With the Massachusetts primaries offering convincing proof Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas has caught the popular fancy of the voters, Republican leaders predicted the Kansan's nomination for President would insure the election of a Republican governor here.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the Republican state committee last night the rapid growth of Landon sentiment was the chief topic of conversation.

While New York's delegates must go to the national convention in June uninstructed, there was strong sentiment among many of the executive committee for action which would insure a solid Landon vote on the first ballot at the convention.

The Landon supporters on the committee were frank to admit they were actuated by selfish motives.

FARLEY SEES ONLY LANDON

Washington, May 1 (INS)—Whatever some elements in the Republican party may think, the Democratic high command is convinced that Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas will be President Roosevelt's opponent in this fall's campaign.

Postmaster-General James A. Farley, who doubles in brass as chairman of the Democratic national committee, told International News Service today that, based on his political experience, he would judge the Kansas governor to be "in the bag" for the Republican presidential nomination.

OLD GUARD REACTIONARIES ABANDON SECRET CAMPAIGN

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Washington, May 1 (US)—Governor Landon's overwhelming victory in Massachusetts has put a definite crimp into the "stop Landon" movement among the reactionary Old Guard interests of the Republican party, it was learned here today.

A secret campaign to deprive Landon of the nomination had been started among the erstwhile big wigs of the party by Charles D. Hilles, Republican national committeeman of New York, who for 20 years has represented powerful Wall Street financial interests in national politics.

Hilles, in his "Stop Landon" campaign has been seeking to enlist J. Henry Roraback, the Connecticut Republican dictator; Perry Howard, who is influential among colored delegates from the South, and others of the old guard who previously had commanded the machinery of the G. O. P.

HILLES INCENSED

The actual causes of Hilles' antagonism to Landon are unstated. It is known he became incensed when he was defeated in his attempt to have the Republican National Committee hold its last meeting behind closed doors.

Hilles was defeated by the younger and liberal forces in the party, headed by John Hamilton of Kansas, who later became national manager of the volunteer campaign to nominate Landon for President.

Hamilton declared in a forceful speech that the independent elements of the party would no longer tolerate "star-chamber politics."

It is also hinted that Hilles has come to regard Governor Landon as an independent liberal who could not be manipulated either as a candidate or as President.

ATTEMPT AT FUSION

There has been some attempt to unite the followers of Senators Borah, Vandenberg and Dickinson, former President Hoover and Colonel Frank Knox in the "stop Landon" campaign.

But the personal ambitions of all these candidates are involved and thus far the movement against the Kansas governor has not been effectively consolidated among them.

The tremendous victory that Landon scored over them in Massachusetts has caused some of them to believe that a "stop Landon" agreement would be barren of results and would be harmful to the Republican party.

Representative Ralph O. Brewster, at present the only Republican congressman from Maine, summarized the feeling that swept over political Washington since the Massachusetts primaries when he declared in a statement:

"The Landon sweep was not only typical of the sentiment throughout New England.

"It demonstrates his strength among the voters in all the industrial states east of the Mississippi.

"It means that under the wise leadership of Landon, the people of the east are ready to join with the people of the west in reaching an actual solution of both agricultural and industrial problems."

BOYS Urged for QUINS

SEGREGATION HELD "BAD"

Hamilton, N. Y., May 1 (AP)—Dr. Donald A. Laird, director of the Colgate University psychological laboratory, expressed belief today the Dionne quintuplets stand a good chance of growing into heart-breakers—and old maids.

Their segregation from other children while very young may make them man-haters, he said.

"Those guardians are going to have their hands full as the 'quins' grow up," the psychologist said. "The small fortune which each will have accumulated will, of course, be a good marriage lure to selfish, fortune-hunting young men.

"But the girls are likely to be heart-breakers in their own right. They were born prematurely, and it is a general rule for those born while very small to be better looking—the typical doll-faced persons.

Better Looking

"For that matter, small babies are usually better looking than large babies, which is one reason why women are better looking than men. Men get started in life with the handicap of being larger babies and, in a way of speaking, having their faces stepped on at birth.

"The Quins are likely to be particularly good-looking young women who will leave a lot of broken hearts in their trail.

"The marriage chances of the Quins, however, may already be diminishing since they are surrounded too completely by women. Unless men come into girls' lives while they are still very young, they are predisposed to become old maids, even man-haters.

"It would be a good plan to disinfect a few of the little boys around Callander and let the Quins learn to play with them. If they don't start playing with boys soon, and if they do not go to school with boys, the chances of their being honest-to-goodness heart-breakers are increased enormously."

1 Dead, Fear Many Missing in Flood

Elk City, Okla., May 1 (AP)—A Chicago man was believed drowned today and more than a score of persons were feared missing in a sudden flood that swept through eastern Elk City following a five-inch rain. The missing man was identified tentatively as George Bates, 40, Chicago grocer.

Flood waters also swept away the dam of Elk City's reservoir. Fear was held for the safety of a half-dozen farm families living below the dam.

"Suicide? Why, I Have Everything to Live For"

Quincy Man Slugged And Robbed

An amazing story of having been waylaid by two bandits, then left to lie unconscious in a Granite street parking space all night, was reported to Quincy police today.

The victim, William L. White, 66, Beale street, Quincy, a federal relief worker, said he was awakened from his plight today by the sun shining in his eyes.

White said he received $13.40 wages last night and went to market. He next took a short cut through the parking space. It was dark there and the robbers set upon him. He awoke today to find money and food gone.

Solons Adjourn, Warwick Bill Dies

Providence, May 1—Sleepy members of the Rhode Island Legislature emerged from the State House early today. The General Assembly adjourned at 7:15 a. m., after a full day and night of wrangling.

The revised Warwick chapter bill, which held up prorogation of the Assembly, finally died in committed to enable the Legislature to adjourn. Police Chief Henry J. Ledoux thus remains as chief of Warwick's police.

'I Dropped Gun,' Actress Says

New York, May 1 (INS)—The big Broadway mystery—Did or did not blonde Doris Dudley attempt to commit suicide?—continued apace today with the actress vehemently insisting the shooting, which sent her to York hospital, was an accident.

Shown a passionate love note she is supposed to have left for Sidney Kingsley, Pulitzer Prize playwright, the 18-year-old daughter of Bide Dudley, radio commentator, said:

"That note is one I wrote to Sidney some months ago. It had no reference to suicide. It concerned personal matters. The note was lying on a desk in the living room of Sidney's apartment. The police picked it up and connected it at once with a suicide attempt. They just leaped at the wrong conclusion."

The text of the note was as follows:

"I don't believe even yet I can love you enough to do this, and give up a swell career. I love you and you are angry with me. I guess you were even right regarding all the things you called me, but I love you more than life.

(Signed) "I LOVE YOU."

Miss Dudley, whose condition was much improved today, explained that she and Sidney frequently quarreled about her career as an actress. The playwright, she said, insisted she give up her stage work when they marry, which Miss Dudley was reluctant to do. The note, she added, was written during one of these quarrels.

The actress was wounded in the curred in by Kingsley—was that she was wounded when a .22 calibre rifle, which she was carrying from one room to the other, fell and was discharged.

Edward Pays Honor Only To 'Wally'

London, May 1 (INS)—An unusual item appeared in the "Gossip Column" of the Evening Star today. It read:

"The King is not yet making appearances in public except in the execution of the most necessary duties, but he is occasionally dining quietly with old and close personal friends.

"Mrs. Ormond Lawson Johnston had a very small dinner party night before last which His Majesty honored with his presence. After dinner there was music.

"Among the very few guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Simpson. He is a Canadian, educated in America, who, having served in the Guards, is now 'in shipping' in the city.

"Mrs. Simpson is American-born, well known in West End society for her chic clothes, the excellence of her table and her charm as friend and hostess."

Mrs. Simpson, known to her intimates as "Wally," is the former Wallis Warfield, of an old Baltimore family. Petite, auburn-haired, she has been seen in company with King Edward frequently on the French Riviera during the past year or two when the King, as Prince of Wales, had more time for social activity.

At Nice and at Biarritz, French resort on the Bay of Biscay, the Prince and Mrs. Simpson frequently sunned on the beach, had luncheon, and dined and danced together last year.

Writ May Free Trio in Jail

Judge John M. Gibbs of Suffolk superior court today ordered issuance of a habeas corpus writ so that a South End man, now in Charles street jail, may testify on Monday about an affidavit which aims at freeing another man and two women, also in jail.

Lester Stackpole of Roxbury got four months when convicted of driving a hit-run automobile. Miss Velma Tillot of Cambridge and Mrs. Dorothy Temple of Dorchester were jailed for three months for alleged perjury.

The affidavit filed in superior court sets forth that John J. McDonnell of Andrew street, South End, was at the wheel of the automobile. Stackpole and the women witnesses had claimed that "another man" was driving. Motions for new trials for the trio will be heard Monday.

LOVE of Baroness BARED

SOBS STORY IN BALM SUIT

New York, May 1 (US)—How he met the willowy brunette, Baroness Claire De Bulow, through his bootlegger was recounted in supreme court here by Maurice Manasse, Wall street broker, from whom the former mannequin asks $300,000 heart balm.

His second wife, the former Louise Brooks of Boston, glared at the baroness during the proceedings.

Manasse's testimony flatly contradicted the assertions of the baroness that he had promised to marry her after they had become intimate. The case is expected to go to the jury late today.

Manasse, who lives at 1133 Park Avenue, escorted his diminutive blonde wife into court and she furnished a piquant contrast to the lithe grace of the baroness, who wept frequently throughout the hearing.

With Bootlegger

The broker, himself a tall, dark-haired man with a gangling figure, said he met the baroness, who is the widow of a descendant of the Marshal Bulow of Waterloo fame, on Fifth Avenue in November, 1928. He said:

"She was walking with my bootlegger."

He admitted seeing her frequently thereafter until March of the following year, when he became engaged to his present wife. He testified that on the baroness' first visit to his eight-room suite in a midtown hotel they became intimate and when, on the following October, she said she was to bear his child, he told her:

"This looks like blackmail."

Three judges in special sessions recently ruled him the father of the child, which was in court yesterday with his mother.

'I Was Fool'

Before Manasse took the stand the baroness concluded her testimony, in which she admitted she had resumed relations with the broker after the birth of the boy. Manasse was married at the time, she said, and explained:

"I was willing to do everything I could to have a father for my baby."

Describing how she felt when she had heard Manasse had married, she sobbed:

"I felt as if the bottom had dropped out of my world. I realized I'd been a terrible fool to believe what he told me."

"Don't Cry, Mummy," Is Son's Helpful Plea

ROGER DE BULOW BARONESS CLAIRS DE BULOW

Roger, son of the Baroness Claire de Bulow, wipes tears from eyes of his mother after her trying day in the New York Supreme Court, where she is suing Maurice Manasse for $300,000 heart balm. Manasse told the court he had met the baroness through his bootlegger. A court has ruled Manasse is the father of the child.

Illness of Wife Linked to Suicide

Despondency over the illness of his wife is believed today to have caused James J. Campbell, 38, of Westminster street, Hyde Park, to take his own life.

He was found seated in a parked car with a bullet wound in his head and a rifle beside him.

NAVY URGES 25 MILLIONS MORE TO MODERNIZE

Copyright, 1936, by International News Service

Washington, May 1 — A new modernization program to strengthen the fighting power of battleships, aircraft carriers, and heavy cruisers has been submitted to Congress by the Navy Department.

Calling for the expenditure of around $25,000,000, the new program is in addition to the naval building programs under way and pending in Congress.

It has been submitted to the Senate and House naval affairs committees and an intensive drive will be made at the next session.

Designed to prevent the Navy's aging battleships, aircraft carriers and heavy cruisers from becoming obsolete, the program is regarded as of the outmost importance by the naval high command.

It calls for modern compartmentation in all battleships at an estimated cost of $6,000,000. All of Uncle Sam's battleships are now considered to possess inadequate compartmentation.

RAISES SHIPS' GUNS

It also calls for modernization of armament, especially strengthening of anti-aircraft batteries and elevation of turret guns, on the battleships New York and Texas.

It provides for reconditioning of existing obsolete fire-control installations in the battleships California and Tennessee and the obsolete propelling machinery in the Oklahoma, New York and Texas.

It calls for extensive improvements on the aircraft carriers Saratoga and Lexington. These ships, originally battle-cruiser hulls converted into aircraft carriers, have been in service since about 1927. The improvements call for extensive changes in the flight decks to bring them up to the standard of the new carriers, the Yorktown and Enterprise. Changles involve installation of forward arresting gear so planes can be flown onto the ships over the bow as well as over the stern.

IMPROVED BOMBING

Improvement of the bombing and torpedo-storage facilities of the carriers, also is provided.

New anti-aircraft guns and equipment are providede under the program for about ten of the Navy's heavy cruisers. The existing anti-aircraft equipment on those vessels are now regarded as inadequate to protect them from serious damage or destruction by a modern aerial armada.

HAILE DECIDES TO SURRENDER CAPITAL

render his kingdom to the soldiers of Premier Mussolini.

An Italian airplane circled overhead as the Emperor called the diplomatic corps to the Imperial Palace. After tense consultation, his advisers told the Emperor not to give in.

The Emperor and the foreign diplomats agreed upon "the absolute justice' of the Ethiopian cause, and ascribed recent Ethiopian defeats solely to the overwhelming numbers and superior equipment of the modern enemy.

EMPRESS TO FLEE CAPITAL

To protect Addis Ababa's large civilian population and the hundreds of foreigners here, the Negus decided to continue to keep Addis Ababa an open town, without military concentrations or fortifications, and allow the Italian armies to enter peacefully.

The Empress Waizeru Menen and all of the royal family except the Negus and Crown Prince Asfaou Wosan were believed preparing to flee to Jerusalem.

The emperor and the crown prince will remain with the government, probably leaving the capital for the West. There are no Italian armies in that direction, the enemy closing in from the northwest, the north, the northeast and the southeast.

The emperor called a second conference of his foreign advisers for this afternoon to discuss precautions necessary for the protection of foreigners in the event of Italian occupation.

Advance units of the Italian northern armies were believed only a few hours away from the capital, although it was pointed out actual occupation may be delayed a few days.

Haile Reported in Deal With Duce to Save Throne

By WILLIAM HILLMAN

(Copyright, 1936, by Universal Service)

London, May 1 (US)—Emperor Hailie Selassie, using a hidden wireless outfit in Addis Ababa and secret emissaries, is making a last-minute attempt to save his throne by reaching an agreement with Premier Mussolini, word reaching important circles in London today stated.

The Ethiopian Emperor, with Italian troops nearing his stricken capital, realizes all is lost.

He is attempting to propose to Mussolini that Italy take over control of Ethiopia under circumstances similar to the British rule in Egypt, but permit him to remain on the throne.

Should Mussolini balk at Haile Selassie's continued rule, it was added, the emperor might even compromise to the extent of announcing his willingness to abdicate in favor of his son, Crown Prince Asfao Wosan, and thus at least assure continuance of his dynasty.

The plan that the Emperor in his desperation is attempting to place before Mussolini provides:

1—That Haile Selassie shall remain as Negus in a somewhat similiar position to the King of Egypt under British domination.

2—An Italian high commissioner shall run the country.

3—Italy shall control the economic and military machinery of Ethiopia.

4—Italian forces shall police the country.

Rome Prepares for Great Celebration

Copyright, 1936, The Associated Press.

Rome, May 1—Italy, preparing for a general mobilization or "adunata," in celebration of victory against Ethiopia, was informed today that the most recent Fascist advance in East Africa cost the two sides 6,850 casualties.

Marshal Pietro Badoglio reported that his southern forces had occupied Daggah Bur, 150 miles southeast of Harar, after capturing Sasa Baneh, 25 miles away, in a six-day fight.

The commanding marshal of Italian armed forces in East Africa said:

"The enemy lost more than 5000 men. Our losses from April 14, the start of the great battle, were 50 officers dead or wounded and 1,800 troops dead or wounded.

"The warriors of Ras Nasibu who were defeated at Sasa Baneh are in flight along the caravan route to Jijiga.

"On the northern front, our troops occupied Debra Sina and Termaber Hill, while another column reached and forded the Gadula River, about 100 kilometers (62.5 miles) from Addis Ababa.

"In the Debra Tabor sector there were numerous important submissions (of chieftains)."

Djibouti, French Somaliland, May 1 (INS)—All able-bodied Ethiopians were ordered by the Ethiopian government today to return to their country tomorrow and report for military service.

EUROPE GUARDS AGAINST MAY DAY RIOTING

London, May 1 (AP)—Workers and soldiers of several European states marched today in contrasting May Day celebrations.

Vast processions formed under the red banner of Communism in Soviet Russia, Great Britain and Spain, while the dictator-drilled labor organizations of Germany and Italy undertook observances strictly along government lines.

Special precautions were taken in Spain, France and Austria to prevent disorders.

In London, Hyde Park was the rallying point for giant assemblies, addressed by Communist and Socialist leaders.

RED FLAGS FLYING

The most extensive workers' "Maypole festivities" Britain had seen in 10 years were arranged, with four "Maypoles" in Hyde Park, each having for its sole decoration a red flag, flying over the heads of the extremists.

The organizers of London's May Day observance called for a world labor conference for peace and announced that "with the shadow of war and Fascism over Europe," they intended to weld "all peace lovers into one front against war."

Workers' day coincided this year with one of the highlights of the London social season, a fashionable gathering at the Royal Academy for a private exhibition contrasting to the nearby processions of workers.

In Moscow, celebrations took on a military note, with Dictator Joseph Stalin reviewing the Soviet army in Red Square while the Comintern (Communist Internationale) called on all workers of the world to form a united front against Fascism.

RIGHTISTS FLEE PERIL

In Madrid, thousands of leftists demonstrated, but in Granada and some other Spanish provincial capitals, the governors prohibited parades.

Several hundred Rightists were reported crossing into Portugal and Gibraltar from Spain, fearing disorders, but the new Leftist government took nationwide precautions against disturbances. A strike against Spain's entire merchant marine, independent of the May Day celebration, was called at midnight, six syndicates seeking higher wages.

Paris anticipated its most quiet May Day as Leftist leaders forbade demonstrations in view of next Sunday's run-off elections for new deputies.

French Communists and Socialists, bidding for the support Sunday of the moderate left, ordered adherents to refrain from violence and street demonstrations.

ARRESTS IN AUSTRIA

In Berlin, the Hitler youth detachments began assembling at 2:45 a. m., for a great rally five hours later, and der fuehrer's soldiers prepared to march through the streets in "joy day" celebration of thanks to Adolph Hitler and his "glorious army."

In Vienna, Austrian authorities kept a close watch over Communists, Nazis and Socialists, police took several opposition leaders into custody and closed cemeteries as a precaution against disorders. Eighty thousand free movie tickets were distributed to help keep peace.

"Smiley" Finds Shopper All Smiles for Dresses

The I. J. Fox Company's store in Washington street will furnish the dress to the smiling winner in this "Smiley" circle. Watch for "Smiley" today.

Have you met "Smiley"? He spent his time yesterday in the shopping sector of Boston. He picked many smilers. Above is another dress winner. She will be coming to the Boston Evening American office to identify herself and a stardom dress will be hers.

And here's a smiler—Barbara Wilson who, to her surprise, saw herself in the circled photographs of the Boston Evening American.

Even Smiley Picks Blond Girls to Ring

By SMILEY
(The Big-Hearted Photographer)

While I would not like it to go any further, something has got to be done about blondes, because I looked at one of the Smiley dresses today and who was it filled with but another blonde, and this one was an ash one with blue eyes and very nice to be sure.

But what I mean is, why should a good-looking photographer like I am go out and snap a lot of smiling girls in crowds around the town and when they come up in the developer more than a few are blondes.

WON BY SMILING

Not all of them, naturally, but this blonde I saw in the new dress won from the I. J. Fox Washington street store for smiling, is one named Barbara Wilson, 19, of 75 Gibson street, Dorchester, this being a street named for Christopher Gibson and having a school on the corner by the same name.

The reason I know is that I used to play near there right after Dorchester was settled, but this good-looking blonde wasn't even young then or even born, and would hardly recognize me.

Miss Wilson was snapped by no other than me at Washington and Winter streets, where I warned you I might be if I reached there in time. Barbara was the smiling one they picked out only I have nothing to do with that except to take the pictures. She is an ash blonde, so don't blame me, and her picture was in Wednesday's Boston Evening American.

MAYBE ITS TRAFFIC

The other one in Wednesday's American wasn't in yet to be moulded to one of these very swell Stardom dresses, but it may be that she is struggling through traffic although nothing definite is coming in about that.

The only thing I hope is she is a red-head or anything but a blonde, because I married a blonde and her sister is one and there are three children with the rumors they also will follow in the footsteps and be light-headed.

Incidentally there is still one girl missing who smiled and this girl is still without her dress, although I do not think she could be going around in what the girls call a slip.

I mean the second girl that a good-looking photographer snapped in a crowd at Fenway Park last Sunday, although I do not blame her for getting confused about things, especially after how the game came out, I think it was Yankees 12 and Red Sox 3 after the Red Sox had scored six runs in the first inning while I was taking her smiling. I was the photographer.

THREE LEFT

That leaves this one on Sunday and two yesterday that haven't been in yet, but they ought to because these are awfully good dresses. And now I got to go out again and snap some more girls smiling when they don't know it, but if they get married they will get over smiling, especially if they are blondes, as I tell my wife.

Simonds to Protest Insult by Nazis

Los Angeles, May 1 (US)—Declaring he will seek official redress for alleged Nazi terrorism on the high seas, to which he says he and his wife were subjected aboard the German cruise liner Reliance, Alvan T. Simonds, wealthy Boston manufacturer, has arrived at Los Angeles harbor.

With Mrs. Simonds, he came from Honolulu in an American liner. The couple left the Reliance at Minala, after 10 days and nights of what he described as "hell at sea."

Simonds will press his demand for an official apology when he reaches Boston, he said.

LAST RITES FOR DROWNED BOY

Lawrence T. McCarthy, nine, of Pierce street, Hyde Park, drowning victim whose body was recovered from the Neponset river, Hyde Park, yesterday, after a month of ceaseless effort by Metropolitan police, was buried today in Fairview cemetery. A mass will be sung at the Most Precious Blood Church at 8 o'clock Monday.

The lad fell into the flood-swollen river from the West street trestle on March 20, and the recovery of his body climaxed unprecedented efforts by the Metropolitan force under the direction of Captain Joseph Rooney of the Blue Hills station. The river was dragged 12 hours daily and patrolled on one occasion by 50 Civilian Conservation Corps workers. On another, Owen McMahon, metropolitan district commission worker, nearly lost his life when thrown from a boat in the flood waters.

Fred Wallace, Somerville diver, was hired by Captain Rooney to explore the river bottom and boy scouts were placed at vantage points to watch for the body in case Wallace should locate it and loosen it in the current. Yesterday Wallace found and freed the body and it was recovered by John McCarthy, 16, a boy scout, stationed on a little bog near where Wallace was working.

British General, Nash, Dies

London, May 1 (AP)—Major-General Sir Philip Nash, 61, who was the British inspector-general of transportation on the Western front in 1918, died today.

Tried to Burn Own Babies, Police Say

Worcester, May 1—Francis Hogan, 22-year-old father of two small children, was today held by police on a charge of trying to burn his house with his two infants in it.

The reason for the alleged act, according to authorities, was spite against his wife, who wouldn't stay home from the movies.

Police were called to his home in Shale street last night when his wife informed them that the door was locked and she couldn't get in. They learned of the quarrel about the movies and awoke Hogan, who was asleep on a second floor porch.

While they were questioning him, a tenant in the dwelling said a fire had started on a lower floor and that he put it out. Mrs. Hogan then told the police her husband had threatened to burn down the house. Hogan is booked on an old charge, specifically, "attempting to burn down a dwelling in the nighttime."

BULLETS STOP BRIGHTON MAN

After a chase during which six shots were fired, William Merritt, 27, of Lothian road, Brighton, was arrested at gunpoint today.

With his arrest, by Sergeant John P. Maune and Detective Joseph Maguire, police announced they have put an end to the series of breaks in Brighton stores during the past few weeks.

Merritt was charged with breaking and entering a delicatessen store on Chiswick road and the theft of $9.87.

A 30-inch furnace poker was strapped to Merritt's right leg, concealed under his trousers, police said. According to police, Merritt confessed to 15 other breaks. A camera which was stolen from a Brighton pharmacy yesterday, was found in Merritt's apartment, police said.

POSSE HUNTS HINGHAM MAN

A searching party of neighbors, friends and police today combed three miles of woods in Hingham for Charles Burkes, 24, of Eldridge court, Hingham, missing since Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Ryan, with whom Burkes has made his home since he was a child, said he had been in ill health for several months.

Should Burkes not be found in the woods, police said they would search Mill pond, directly in the rear of the Ryan home.

A searching party of about 20 planned to cover the entire wooded area from Peck's pasture to East street.

Mrs. Ryan told police she believed Burkes had wandered into the woods and rested, but, perhaps, was too weak to arise.

She said he had never disappeared before.

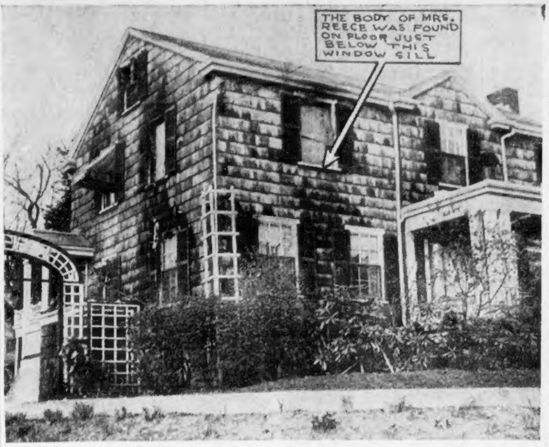
Tragedy House Host Balked in Heroism



THE BODY OF MRS. REECE WAS FOUND ON FLOOR JUST BELOW THIS WINDOW SILL

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Ingalls in Eliot Memorial road, Newton, where birthday party was given for Mrs. Marianne Reece last night and where she was burned to death hours after the party ended. Authorities said Mrs. Reece obviously had tried to reach the window.

WIFE DIES IN FIRE; INQUEST ORDERED

uate and president of the Reece Folding Machine Company, and their nine-months-old daughter, Marietta, were asleep at the time of the tragedy.

INQUEST IS ORDERED

Dr. T. Morton Gallagher, medical examiner, announced after an investigation that he would ask the court to hold an inquest into Mrs. Reece's death.

"There are mysterious angles to it," he said.

However, he gave it as his opinion that the fire originated in the guest room from a cigarette and that Mrs. Reece died accidentally, being first suffocated, then burned.

Mrs. Reece was 33, a graduate of Boston University. She was the daughter of Mrs. Susan Taylor Jones of Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay, and a sister of W. Randolph Taylor. She and Reece had been married only 18 months.

Mrs. Reece and Mrs. Ingalls studied art together at a Boston school several years ago and shared an interest in painting which was the chief topic of discussion at the dinner party.

MAID DISCOVERS FIRE

Sudden illness of Reece prevented his attendance. Rather than disrupt the plans of her hostess at the last minute, Mrs. Reece decided to go alone.

Ingalls said he retired soon after dinner. The two women remained up for about two hours, discussing art, and Mrs. Reece finally decided to accept an invitation to remain over night.

The fire, which was confined chiefly to the guest room and caused damage of $2500, was discovered about 2 a. m. by a maid in the residence of a neighbor. Robert L. Smith, 20, a member of the household employing the maid, rushed to the Ingalls home and pounded on the door, awakening Mr. and Mrs. Ingalls.

They rushed to Mrs. Reece's room, but were driven back by a burst of flame when they opened the door. Both several times risked their lives in an attempt to penetrate the flames and when they relinquished their attempts found that the fire had spread outside the room, to block their own escape by each of two stairways.

DOWN ROPE LADDER

In their own bedroom, Mr. and Mrs. Ingalls had a rope ladder, which Ingalls bought some time ago in New York.

"Some of my friends laughed over it," he recalled today. "But it came in handy."

Before using it, Ingalls dropped two Pekinese dogs out the window into the arms of young Smith. Then he and his wife scrambled down the rope.

Ingalls then entered the first floor of his home by forcing a door and aroused Miss Wynn, who had slept through the excitement.

When firemen arrived a few minutes later, the frantic couple informed them Mrs. Reece was trapped in the second-story bedroom.

Several firemen went up a ladder to the bedroom and found the body of the young mother lying face downward on the floor of the room.

Her head and the upper part of her body were badly burned.

She had apparently made an effort to escape through the window of the room, firemen said, but had been overcome by smoke and flames.

Dr. Gallagher ordered the body removed to Newton Hospital mortuary. Finding that rigor mortis already had set in, he theorized that Mrs. Reece had been suffocated by smoke some time before the flames were discovered. The nature of her burns and the burns on the bed indicated the fire started in the bed while she slept.

Police concurred in the medical examiner's belief a cigarette probably caused the blaze.

Reece was graduated from Harvard in 1911. Ingalls is an executive in a Newbury street advertising agency.

Lost Tuba Fretted Harry, the Cabby

New York, May 1 (INS)—Losing a tuba is like stepping over an elephant—it's hard to do. But some absent-minded musician accomplished the feat today. When he jumped out of Harry Greenberg's taxicab he left his tuba behind.

Greenberg had to struggle for 15 minutes and partially dismantle his cab in order to get the instrument out. A tuba, in case anyone's forgotten, is the biggest of an orchestra's wind instruments.

Boston Film Here May 8

Interest increases by leaps and bounds in "It Happened in Boston," all-amateur talking picture sponsored by the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser and the Loew's Theaters.

According to present plans, the film will be presented at Loew's State and Orpheum theaters during the week beginning next Friday.

With the filming of the production already well under way, Leonard De Menna, director, is convinced that the final product will more than satisfy thousands of the credulous.

"It was positively amazing to observe the wealth of talent possessed by ambitious Boston boys and girls."

THE SENATOR

Curley Still Best Bet in Senate Race

The Senator is in a very expansive mood when he comes in and in fact he is so expansive that he cheeps right up and he says, "All around and around, Timmie," and by this the boys who line the mahogany, wondering what will the Works Progress Administration do, take a very great heart indeed and forget this problem and be- [illegible] ry cheery.

"[illegible] I see you last, Timmie, we meg two hits and make no errors," says The Senator, "and one of these hits is such that it probably clatters about our ears for days at a time without cessation."

THE SENATOR

"Without what, Senator?" asks Timmie, who is soft for a high, fast one.

"Without cessation, Timmie, you dub," says The Senator, "or, speaking down to such as the likes of you, without a letup. I refer, Timmie," adds The Senator, "to Police Commissioner Gene McSweeney's yell for more policemen, which are needed by the orderly citizens but probably resented by your kind, who ever have been policeman-baiters."

WHEN TO CRACK

Well, Timmie knows when to crack and when not to crack, and this time he knows it is not the time, so he sets about shaking up [illegible] and that and playing with the spigots in the way of filling the boys' free orders.

"This call for 100 more policemen," continues The Senator, "is something I predicted days ago and which I said at the time is likely to go into the courts in the matter of how far Mayor Freddie can go in blocking off the directions of a lad appointed by Governor Jim. If you recall, Timmie," say The Senator modestly, "this is what my prediction was."

Timmie says he recalls, but The Senator is not satisfied with this and he says:

"Another thing you may recall, Timmie, is the warning I give you that Governor Jim probably lets a sly hint drop that he runs again for governor and it is no other than two nights ago that the hint is slipped at Worcester. But as I warn you before, Timmie, do not let this fool you, on account of Governor Jim eventually runs for United States Senator, and I still stick to the idea that Governor Jim's hint is only in the way of a club to swing his budget."

At this point Timmie is busy sliding this nourishment and that to various points along the mahogany, where the boys grab their free drinks, and so Timmie does not make a remark. But The Senator keeps on in words such as these:

HARLOW FOR HURLEY

"The congratulations being over, Timmie, and the April elections also, let us move on now to other things. One of these other things is a discovery I made today that Leo Harlow, who once is state commander for the Legion, comes out strong for Lieutenant Governor Joe Hurley in his bid for governor. Leo lives in Bristol county, the same from which Joe comes from, but two years ago Leo works for General Charlie Cole."

"Uh-huh!" say Timmie, who is still busy with his large order and who still has to see The Senator's billfold come out.

"Speaking about the governor fight, Timmie," says The Senator, "it may surprise you that Congressman George Holden Tinkham recently gives very serious thought about running for governor, but as I understand it now he gives all this thought up and will stay in the Congress fight. It has been long years, Timmie, since we have a governor with whiskers."

TIMMIE IS MUM

There is still no answer from Timmie, so The Senator goes on:

"Well, Timmie," he says, "maybe the word that ladies have entered certain races will wake you up and bring you to some attention, and one of these ladies I speak of is Mrs. Hilda Hedstrom Quirk, who is the city registrar of births, deaths and marriages. I understand that friends of this lady are urging her to take part in the November election as independent candidate for state auditor. She would have, as I get it, a large vote from the ladies of both major parties, as well as the united support of Mayor Freddie's organization, in which she has hundreds of friends.

"The other lady, Timmie," says The Senator, "is Mrs. Mildred Gleason Harris, sister of City Councilor Dick Gleason, and this lady, I understand, seeks the Democratic nomination to the Legislature from Ward 9 in the South End. This, Timmie, is always a Gleason stronghold, and she expects to fill the vacancy created by the death of another brother, Representative John Gleason, early this year."

There is still nothing coming from Timmie except a grunt, and The Senator makes no secret that he resents Timmie ignoring him.

New Lottery Suspects

Other persons in addition to the 25 named in secret indictments returned by the federal grand jury are expected to be involved when that body completes its probe of the lottery investigation of postoffice inspectors here.

Edward VIII May Visit Riviera

London, May 1 (INS)—King Edward VIII may include a visit to the Mediterranean and the Riviera on his summer program, the London Daily Mail reported today, adding the British monarch may use the royal yacht, Victoria Albert, for the trip.

The paper said he also hopes to spend a short holiday at Balmoral Castle.

Poet Housman Dies

Cambridge, Eng., May 1 (AP)—Alfred Edward Housman, 77, poet and Latin professor, died today. Dr. Housman attained fame late in the nineteenth century on his volume of lyrics entitled "The Shropshire Lad."

Another Delay for Mrs. Grace Prior

Sentencing of Mrs. Grace Prior of Linden street, Allston, found guilty of manslaughter over a month ago, was again postponed today until Monday. Reason for the delay was given the same as before, to permit her attorney more time to restudy the evidence in the case.

The woman was found guilty of shooting George Frame of Beverly, fatally, in her home last October

New England Police Stories

'The Party Girl Tragedy'

As Told by Ace Crime Reporters

Found Romance Trail End in Suicide Pact

This is the 87th in a series of true detective stories from New England police annals being presented daily by the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Fred Perkins, one of the ace reporters for the American and Sunday Advertiser, relates this gripping story of "The 'Party-Girl' Tragedy."

By FRED PERKINS

When Pauline Virginia Clark was 19 years old, the greatest war the world had ever seen was raging—and the United States was in it!

But war didn't mean tears and sacrifice and suffering to lovely, dark-haired, vibrant Polly.

To her, it meant the [illegible] of flag-draped streets, the exciting undertone of marching feet and crashing bands, the intoxication of being sought after and admired, of being a reigning belle of the gayest night life staid old Boston had ever known.

Too gay, too thrill-hungry Polly Clark was in those days. She had to learn that, later.

Very dearly, in the end, she had to pay for her memories of that year when boys in uniform were marching away, perhaps to their deaths, and when girls in party dresses were saying hello and goodby with kisses!

'All Wonderful Then

Yet it was all pretty wonderful while it lasted. And the 19-year-olds of today, with their naive peace-at-any-price societies and their [illegible] masquerадings as [illegible] Mothers of Future Wars, will never know as long as they live what it meant to be young and carefree and beautiful in the spring of 1918.

Pauline Virginia Clark knew what it meant!

She tasted to the fullest the mad and feverish pleasure which can only be snatched on the brink of an abyss into which a [illegible] seems leering to the booming of distant guns and the ecstatic pulse beat of near-at-hand saxophones.

Just a natural part of early 1918's gay insanity seemed the romance of Polly Clark and her handsome young naval officer.

A lieutenant commander he was, and a dashing figure in his blue broadcloth and gold braid. He was introduced to Pauline Virginia Clark at an afternoon tea or party at the Hotel Westminster.

To the navy man, celebrating a hard-won shore leave between trips through submarine-infested waters, the little Clark girl with her dainty loveliness and her breathless enthusiasms must have seemed a personification of the [illegible] of which he might be deprived forever any voyage by a [illegible] boat's deadly torpedo!

Didn't Live Happy—

So Polly and her lieutenant were married—but they didn't live happily ever after!

The war came to an end. U-boats no longer menaced the [illegible] The naval commander realized that his girl wife in Boston would handicap him, socially and professionally.

A divorce was in order. Pauline Virginia Clark, still young, still lovely, but not so vibrant now, resumed her maiden name.

She guessed she wouldn't long be lonesome.

She guessed there were other men in the world beside the husband she hadn't held.

She guessed there would be someone to take care of her.

And in all those guesses she was right, pathetically and tragically right!

She never married again, however. And she discovered that a girl is only 19 once, that the springtime of 1918 would never come again, that new parties, somehow, lacked the thrill of old ones.

There were lots of parties nevertheless in the life of Pauline Virginia Clark during 1919, 1920, 1921 and 1922.

There was a lot of drinking too and an endless procession of men. There were men who gave and men who took.

In 1922 Polly Clark, when she couldn't sleep nights because of nerves rawhided by a [illegible], used to think back.

The 1918 memories were glorious. But they were always growing fainter and fainter.

The memories of the in-between years were alternately gay and horrible.

There was only one antidote for memories, Polly Clark had decided by 1922.

You had to keep [illegible] from thinking.

Parties helped you with that program.

Harvard Sweetheart

So Polly's parties at her luxurious Newbury street apartment, grew gayer and more incessant.

They were so frequent that the one man who had a latch-key, the man who paid the bills, could not help but learn of them. He came in unexpectedly one night. Then he stalked out again forever.

There remained, in Polly's scheme of things, only two men who mattered.

One of these was a Harvard undergraduate son of a wealthy Philadelphia banking family. He was a likable youngster, intense, idealistic, sure that Polly was as clean and as fine as his own romantic dreams.

"I'm going to marry him," Pauline Virginia Clark, 23 years old now, but still beautiful, told her party guests on the night of March 15, 1922.

Even as she said it Polly knew it wasn't so, could not be so, even though the boy, himself, had asked her, yes begged her to "honor" him by becoming his wife.

Such a marriage, Polly Clark knew, would dishonor him, not honor him. She couldn't deceive him, yet she couldn't tell him the truth.

It was a heart-breaking dilemma.

But on hand to show Polly a way out of it was the other man who still mattered in her life.

He was Otto Halder Larsen, tall, blond, handsome, brilliant mentally. He was a Norwegian. They called him "Polly's Viking!"

About Larsen, however, there was little of the swashbuckling lust for living which he should have inherited from his Norse ancestors.

He was a thinker, not a doer.

He was given to moods, introspection, to long periods of rebellion against the injustices of this world. He thought of love as of the mind, not as of the heart.

Yet his passion for Pauline Virginia Clark was very far from being intellectual.

Fiercely Jealous

A fierce jealousy which he tried in vain to deny even to himself, raged in his veins at the thought of a marriage between Polly and her Harvard suitor.

Yet Larsen could not offer his name to the Newbury street party-girl!

Larsen came from a proud old Christiania family. He was in the United States only as a student, his expenses defrayed by a scholarship which he had won at his university in Norway.

It wouldn't do for him to bring a wife home to Christiania—especially such a wife as Pauline Virginia Clark. About her past, Larsen had no illusions. He was 30 years old. And he had been around.

It was Larsen's belief that Polly, spiritually, was still unstained and youthful. He, himself, was a mystic. But his parents were practical. And this was a practical world.

Relentlessly, Larsen's logic led him to one inevitable conclusion.

Happiness for him and happiness for Polly Clark lay in quitting this world.

How easily, quickly, painlessly they might do so, none knew better than he, for chemistry was the subject in which he was specializing at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In his laboratory, Larsen prepared a draught of one of the most deadly poisons known to science.

Death Was in Bottle

PAULINE VIRGINIA CLARK

He mixed it skillfully and [illegible], blending its acid and [illegible] in such proportions as to make it potable yet infallibly lethal.

There would be time for a person drinking that poison to [illegible] once! There might possibly be time for the [illegible] to be set aside. Then death would come, like the swoop of a guillotine's blade, too swift to permit suffering or thought.

That poison was the "out" which Otto Halder Larsen offered Pauline Virginia Clark.

It was the sort of [illegible] she must have [illegible] cure for her memories.

Maybe in his other world [illegible] which Larsen was [illegible] there would be a way [illegible] again the war-time spring of [illegible].

Or maybe, there would be just forgetfulness!

Either alternative would suit "Party-Girl" Polly.

One afternoon, not long before the engagement [illegible] Wednesday night, March 15, 1922, Polly showed a girl friend of hers a little crystal perfume bottle.

"Pretty, isn't it?" Polly said. "Yet, there's poison enough in that to kill 20 men!"

Polly's friend, horrified, protested.

"Don't worry," Polly said. "I'm not taking any of it—now! It will end my troubles, though, when I'm ready."

She Was Ready

She was ready on [illegible] of March 15.

That was the night [illegible] announced her proposed [illegible] her Harvard sweetheart. He was present. He beamed. It seemed to him such a little time to wait. The wedding was set for [illegible] March 18.

Otto Halder Larsen, [illegible] was also present. [illegible] So were two other young [illegible] a girl from Worcester.

The party was [illegible] was almost [illegible] out-of-town guests [illegible] home.

"Please wait just a few minutes," their pretty hostess begged them. "I've a surprise for you."

A few minutes later, the girl guest and one of the men were making coffee in Polly's tiny kitchen [illegible]

"Bring some water, quick," he shouted. "Polly has taken something. She seems terribly ill."

[illegible]

'Viking' There

In the general excitement, tall blond stern-faced Otto Halder Larsen didn't join [illegible]

[illegible] crystal perfume bottle from her limp white hand.

"I'll call a doctor," he said.

Then he left the apartment.

There ensued three days of intensive investigation into the mystery of Pauline Virginia Clark's death. [illegible] fact finders delved.

One probe, veiled in official secrecy, was conducted by white [illegible]

[illegible]

If they had found him alive they would have charged him with murder!

But they found him dead!

Girl Took Death Drink Mixed by 'Other Man'

His body was discovered Sunday morning, March 19, lying in the Fenway near the Boston Art Museum.

In Larsen's pocket was a crystal perfume bottle, empty now!

[illegible] part, as follows.

Medical Examiner Magrath:

"I met Miss Clark about six weeks ago at her apartment on Newbury street. She was already at that time excessively depressed and told me incidents from her life of such character that I [illegible] resisted the temptation death in [illegible]

[illegible] had long ago decided upon how the end should be when her many devoted friends no longer could divorce her from the misery of her own thoughts.

"Knowing me to be a chemist, she asked me to get her some poison. I [illegible] from her the promise that she would not use it until her mother came back. She gave her promise, and I prepared for her a solution of potassium cyanide, partly neutralized with acid, although I did not anticipate to what end.

"On the night of Miss Clark's death I was a guest at her home. We had a pleasant and harmonious evening, enjoying dancing and music.

"I had a suspicion that Miss Clark had told her friend about the poison, and also that she contemplated to break her promise. I took the vial, but Miss Clark saw it and tried to regain it. I gave it willingly back to her after having made her affirm her promise not to use it until her mother came back. Few minutes later while I was in the hall I heard Mr. —— cry out for me. Rushing into the parlor I found Miss Clark dying in a chair. I tried to make her throw up the poison but neither mine nor Mr. ——'s efforts succeeded. It was then I, knowing the effects of the poison, notified by telephone physicians and then left the apartment, unnecessary [illegible] I preferred to wait until my testimony would be of value, then give it and take the rest of the cyanide, as I intended to do already before I had the privilege of meeting Miss Clark, whom I truly estimate to be one of the world's finest women.

"Hoping this will clear up the mystery, I am, yours.

"Sincerely,

"O. Halder Larsen."

Tomorrow in the Boston Evening American the true detective series will continue with another thrilling New England crime story.

Bridal of Baron

More Widows Seek To Marry Frary

This is the fourth and concluding article revealing the romantic adventures of Baron Frary von Blomberg, formerly William T. Frary [illegible] Mrs. [illegible] Snow [illegible] Back Bay widow, announced several days ago, has been postponed at the insistence of relatives of Mrs. Snow. The [illegible]

By BARON FRARY VON BLOMBERG

Since the Sunday Advertiser printed the first story announcing the coming marriage of Mrs. Snow and myself, I have been deluged with letters from all parts of the country. Mrs. Snow has likewise received a great number of them.

Some of these letters—a lot of them, indeed—seethed with words of condemnation, assailing both of us for what they termed the mistake of Youth [illegible] with [illegible]

[illegible] not influenced us in the least. I may be youthful, but I know my own mind. I am old enough for that.

COMPARED NOTES

We met last night and compared notes [illegible] We [illegible] [illegible] over them. It is a strange quirk of human [illegible] that anybody [illegible] wishes to rush anywhere to offer advice [illegible] succeed.

People generally want to run the life of the other fellow. No matter whether they are failures or successes. Usually it is the person who has not made a success of his own life who has the most advice to offer upon the spur of the moment.

ANOTHER SIDE

But there is another side to letter writing. In my case this side is stronger than the other. For I have received a vast number of [illegible] letters [illegible] paper [illegible] some of them offer marriage to me in case Mrs. Snow and I are not married.

Several of these emphasize the fact that the writers have both wealth and position to offer me a life of ease and luxury.

That is the tragedy of aged widows. Their children move away from the home and neglect them. Their friends gradually fade away. By degrees they learn that they are no longer entertaining. They lose track of present day affairs. Besides, a number of people together bore them. They have gone through all that. Then they pine for the companionship of one person, a man, preferably one who has youth, who will wait upon them, anticipate their wants, say kind words to them.

THEY WALK ALONE

I think I can understand them and their reactions. They walk alone down the vale of Loneliness and they do not want to be alone. But what can they do? Lacking physical and mental attractions because of age, they cannot hope to find husbands. They cannot go out seeking them. So that when a man is mentioned in the news as a possible available candidate for their affections, they immediately pounce upon the opportunity.

And while I am honored by these women of wealth and social prestige who have offered me the advantages that any man might desire, I am able to understand the offers. They are merely the pent up cries of lonely hearts.

But all this publicity Mrs. Snow and I have received during the past week has certainly not been of our seeking. We would both like to have it end as quickly as possible. We want to be let alone.

Mrs. Snow will set our marriage at a later date. And when we are married, the marriage ceremony will take place right here in Boston and everybody will know about [illegible] elopement.

COURT SPEEDS DECISION IN HEARST SUIT

Washington, May 1 (US)—A final decision in the [illegible] suit by William Randolph Hearst to halt the wholesale seizure of private telegrams by the Black [illegible] committee has moved a step nearer.

[illegible] District of Columbia Supreme Court yesterday signed an order postponing hearing in that court on the suit brought by the publisher against the Federal Communications Commission, which is jointly charged with the Black committee with the rifling of telegraph files.

The postponement is to permit consideration by the U. S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia of Mr. Hearst's petition that [illegible] take jurisdiction over the [illegible] committee. The lower court [illegible] refused to [illegible] Senate [illegible]

[illegible] filed by [illegible] charged the [illegible] rights of citizens are [illegible]

[illegible] asked that the five committeemen [illegible] headed by Senator [illegible] of Alabama be stripped of their official or representative character and subjected in their persons to the consequences of their individual conduct.

Under appeals court practice the Senate committee members have until May 9 to enter their appearance and file their objections to the petition.

The case then goes before the appeals court justices, who will make their decision on the papers filed. There will be no oral arguments.

If the court decrees the judiciary may examine acts of the Senate probers, the case will be sent back to the Supreme Court for a hearing and decision on the merits.

The issue now pending there, which was stayed by Justice Gordon's order, is against the Federal Communications Commission which is charged with cooperating with the Black committee in the rifling of private papers.

Madrid, May 1 (INS)—Seamen of the Spanish Merchant Marine today declared a general strike effective immediately.

Big Bertha

Dixon, Ill., May 1 (AP)—Three boys who found a large caliber rifle of museum piece vintage decided to find out how it worked.

They fired at a tree, but missed. The slug went through a piece of sheet iron, passed through both walls of a greenhouse, ricocheted off a pavement, tore through the side of a house, crashed through a framed picture and lodged in a wall over the heads of George Tool and family, who were dining.

The Reason

Ottawa, Ont., May 1 (INS)—When Paul De Marky, Hungarian-Canadian pianist, failed to return to the stage of Ottawa Music Hall to take his bows immediately after his performance, the audience thought he was becomingly modest.

After ten minutes had elapsed and he had still failed to return, they thought he was too modest.

Five minutes later they concluded it must be an act.

An usher found De Marky had been locked off-stage by a spring lock on the wing doors.

CHAPTER 35

She turned on her pillow happily, remembering Jimmy and the mutual confession of their feeling for each other. It had been wonderful! The evening that had begun so disappointingly had ended gloriously. She relived every pulsing moment.

Chou-Chou was curled at [illegible] near her now [illegible]

[illegible] expensive [illegible] and putting her [illegible] made [illegible] were [illegible] a banana [illegible] for your [illegible] of Baby [illegible]

[illegible] the [illegible] she [illegible] her [illegible] I'm going to [illegible] for that [illegible] I'm going to [illegible] the top of the [illegible] and then to a very [illegible] restaurant for [illegible] cheer!"

* * *

A [illegible] was at the [illegible] of the [illegible] to the [illegible] of her [illegible] of the [illegible] New York [illegible]

When [illegible] she remembered [illegible] she had [illegible] there was a [illegible] for her and [illegible] a [illegible] leather box, [illegible] her address.

She pressed the spring. The lid [illegible] she gave an amazed gasp.

On a [illegible] lay a gorgeous brooch that was shaped like a [illegible] of diamonds and emeralds, with flowers of ruby and sapphire [illegible] from it.

[illegible] the brooch that was the first real piece of jewelry she had ever received.

She had opened the package in the dressing room, and none of the other employees of the shop were present. That was lucky!

She lifted the brooch from its bed of satin and examined it closely. It was real! It was set in platinum!

It must have cost loads of money, and it's perfectly beautiful [illegible]

[illegible] Had he sent it? She examined the little box and its [illegible] and its outer wrappings, but they yielded no clue.

Her name and the address of the shop were written on the brown paper in capital letters [illegible]

[illegible] come through the mail [illegible] had been delivered by [illegible] she would [illegible] who had brought it. If [illegible] had left it for her, of course she must return it. That was the honorable thing to do.

[illegible] hesitated in the dressing room, before the mirror, [illegible] the [illegible] splash of precious stones against the bodice of her [illegible] of her [illegible]

A shaft of sunlight caught them so that they gleamed in [illegible] as if with every color of the rainbow. This hypnotized [illegible] love of beauty so that [illegible] not remove her eyes from that [illegible] loveliness. It [illegible] her.

Who could have sent me this present?"

There was but one person [illegible] had been [illegible]

"I Can't Keep It!"

[illegible] I can't keep [illegible] to Jimmy [illegible] think [illegible] the [illegible] of this [illegible] of wealth and [illegible]

[illegible] herself [illegible] wasn't be[illegible] that [illegible] but [illegible] its [illegible]

[illegible] two [illegible] were waiting within her.

Other girls in the shop had gifts from their admirers and received them gladly, greedily, with no qualm of conscience.

Why should she be the exception?

She told herself there were no strings tied to this gift, and knew she was wrong.

You could fool other people, but you can't fool yourself. Her face burned as she remembered [illegible] talk of last evening.

"I [illegible] you [illegible] Luana," he had whispered [illegible] as you should [illegible] Then [illegible] caught a [illegible] he had told her. She had [illegible] ahead of her [illegible]

But [illegible] words came back even though she tried to justify her keeping of the brooch to [illegible] suggestions to the [illegible]

That woman sitting near them [illegible] You like jewels, Luana?" he had asked—and her answer: "What woman doesn't?" and her insane addendum which he had taken as a hint: "Some are fated to have them and some are not."

"Why shouldn't you have them?" Handsome had inquired.

"Diamonds don't grow on trees," she remembered her airy response.

They might," he had told her meaningly. "If you were planted in some [illegible] garden, Luana, that would be a fitting setting for your beauty."

She had challenged him on that pretending to be greenhorn.

He had been more explicit, dared to be—had [illegible] that she could mean much to him if she were kind . . .

Her face burned anew and yet one side of her hated the thought of returning the present.

Why should she?

Why be old fashioned?

She loved Jimmy Randolph, knew she loved him with her whole heart.

She told herself that for all she knew the gift was from Jimmy, a pledge of their love?

But one look at the expensive gems shattered that thought.

Why, even though Jimmy meant everything in her life, had he a right to a piece of [illegible] like the other models?

Wouldn't M. Quemberg [illegible] be thoroughly annoyed with me were she to return the gems? Wasn't he always saying to her, "Outside the shop as well as inside it, Luana, you've got to look like a million dollars."

And literally speaking, wasn't this the first step?"

"The first step in the wrong direction," said the still small voice of conscience.

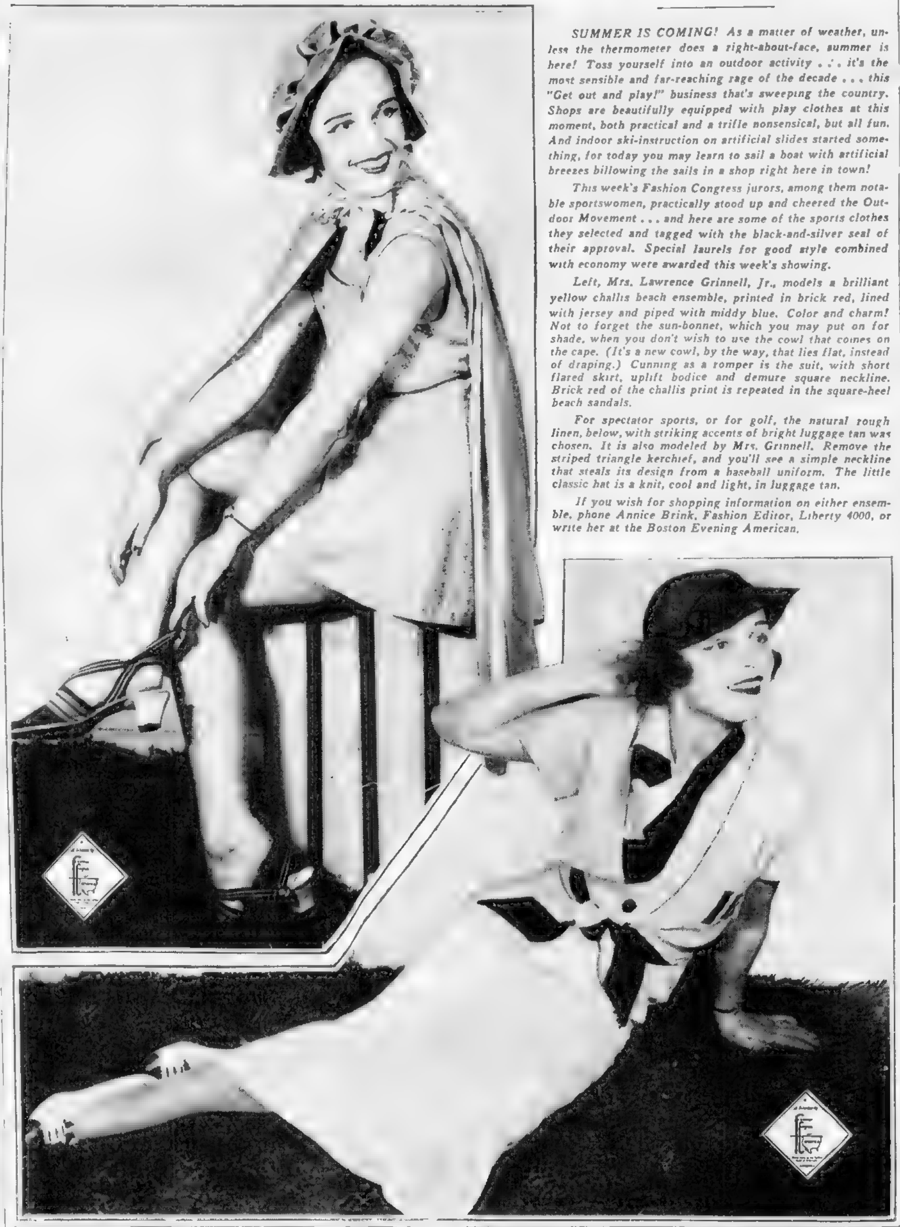
Fashion Congress Sponsors Clothes For Play Days



SUMMER IS COMING! As a matter of weather, unless the thermometer does a right-about-face, summer is here! Toss yourself into an outdoor activity . . . it's the most sensible and far-reaching rage of the decade . . . this "Get out and play!" business that's sweeping the country. Shops are beautifully equipped with play clothes at this moment, both practical and a trifle nonsensical, but all fun. And indoor ski-instruction on artificial slides started something, for today you may learn to sail a boat with artificial breezes billowing the sails in a shop right here in town!

This week's Fashion Congress jurors, among them notable sportswomen, practically stood up and cheered the Outdoor Movement . . . and here are some of the sports clothes they selected and tagged with the black-and-silver seal of their approval. Special laurels for good style combined with economy were awarded this week's showing.

Left, Mrs. Lawrence Grinnell, Jr., models a brilliant yellow challis beach ensemble, printed in brick red, lined with jersey and piped with middy blue. Color and charm! Not to forget the sun-bonnet, which you may put on for shade, when you don't wish to use the cowl that comes on the cape. (It's a new cowl, by the way, that lies flat, instead of draping.) Cunning as a romper is the suit, with short flared skirt, uplift bodice and demure square neckline. Brick red of the challis print is repeated in the square-heel beach sandals.

For spectator sports, or for golf, the natural rough linen, below, with striking accents of bright luggage tan was chosen. It is also modeled by Mrs. Grinnell. Remove the striped triangle kerchief, and you'll see a simple neckline that steals its design from a baseball uniform. The little classic hat is a knit, cool and light, in luggage tan.

If you wish for shopping information on either ensemble, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, Liberty 4000, or write her at the Boston Evening American.

Given In Marriage

A JADE BOX IS CLAIMED BY LEE CHOW

CHAPTER 638

AT Lee Chow's query, voiced in his silky monotone, "You claim half of these also, Mr. Brixton?" I think there was no person in the room, save perhaps Helena Brixton and Carolyn, who did not catch the sinister significance behind the question.

We knew that Samuel Brixton, with his partner, Tom Norton, Marion's rascally father, had been in China during the Boxer rebellion. The inference which Lee Chow had drawn was only too plain.

"This question, too, can wait," he said. "Now, Miss Marion, watch closely, if you please. I will grasp this cork, and the envelope just behind it, and you will kindly cut away the rest of the envelope. There is no danger, Mrs. Underwood." His eyes went to Lillian's pale face. "I give you my word."

"Cut it, Marion," her mother said.

There was a sudden howl—the sound could be called by no other name—from Sam Brixton.

"That is mine!" he bellowed. "Mine! Tom had no part in it. And I was only fooling when I spoke of claiming half of the gems and the bonds. It was just a joke. Marion can have all of them. But I must have that. You don't know what it means to me. I have suspected it was there all the time. And it means life or death to me."

"Death!" echoed Lee Chow, and the word seemed to linger in the air. "It would mean death for you if any other of my rank, or any lesser man following our instructions should know how you obtained this.

THE POISON ANTIDOTE!

"But you are under a roof I revere, therefore, you are safe. But this thing you cannot have. It is not yours, nor is it Miss Marion's. It is mine—but only in trust—to restore to the shrine from which it was taken, the shrine guarded for centuries by members of my family. And only I have the right to touch it."

"Lee Chow!" Hugh called imperatively, loudly. "The antidote! Get it quickly!"

As if galvanized by the entreaty in his friend's voice, Lee Chow put his hand upon the jade ornament and, pressing one of the large round balls which surmounted it, one similar to the one upon which the cork rested, there fell into his hand a tiny vial. Katherine, evidently with a previous instruction, bent toward him with a small glass partly filled with water. Lee Chow held out the vial to her.

"Two drops, no more," he said faintly. "Then give the bottle back to me."

LEE CHOW REVIVED

With infinite care, Katherine measured two drops of the colorless liquid into the water and, putting back the carven stopper, gave the vial into his hands. Reverently he put it back into the ball, snapped it shut and said something in Chinese to his servant before he would swallow the potion Katherine held to his lips.

It was not death, at least.

"I congratulate you!" Dr. Braithwaite said. "A most remarkable [illegible]."

A Well Executed Slam

A partnership that holds almost every honor-trick cannot help being swept along on an irresistible current toward a slam.

South, Dealer

Both sides vulnerable

North: ♠ A K J / ♡ 9 6 5 2 / ◇ 6 / ♣ K Q J 9 8

West: ♠ 7 5 / ♡ Q J 10 3 / ◇ 7 5 4 3 / ♣ 5 4 2

East: ♠ 9 8 6 4 3 / ♡ 8 7 / ◇ A J 9 2 / ♣ 7 3

South: ♠ Q 10 2 / ♡ A K 4 / ◇ K Q 10 8 / ♣ A 10 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 N T	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ◇	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
4 N T	Pass	6 ♣	Pass
Pass	Pass

Unfortunately, it does not follow that the slam contract will be a lay-down; shrewd play may be necessary to bring it home.

Certainly, neither partner could be criticized for overbidding. The only high honors they lacked were the diamond Ace and the heart Queen. Yet North was not overly confident after he saw the dummy.

East opened the eight of hearts, wisely conserving his diamond honors because of South's diamond bid. Dummy's Ace won and the adverse trumps were drawn in three leads, ending in North's hand. Now the singleton diamond was led up to dummy. East made the only play that could give declarer trouble—he ducked!

Declarer, before playing from the dummy, studied the situation carefully. He was almost sure because of East's opening lead that the heart suit would not break 3-3 and therefore, even if East held the diamond Ace and no diamond trick need be lost, there were still two heart losers.

On this sound reasoning, dummy's ten of diamonds was finessed. When it held the trick, the declarer breathed freely—he was home! He next led the diamond King and discarded a heart from his own hand; East took his Ace, but was powerless to prevent another heart discard on dummy's good Queen of diamonds.

WHAT YOU EAT HAS A LOT TO DO WITH HOW YOU FEEL

Correction of Constipation* Is Often a Matter of Menus

For years, the medical profession has insisted that proper diet is more effective in promoting health than the indiscriminate use of patent medicines. Today, they are seeing their teachings bear fruit.

For instance, millions of families have learned that common constipation is largely due to insufficient "bulk" in meals. Many of them correct this condition by the regular use of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

This delicious cereal supplies generous "bulk" in effective form. Within the body, its "bulk" absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass. Gently this clears out the intestinal wastes.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and contains iron. It may be served as a cereal with milk or cream, or cooked into tempting muffins, breads, etc.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Stubborn cases may require ALL-BRAN oftener. If not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all"—but it does correct common constipation.* It is guaranteed by the Kellogg Company. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

ADVICE on LOVE and MARRIAGE by BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Sympathetic Women Can Do Much to Rebuild Mate's Morale

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Due to the crushing of old standards there is confusion and suffering all over the world today. Perhaps nothing is more provocative of domestic unhappiness than a wife to keep her job and her husband to lose his.

Thousands of women are now working outside their homes who would be delighted to go back to them if they were certain of security for themselves and their children.

Women with good homes and children [illegible] work [illegible] because it is necessary to keep the bills paid. A wife who has to go to work [illegible] her husband [illegible] job [illegible] in many ways do much to rebuild her mate's morale.

Here is a typical letter received recently.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I kept my job, and my husband lost his. Then I attempted to do both jobs—to get breakfast before I went to the office, and cook dinner and do the housework when I came home at night. Result, a breakdown.

As my husband continued unemployed he insisted on doing the housework which he did better than I. [illegible] he doesn't complain [illegible] as if I were belittling him.

When I get home I want to forget about the office. I want to dance and remember that I'm still in the middle twenties. I love to dance with my husband, but he won't go with me.

His choice is a poolroom where a lot of men get together and discuss the shortcomings of women.

We're drifting apart, and the trouble is not with us but with the circumstances in which we find ourselves. GOOD WIFE.

MY DEAR FRIEND

Men in the position of your husband are to be pitied, rather than censured. To take refuge in a poolroom and discuss the shortcomings of women is only sidestepping an inferiority complex, too prevalent with so much unemployment.

Some false shame is probably at the bottom of his refusing to go to dances with you. When he gets a job you will find a necessary reversal of his present position.

[illegible] employed husbands are in a [illegible] often they represent [illegible] vital and a sympathetic wife [illegible] do much to keep their [illegible] intact till fortune [illegible] again [illegible] them.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

My wife, who is some years younger than I, has left me and my three little girls twice. Each time I have taken her back, though I had to give up two good jobs each time and move to different parts of the state to escape the gossip leveled against me and the girls because of her actions.

She claims to love us all very much, but says that she cannot stand being tied down to married life day in and day out. It drives her mad. I cannot understand her. She has a good home here and I try to make her a good husband. The only excuse I can think of is that I married her too young, taking her away from youthful pleasures that should have been hers.

Now she begs to come back for the third time promising faithfully never to leave us again. What shall I do? I cannot stand this gossip, and I cannot again give up a good job on her account. I love her in spite of everything, and so do the little ones. They beg for their mother to come home to stay.

I am distracted with worry and care. Will you help us?

WORRIED HUSBAND.

MY DEAR FRIEND

Your duty is to give your wife another chance. Always remember that you took her for better or worse. She is the mother of your three children. Perhaps by this time she will have learned from her experiences in the world outside her own household that the place for her is at home. You say that you love her, then by all means have her return as speedily as possible. Without a doubt happiness will develop for both the children and yourself from this reunion.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am a married woman and have been so for 25 years. I have been separated from my husband for 15 years. During that time I have worked hard to support my daughter and myself.

Recently I received a letter from him stating that he is ill and out of work and would like to come back home.

Now Miss Fairfax, after all these years do you think I should allow him to return and especially when we are getting along so well? MARY.

MY DEAR FRIEND

He is still your husband and the father of your child. Evidently he needs aid. Perhaps with some of the comforts of home about him he could regain his health and aid you later in keeping your household together. There are all sorts of institutions where he could go, but the fact that he decided on home as the place for him leads us to believe that you will find him a changed man. The chances are that he will settle down as a good husband and a true father.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

A certain young man is very much in love with me, in fact he has been for several years. He [illegible] everything you would want in a man except that he is bald.

Under these circumstances would you marry him? I really don't know what to do.

MONA L.

MY DEAR FRIEND

How long since baldness had anything to do with love? Thousands of men and in many cases women, become bald. This is the workings of nature. If you really love this man nothing would stand in your way to marriage. Evidently your love is of a lukewarm nature.

Beauty Answers

Question—Small lines are beginning to appear beneath my eyes. I have also noticed a slight puffiness with rather distressing circles. What can I do about this? I am in my early thirties and believe that I am too young to be troubled by these symptoms of old age. What do you suggest?

Patsy R. Dedham

Answer. Puffiness under the eyes may be due to fatigue, loss of sleep or intestinal disturbances. However, it is not a sign that one is afflicted with kidney trouble, as so many persons believe. Since you are beginning to acquire tiny lines you had better use a special eye cream. This will firm the surrounding tissues and prevent further lines from forming. All you have to do is to apply it to the area where it is needed and tap it in lightly. Leave on overnight. To obtain the name of a very fine eye cream and also our home treatment leaflet for Puffy Eyes write to this department again and enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope for a personal reply.

Delightfully Cooling Foot Cream Relieves Fatigue And Pain

By ARLINE GOULD

A soothing foot cream may not be an invitation to the dance, but it certainly is an invitation to comfort.

In a season where feet are coming right out in the open have you seen the new toeless and heelless sandals? Feet are an important part in the composition of feminine pulchritude.

Do you [illegible] of [illegible] shopping or [illegible] on the floor? No [illegible] much time or money you [illegible] on facial and beauty treatments you cannot appear at your best if your feet are sending telegraphic messages of pain.

A brand new and delightful "vanishing" foot cream, a foot cream that does not stain the hosiery, is our discovery of the month. Applied to tired aching feet, it gives immediate relief. If your feet burn or [illegible] are subject to swollen conditions due to [illegible] or a poor circulation, this cream is by all means [illegible].

[illegible] at night before [illegible] at the end of a difficult day when your strength is at such low ebb that even the thought of a dinner dance plunges you into the doldrums.

Applied in the morning after your cold shower it is a pretty sure guarantee of less foot fatigue during the day. It is instantly absorbed into the skin and because of the non-greasy variety cannot possibly stain the most delicate of fabrics. It is a marvel [illegible] when used to [illegible]

"Your Figure, Madame!"

THE WAY OF THE REDUCER IS NOT AN EASY ONE

By IDA JEAN KAIN

[illegible] 1936, King Features [illegible]

SPRING is a bridge and golf-luncheon season which calls for a fine technique in dodging calories. It is easy for the scales to climb on social calories.

The Thursday bridge luncheons and the committee teas tempt the conscientious dieter to frequent sallies from the straight and narrow path. A [illegible] here means a pound [illegible] and the undoing of the feminine figure.

But where there [illegible] less weight and [illegible] keep [illegible] in spite of social [illegible]. When you plan to attend a luncheon cut your own breakfast. This is a means to aid you and bolster your resistance to rich foods. At luncheon, take one helping of everything served, but no seconds. Eat the main course but spare the trimmings, and eat only a part of your dessert.

It is the trimmings and the extra calories [illegible] menu and the [illegible] to your figure. The [illegible] strawberries [illegible] add up to 1000 [illegible]. You can't have your [illegible] and keep your figure, but you can omit the trimmings and eat the main course of the meal without a [illegible] comment and without gaining weight.

If you find it hard to say "no" in declining extras you promptly quiet your conscience with the stern [illegible] skip dinner. However, on the preparation of the evening meal too good intentions may be forgotten.

Unaccountable as it may seem, you are hungry again and you promptly conclude that there is something abnormal about it, for it is natural that the more you eat the more you want. [illegible] food [illegible] middling meal [illegible] A [illegible] vegetable [illegible] buttermilk, or skimmed milk and a fresh fruit for dessert are [illegible] for making amends to your figure.

The way of the reducer is not easy, and your friends make it even more difficult. They tell you that you wouldn't look [illegible] if you were thinner or that [illegible] your weight [illegible] to reduce.

[illegible] want you want to hear [illegible] die. But after all, to be frank, you [illegible] expect your friends to tell you that you need to lose weight. Nor would you appreciate such frankness.

"There's loving cooking in my Southern COUNTRY-MADE SOUPS"

Albanus Phillips

SAYS COLONEL ALBANUS PHILLIPS:

"I like to think of American boys and girls—and grown-ups, too—enjoying the rich nourishment of our country-made soups. The vegetables we use taste the way vegetables ought to because they've ripened fully, in Nature's good time, under our friendly Southern sun.

"We keep our kitchens as neat as a pin. And we cook our soups lovingly—with patient simmering and just-right seasoning. It would make you hungry to step into our kitchens and see our soups cooking!

"For a starter, try Phillips Delicious Southern Tomato Soup today. Eat hearty... you pay neighborly prices for these country-made soups ... and each can makes four hearty servings. That's why they're called AMERICA'S GREATEST FOOD VALUES!"

'Wild' Snakes Found Tame In Roundup

Cincinnati, May 1 (AP)—A dozen railway express workers searching cautiously discovered three non-poisonous snakes at large in an express car today.

A gopher, a coach whip and a pine snake hissed defiance from behind a wire netting protecting the car's steam pipes. Each was about 7 feet long. Only the pine accompanied its defiant hiss with indications of belligerence.

Jo[illegible] son of the manager of the Cincinnati zoo, removed the snakes without difficulty and put them in crates beside two similar containers in which poisonous snakes for the [illegible] zoo were being shipped.

The snakes, shipped from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., escaped from their crate as the Louisville & Nashville train, the Flamingo, sped through Georgia.

THIS IS LIFE

By Robert E. Rogers

In an interesting address before the convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce at Washington, Dr. E. R. Weidlein, director of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, stated very clearly that nowadays such research is no longer particularly interested in developing any type of equipment to reduce employment.

ROBERT E. ROGERS

That, he believes, is secondary. His statement is intended as an answer to the pessimists who insist that modern business initiative merely makes the unemployment problem more difficult. Dr. Weidlein on the other hand insists it can be clearly shown that research stimulated by modern business initiative invariably tends to do away with unemployment by furnishing new processes on which men can be employed.

Today there are 1600 laboratories in the United States working upon inventions or processes in industry, all of which are actually or potentially taking up the slack in unemployment.

Automobiles Only 10 Per Cent Developed

Perhaps his most interesting illustrations of this fact come in his peroration.

"I would say that your automobile in the light of what we know at present is about 10 per cent developed. When you realize you are getting 5 per cent efficiency out of the gasoline that you burn in your automobile, if somebody comes along and makes an engine that is 25 per cent efficient you are going to scrap the one you have and save by getting a new type of engine.

"In that same light radio is about a day old, television is about one hour old, and you can realize what people are getting now in their transportation. The same with the home. There isn't anything, probably, you put up with that is as inefficient as your home. The home itself offers the greatest possibility for future development of any industry I know."

The list of industries in which new inventions or discoveries have created products and therefore jobs which never existed before seems apparently endless. Dr. Weidlein mentioned many industries that seemed threatened through the obsolescence of former ways of doing things or replacement by new substitutions but showed that nearly always that particular industry was doing better than it had been doing before.

New Industries Don't Hurt Old

Acetylene was threatened when automobile lights were electrified, yet more is used today than ever before. The use of natural gas waste in petroleum products, dating only from 1929, is now the fourth largest chemical industry in the world, with an average growth of 30 per cent throughout the past six years. Some 50 million dollars has been put into that industry alone, thus taking up the slack in a lot of unemployment.

Glycerine is a product the industrial use of which has increased enormously. Sugar is another of increasingly varied usefulness for chemical purposes. The substitution of artificial sausage casings did not hurt the old market for natural casings, because it created an entirely new market among people who would never eat sausage before but are eating it now in synthetic casings.

The women's demand for new colors particularly in footwear gave industry a new problem which it met by learning how to dye leathers all sorts of novel colors to the great benefit of the fancy shoe industry. Rayon is by now an old story, but a newer one along the same lines is the use of casein, a waste product from skim milk, in producing a synthetic wool which has all the characteristics and properties of the natural wool. It is not merely a synthetic product; it is a new product.

New Processes Create Jobs

Textiles out of glass; new chemical collars that feel like a soft collar and look like a starched collar have been in process for about a year, with a production of some 3,000,000 collars to date. And last but not least, there is a process for making marble translucent—it is to be called "lumar"—so that lights can be put behind it for store fronts and the like. The result will be new building materials of various beautifully colored marbles.

New processes can be made to create jobs instead of eliminating them, says the industrial researcher to the economic pessimist.

Pauper's Money Found

POTTER'S FIELD GRAVE HIS

James McKiernan, 46, rests today in consecrated ground in New Calvary cemetery, after three months in the Potter's Field section of Mt. Hope cemetery.

Two brothers, Francis and Michael, supervised the transfer, after Public Administrator Coleman Silbert concluded a successful search for the relatives.

McKiernan died, seemingly a pauper, in a room at the Essex hotel, Boston, last October.

According to Manager Walter Lent, he had acquired the reputation of an eccentric since his arrival there June 29, 1935.

WEIGHT DROPPED

He had eaten practically nothing substantial in the three months at the hotel, his weight dropping from a robust 160 to 80 pounds when he was found dead by a housekeeper.

No relatives and little money was found, the funds in his effects being not even sufficient to assure him of a good burial. No clue was found at first to any relatives.

So Public Administrator Silbert disposed of the body in the routine manner.

Then, when Hyman Cantor of New York, owner of the Essex, was straightening out his papers at the first of the year he encountered bank books and records left with him by McKiernan months before.

FUNDS FOUND

A quick perusal showed the man had cash amounting to $500 and deposits in a Brooklyn bank totalling about $7000. And it further developed that there were, after all, relatives.

There were two brothers here and another brother and two sisters in Ireland, as well as two nieces and two nephews in Ireland, children of a deceased sister.

Yesterday in a regular ceremony consistent with his faith he was buried in the New Calvary Cemetery in Roslindale, the Rev. William J. Casey of St. Thomas Church, Jamaica Plain, officiating.

5 Injured, 2 Dying In Dedham Crash

Five persons were injured, two of them dying as a result of a head-on automobile collision at Dedham today when a coupe driven by Herman Tucker, of Thurston Point, Gloucester, crashed with a sedan operated by Arthur Murphy, 22, of Johnswood road, Boston.

Frederick Haberland, 22, riding with Murphy, of Temple street, West Roxbury, suffered a fractured skull, and Edward Irban, 20, of Stillman street, Roslindale, a broken left leg and internal injuries.

Two girls, riding with them, Miss Anne McCabe, 19, of Tampa street, Mattapan, and Miss Aldona Damish, 19, of Tampa street, Mattapan, suffered cuts to face and head, and possible internal injuries. They are at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Murphy was uninjured and Tucker, the driver of the coupe, received a broken wrist.

Mrs Draper Will Sail on Monday

Settled safely in a London hotel, Mrs Eben S. Draper is planning to sail for this country Monday aboard the White Star liner Georgic.

In a transatlantic telephone conversation with her husband, Mrs Draper, the former Hazel M. Archbald of Seattle, Wash., revealed that she was feeling well and happy.

Until her discovery Wednesday aboard the Georgic she had been mysteriously missing since her disappearance from a Katonah, N. Y. sanitarium last April 18.

BOSTON LEGIONNAIRE AIDS IN PARIS SIEGE

Paris, May 1 (AP) Four American veterans who once faced German fire maintained a lead today on Pershing Hall, Paris headquarters of the American legion, and declared it would take more than the building committee and French police to oust them.

With six other prominent members of the Paris post the legionnaires barricaded themselves in the hall last night determined to keep possession of the building until they could hold a meeting to [illegible] means of filling their empty treasury.

The building committee [illegible] had ordered the $500,000 [illegible] closed because of indebtedness and [illegible] police to clear the hall. A [illegible] with [illegible] and police [illegible] into the [illegible].

The legionnaires [illegible] however, the police [illegible] to force ejection without a court order.

Of the ten original campers four held the hall throughout the [illegible]. They are [illegible] N. J., Pearl [illegible] of [illegible] N. Y., [illegible] and Julius [illegible] of Quincy, Ill.

The six [illegible] went out for breakfasts and returned with [illegible] and a promise to bring a [illegible] supply [illegible] the day.

The six are [illegible] J. [illegible] commander of [illegible] James L. McC[illegible] post commander of [illegible] Maj. [illegible] of Paris.

With a debt of about $300,000 the board of directors [illegible] April 5 that the hall, headquarters of the Paris Post of the American Legion and of other American organizations in Paris, be closed April [illegible].

The [illegible] caused a split in the membership of the [illegible] post.

SHOTS HALT 2 MEN, GIRL

Two young men and a girl allegedly fleeing from an overturned automobile which police say was stolen were captured at gunpoint today in the woods of the Blue Hills reservation in West Quincy.

They said they were Lewis M[illegible], 19, of Gould street, South Boston, Harold Johnson, 19, of Adams street, Dorchester, and Rita Driscoll, of Harrison avenue, Boston.

The arrests were made by Patrolman Leonard Palmisano of the Quincy police, who recognized the car as one reported stolen while patrolling the St. Moritz section of Quincy.

He fired six shots before the driver lost control and hit a stone wall.

The car was stolen from Abraham Shuman of Harvard street, Dorchester.

10th Transfusion For Worcester Tot

Worcester, May 1 Phyllis Rollins, 7, today underwent her tenth blood transfusion as doctors continued a six-weeks' battle to save her life at City hospital here. The tenth donor was Robert Wright [illegible] of Clifton street.

Doctors declared she will probably require 15 or 20 more, but since the last two she has shown some slight gain and appears to have rallied. They consider her game battle [illegible] remarkable.

After an operation to remove her appendix March 20 peritonitis set in. No sooner had that been checked than she fell prey to bronchial pneumonia.

Lower Gas Rates

Lower gas rates for Cambridge residents were demanded in a petition filed by Mrs. John D. [illegible] with the State Department of Public Utilities.

6 MINE HEROES HERE FLEEING LIONIZING

For 40 hours at a stretch they clawed at rock and mud [illegible] far down in the earth's bowels at Moose River, N. S. to rescue two entombed men, but six miners from that north country couldn't face the thought of a reception to them today.

So with a party all arranged for tomorrow night in their home town, Stellarton, N. S., the six Draegermen who bore the brunt of the rescue work slipped into Boston in full flight from the "hero party."

Sheepishly they explained their visit today by stating they had never seen Boston before and thought this might be a good time to come. They had slipped quietly out of town on Wednesday [illegible] and [illegible] knew where they were headed.

When they [illegible] they will be hailed as heroes [illegible] walk back home.

[illegible] who work far below the earth's surface in the most dangerous spots and who use Draeger equipment, including oxygen tanks and masks, the visiting miners are Warren I. McDonald, John A. Sheppard, Joseph Nearing, John Corbett, Joseph Campbell and Alexander Grant.

They were called out of the mines in Pictou county, 75 miles from the Moose River gold mine, to lead the rescuers in digging out Dr. Edward Robertson and Charles A. Scadding.

Kittredge Ends Long Career

DELIVERS LAST BARD LECTURE

George Lyman Kittredge, an almost legendary figure in the life of Harvard University, and the greatest living authority on Shakespeare, today delivered his last lecture on the English dramatist.

With thunderous applause still ringing in his ears, "Kitty," as he is affectionately called, walked from the platform in Harvard Hall, with no personal gesture of his own to mark the swan song of his Shakespearian discourses.

He will retire from the [illegible] professorship and the faculty of Harvard next September.

Announcement of his [illegible] was made [illegible] when [illegible] celebrated his [illegible] birthday.

Since 1888 Kittredge has lectured on the Bard of Avon to Harvard men.

Thousands of Harvard alumni studied with him.

Today several of them returned to Cambridge to be present at his final lecture. There were hundreds of students, visitors and even feminine collegians in the [illegible] to hear his [illegible] of Shakespeare's "The Winter's Tale."

And when he was through a burst of cheering greeted him as he gathered up his books and walked off the platform.

'VACCINE REBEL FATHER' FINED

Harry J. Childs, storm center in Quincy's [illegible] controversy, was fined $1 each on three counts of failing to send his two children to school and to provide for their education by Judge Frederick W. Fosdick in Norfolk Superior Court today.

Attorney Henry Wise, counsel for Childs, announced and declared the Supreme Court would be asked to decide the Quincy compulsory vaccination problem.

Childs pleaded not guilty.

It was [illegible] agreement of [illegible] Attorney Wise and District Attorney Edmund Dewing [illegible] would go to the supreme court.

School authorities [illegible] Childs refused to have his daughter Althea, 9, and son, Harold, 13, vaccinated and they, therefore, barred them from school.

Childs has been taken to Quincy court five different times and pleaded not guilty, but has been convicted each time.

10 FLEE $1200 CONCORD FIRE

[illegible] persons were driven from their apartments, five stores were damaged, and three alarms were sounded today for a stubborn fire in the Lapham Block, Main street and Commonwealth avenue, West Concord. Damage was $12,000, police said.

One 70-year-old man, Thomas Marshall, refused aid, calmly dressed [illegible] and marched down the smoke-filled stairway at the height of the blaze. Others [illegible] were [illegible] Mrs. Frederick [illegible] and Mrs. [illegible] Marsh.

The fire started from an [illegible] in the [illegible] of a chain store. It [illegible] several tons of soft coal which spread a pall of black smoke through the business district. A fruit store and a market were burned. A [illegible] and a cleaner's shop were damaged by smoke. It took three hours to extinguish the flames.

Methodists Open Conference

Columbus, O., May 1 (AP) Communion services opened today a 22-day meeting of the 32nd quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

By Marjorie McBride

In the past year, 12,000 persons have been advised and aided by the Speech Readers' Guild of Boston. Headquarters are in Commonwealth avenue. In the same 12 months, the society's costly 3-A audiometer has been sent for the testing of 11,000 school children.

MARJORIE McBRIDE

There are 100 members of the guild. Most of them are hard of hearing. They're a little proud of the fact the deaf are the only handicapped people in America who take care of most of their own welfare work. Seldom do they ask favors.

Speech reading is lip reading, but the guild does more than that. It gives youthful victims advice on proper vocations, suggests medical care, does much to promote a healthy attitude toward life. This is all important when one remembers that the U. S. Department of Health has stated five per cent of all Americans are deaf to some appreciable degree. The guild was founded in 1916. It owns its own building.

The organization will play host to the National Society of the Hard of Hearing at Hotel Statler on May 26. During the meeting there will be a National Home-folks' Lip Reading Tournament. Mrs. James Frick Norris is to be general chairman.

Vocal training and other cures and palliatives are furthered by the guild. And it encourages research into what causes deafness in the first place. Never, say guild leaders, admit that a person a little hard of hearing is unfortunate. Sometimes, come to think of it, they're very lucky indeed.

Some inquiring reporter in Hollywood has been finding out what the more glamorous actresses eat when on location. Bette Davis, once of Newton, munches hot rolls, richly buttered, when preparing for one of her more volcanic emotional roles. Kay Francis, who used to go to school in Roxbury, goes to the other extreme when readying for a big moment in a movie thriller. She contents herself with two slices of dry toast and a glass of milk.

Charmed Crowned Heads With His Courtly Manner

When Ringling Brothers' Circus moves into Boston Garden on May 4, one of the most picturesque figures of the circus game will not be far away. But you won't find him driving a [illegible], or [illegible] in the lion's den or up on a flying trapeze.

He's Dexter W. Fellows, originally of Fitchburg, publicity agent emeritus of the Big Show. In circus lingo, he's the only publicity-agent emeritus in captivity.

Mr. Fellows introduced "Buffalo Bill" Cody and Major Burke to Europe in the closing years of the last century. He astounded crowned heads, and some uncrowned, by his modesty, his polish and his charm. They'd been prepared for anything from a lot of Wild Westerners.

Old timers who remember him when, and such upstarts as Girls About Town, agree he's the last word in politeness and urbanity, and could play an Adolph Menjou part in a movie.

Mr. Fellows doesn't do much of the advance work now, but he's always around when new stunts are discussed. He knows about them. He invented most of those now employed. And his main interest is still in the Big Top.

A girl's costume should match that of her escort. It's the latest dictum from Paris. Buyers and dress makers and ladies' tailors don't see Boston falling into line yet. But in the French capital, a girl's blouse and suit are practically obliged to blend with the costume of the boy friend!

Hike-and-Bike Train Starts May 10

Cyclists and hikers who like to get out of town on pleasant Sundays and forget it all, will be interested to learn the Boston & Maine is going to run what may be called a bike-and-hike train out of Boston on May 10. Destination, somewhere in New Hampshire. Purpose, burning up little travelled roads on a bicycle, or scrambling over nearby hills.

The first special train for cyclists and hikers was run out of Boston last fall. It followed the pattern of the winter snow trains. New York has adopted it.

If the May 10 train here proves it fills a popular want, hike-and-bike trains will become an institution. There'll be a special baggage car full of rentable bicycles hitched onto the train . . . another car for those who want to carry their own.

MUD THREATENS BREVITY

Louisville, Ky., May 1—Dreary skies and a track resembling Main street, Venice, today made the Kentucky Derby appear anything but a breeze for Brevity.

As the weatherman consulted his charts and predicted showers today and possibly tomorrow, 60,000 Derbiacs, crowding this picturesque Blue Grass capital, thumbed the books looking for a mud lark.

Brevity, whose best races have been run on a dry track, is theoretically at home in any going. On that basis many are standing pat on the Widener colt against the field. He is expected to close at 7 to 5 or worse.

But the filly, Gold Seeker, and Grand Slam of the Bomar Stable, have developed strong support. Granville, Coldstream, in fact all of the 16 probable starters, have their spokesmen.

It may very well be a case of "ladies before gentlemen" if the track remains as it now is.

Gold Seeker, although quoted at 20 to 1, is conceded a splendid chance in the mud. Her final workout of 1:43 for the mile in the sloppy going had the railbirds on edge. Many were willing to forego the ancient belief that the Derby is not for a filly. Regret turned the trick in 1915 but she was the only one to do it.

Grand Slam's stock rose considerably as clouds continued to gather. The colt is rated 20 pounds better on an off track and it was said that there is less than a 50-50 chance of having a dry oval for the race.

Meanwhile as Derby fans crowded homes and hotels here the 16 prospective starters remained in their stalls awaiting post time tomorrow.

All have had their final workouts and wait only the call to the post.

For the first time in years the mudbooks are not shouting for Colonel E. R. Bradley. He himself is not particularly [illegible] on the chances of his entries, Bien Joli and Banister. He prefers Brevity.

[illegible] opinion says that if Brevity [illegible] will be by Granville, Bold Venture or Grand Slam.

[illegible] off at the chances of [illegible] [illegible] record [illegible].

Mudlarks?

Louisville, Ky., May 1—Here is the list of probable starters in the Kentucky Derby tomorrow:

Brevity—J. E. Widener, W. D. Wright.
Granville—William Woodward, J. Stout
Merry Pete—William Woodward, T. Malley
Teufel—Wheatley Stable, F. Litzenberger
Bold Venture—Morton L. Schwartz, I. Hanford
Grand Slam—Bomar Stable, R. Workman
Forest Play—Bomar Stable, D. Brammer.
Bien Joli—E. R. Bradley, L. Balaski
Banister—E. R. Bradley, J. Renick
Coldstream—C. B. Shaffer, N. Wall
He Did—Mrs. Susan B. Mason, C. Kurtsinger
The Fighter—Mrs. E. C. Mars, A. Robertson
Sangreal—Mrs. E. C. Mars, M. Garner
Indian Broom—A. C. Taylor, G. Burns
Gold Seeker—William Dupont, Jr., M. Peters.
Sino—Mrs. B. Franzheim, W. Garner.

AUSTEN LAKE

Derby Musings: Kentucky's Bourbons, Beauties and Brevity

Louisville, Ky., May 1.

Austen Lake

A PLEASANT FORM of lunacy is brewing in lazy Louisville—the annual mania called the Kentucky Derby, when American race royalty comes to nudge elbows with wrong living no-goods for the pious purpose of dipping knees in horse heaven. It is a week-long carnival when the visitors forget they are spending real money and the homebreds hold their hats under a golden faucet, for something that lasts two minutes and a few seconds.

Here is one of the traditional focal points in the American sport scene, where folk come, not so much to worship the elastic qualities of a noble beast's legs, the shine of its coat and the lovely arch of its neck, as they come to look at each other.

It is a human hunger to be where big things happen, a mass vas-you-dere-Sharley impulse which prompts people to pay $25 a night for sleeping on a kitchen cot and stand for hours breathing down each other's necks until their feet bleed, for a fleeting glimpse of the rubbery steeds and the litle cricket-men with their colored silks bubbling in the backdraft.

It is Louisville and the Darby tomorrow, New London and the Harvard-Yale regatta next June and Goshen and the Hambletonian next August—big traditional moments when sleepy towns come out of their year-long lethargy and cater to hordes of cash-bearing strangers. Streets are gay with bunting, strolling bands blow brass blurts, funds have no value, and everybody is unbelievably happy.

EARTHY PARADISE

HAVING HEARD that one requires a larynx of spun silver and the knack of speaking with the tongues of angels properly to describe Churchill Downs on Darby Day, I am here to view the miracle. Old horsemen in the barns at Rockingham and Suffolk have told the tale, like a hushed prayer, as thus:

"Imagine a bracelet of blown gold encircling a lawn of emerald velvet. Imagine the pick of the most luscious ladies, in a state where female beauty is a virtue, and the nation's leading sportsmen going hysterical

Princeton Crew Works Out Here

Meet Harvard, Tech Saturday

By Walter Kiley

Harvard makes a new and determined bid to regain its former fine social standing in the collegiate rowing world with the opening of Greater Boston's biggest crew season in years on the Charles tomorrow.

The Crimson is banking on youth to pull it through against Gordon Sikes' crack Princeton eight, which worked out on the Charles this morning, and Bill Haines' M. I. T. boat.

From tomorrow on it [illegible] and go with the C[illegible] W[illegible] coached oarsmen [illegible] matches sweeps with [illegible] standing crew of the [illegible] ing world within the [illegible] weeks.

Whiteside is [illegible] statement that Harvard is definitely superior to a year ago, much farther advanced for this time of the season.

This despite the fact that his only two veterans are Captain [illegible] Clark and Ray F[illegible] and the heavyweights are almost conspicuous by their absence.

Rival coaches admit a [illegible] apprehension over a [illegible] ing renaissance. [illegible] Cassedy was stroking it to [illegible] honors.

BIG PRIZE

This is Olympic year. [illegible] means that every college crew [illegible] the country will be ex[illegible] last ounce of energy [illegible] covered honor of representing United States across the waters.

It also implies that Harvard will need super-human efforts to overcome not only Tech and Princeton, tomorrow's rivals, but Navy, Pennsylvania, Cornell, Syracuse, Columbia and Yale which hang in the offing.

Bill Haines has been forced to juggle his Tech seatings often. His crew lacks cohesion and hardly can be figured against Harvard or Princeton.

Naturally the Tigers, a group of physical giants as they pulled away from Newell boathouse this morning, will be favored over the Crimson.

Princeton lost out to Pennsylvania last Saturday in a triangular race with Columbia.

But this reflected in no way against the Tigers. For Rusty Callow's Pennsters were just about the finest sprint crew in the country a year ago, beating among others such fine eights as Navy, Princeton and Yale.

The following week brings a quadrangular regatta again with Tech and Penn and Navy making for Boston's most colorful race of the spring season.

Then comes the Spring Day regatta with C[illegible] on Lake Cayuga, another standout test for the Crimson what with the Ithacans [illegible] of the country's fin[illegible].

A year ago Cornell pushed California champ[illegible] to [illegible] second fastest time [illegible] of the four-mile P[illegible]keepsie race.

Raiders Out

Providence, May 1—Sticklers for tradition in sport had something to marvel at today following the announcement that Brown will not meet Colgate in a 1937 Thanksgiving Day football game.

The schedule released by the athletic department reveals that Rutgers will take the place of Andy Kerr's boys. The Brown schedule also includes Rhode Island State, Harvard, Dartmouth, Columbia, Tufts, Yale and Holy Cross.

'Gansett Entries Nearing Record

By Bob Ahearn

Pawtucket, R. I., May 1—There will be no shortage of thoroughbreds at Narragansett Park's spring meeting which opens the New England racing season tomorrow.

Already more than 1000 horses are quartered at the track awaiting the bettors. And with the influx of horse flesh increasing hourly, Narragansett is assured more thoroughbreds than ever stabled at any second [illegible] track.

[illegible] 21 [illegible] stable [illegible]

[illegible] Identify and Diceol arrived from Pimlico in charge of Charlie Slade. These two handicap performers will carry the cerise and white colors of the youthful millionaire, in the Narragansett $5000 Handicap six furlongs opening day feature.

Liberty Lane Stable's string of nine under the care of trainer W. F. Jones along with the Ascot Stable whose trainer is Fred Kraft, [illegible] other prominent stables to arrive.

M[illegible] C. Crane's Ladfell, New England favorite, was included in the [illegible] shipment of seven. W. G. W[illegible] trains the stable.

Planetoid, brilliant two-year-old filly, winner of the Lassies' Purse at Churchill Downs Wednesday is included in the shipment of four thoroughbreds owned and trained by J. T. Taylor.

Planetoid traveled the Churchill strip in [illegible] for the four and one-half furlongs in the Lassies. This was within three-fifths of a track record. It marked Planetoid's second start as well as her second victory.

Suffolk Downs will be represented at [illegible] opening by General Manager Allan J. Wilson and Treasurer Bruce Wetmore, while the New Hampshire Jockey Club operators of Rockingham Park, will have Vice President Thomas McKoy, Jr., Treasurer C. E. Fauntleroy and Managing Director Lou Smith.

A. G. Tarn, Canadian horseman and trainer for W. C. Stroube, is here with a capable string. Tarn led all the trainers at the Hialeah Winter Meeting, while his contract rider, Johnny Longden, won the gold watch.

Dobie Ends B. C. Grid Sessions

A very tired group of Boston College football players looked back today on five weeks of the most intensive spring gridiron drills in a decade.

Head Coach Gil Dobie finished his active outdoor instruction yesterday afternoon and plans to wind things up for his 70 candidates today.

An hour's blackboard drill and a talk by the coach will bring matters to a formal close.

True to his original word Dobie did not cut the squad but it gradually dwindled from a high of 120 to 70.

Bees Meet Pirates

Pittsburgh, May 1—After setting the Reds back on their heels in both games of their abbreviated series in Cincinnati, the Boston Bees pulled into town this morning for their two-day engagement with the Pirates.

Mickey Haslin was so elated over the trade, which moved him from the Phillies to the Bees in exchange for "Pinky" Whitney, that he was up and down in the lobby of the Hotel Schenley to greet Manager Bill McKechnie this morning.

There was no money involved in this deal but McKechnie stated that he received a hustling 24-year-old youngster, who is able to give a fine account of himself at third, short or second, for a veteran, who has not delievered since he joined the Boston club.

When the Bees tackle the Pirates this afternoon in the first of their two game series Mickey Haslin will be on third base. Haslin hit for .375 for the Phillies this season while Whitney's best efforts with the willow summed up to .175.

The Bees played great ball in Cincinnati, according to Manager McKechnie, who predicts that they'll be equally as successful against the Pirates.

Manager McKechnie was undecided as to his pitcher for this afternoon when interviewed this morning. His selection will be either Bobby Reis or Wayne Osborne, both of whom are newcomers to the Bees.

Manager "Pie" Traynor will use Cy Blanton, who was beaten in the first Philadelphia game. Blanton has not been up to standard this spring but should start winning in the near future. In the event that Blanton does not look right Manager Traynor may turn to the veteran Wyatt Hoyt or Guy Rush.

Although this will be only a two game series, the outcome is of great importance to both clubs. The Bees can jump into a fifth place tie with the Pirates by winning this afternoon, providing the Cards turn back the Dodgers and the Reds stop Philadelphia.

Champion Falls

Bournemouth, England, May 1—Dorothy Round, 1934 Wimbledon champion, today had been eliminated from the fourth round of the British hard court singles tennis championship. She lost to Mrs. M. R. King in straight sets.

SUPERSTITION very definitely enters into a jockey's life. Smoky Saunders kisses his favorite "tack" for the candid camera. Smoky won the Kentucky Derby with this "tack" while up on Omaha and he uses it in all big races.

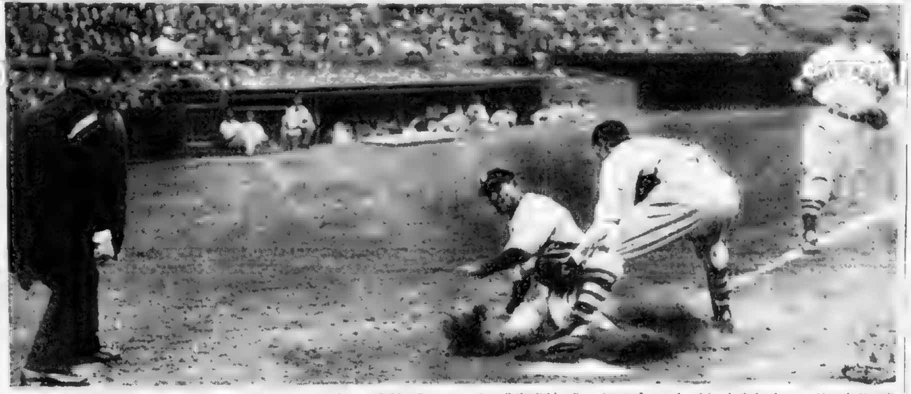
SOX ACE



BILLY WERBER, running down George Stumpf of the Chicago White Sox during the game at Fenway Park yesterday afternoon, tossed to Rick Ferrell to nail the White Sox star as he made a dying dash for home. Here is Ferrell putting the ball on Stumpf for a putout. The Sox sluggers hit heavily.

SOX ACE After 4th VICTORY

END OF HIT SPELL SEEN

By Joe Cashman

Despair not just yet, you few who so love brilliant pitching and low score games that you can't go ga-ga over the Red Sox, up there on the American League roof, firing shots heard round the baseball world.

Instead, visit the Fens this afternoon, when our irresistible "millionaires" open a two-game series with Cleveland's enigmatic Indians, and perhaps you'll see the first honest-to-goodness hurling duel of the local season.

At least, Managers Joe Cronin and Steve O'Neill are doing all in their power to prevent a May Day continuation of the rioting that's been raging on Jersey street since Sunday last.

None other than Robert Moses Grove, owner of three victories after as many starts and a record of yielding but one earned run in 26 innings, is to go to the peak for our pummeling pace-setters.

And the hostiles, seeing red after three straight defeats in New York, will retaliate as best they can by nominating Chief Mel Harder, winner of his last two starts and as clever a right hander as you could find in a season's travels.

Yes, it looks like the hitters might be forced back on [illegible]. Yet said hitters are [illegible] from Missouri.

64 HITS

The Sox sluggers think of the 64 hits and 44 runs they've manufactured in their four most recent starts and laugh loudly when Harder's chucking class is mentioned.

The Indian maces, having lost the league lead as a result of collapsing in Gotham, aren't in a mood to laugh at anything, but when they look at the record of 53 hits and 30 runs made by Sox opponents in the quartet of tilts in question, they can't see even Grove as a reason for doubting they won't do their share of cannonading here.

In short, somebody's going to receive an unwelcome surprise today.

A few days back the engagement loomed as a stern test for the Croninmen. The Indians were out front in the race, displaying championship pitching, hitting and fielding, while the natives were weak on the mound and weaker with the stick.

Since the start of intersectional strife on Tuesday, however, the entire complexion of the situation has changed greatly.

The Indians' pennant stock at the moment is at a new low. Their dismal flop in New York is a strong indication that they're again going to blow their flag chances on the road just as they did each of the past three seasons when they were the most successful home club in the loop.

Our Red Sox, on the other hand, have become the sensation of the circuit this week due to their amazing exhibition of pulverizing power. Most of their pitching has been worse than awful, but the sluggers have pounded themselves past that supposedly insurmountable handicap.

Rick Ferrell has become the league's leading hitter with a mark of [illegible]. Dusty Cooke, put in right field in place of Mr. Almada to add to the punch, has done it to the tune of a [illegible] batting average.

[illegible] Werber is well up in the charmed circle. Eric McNair has [illegible] to get three and four hits a day. Doc Cramer and Heinie Manush have added over 100 points to their averages. Oscar Melillo's [illegible] triples and doubles. Jimmy Foxx, in a slump, is tied for the lead in the home run race.

Despite all this power, it would seem the Sox must get improved pitching to hold off clubs like the Tigers, Yanks and Indians.

Until, if ever, this is proven, though, our heroes have every license to feel confident they can blast their way to the flag regardless of the calibre of their twirling.

Certainly their title chances are looking brighter every one of these days as they bombard distant fences with their drives.

They put on their most blistering attack yet as they slaughtered the White Sox, 16 to 4, in the [illegible] to make a clean sweep of the three-game series which marked the opening of the western invasion.

Table Tennis Entries Grow

Headed by Larry Smith, highest ranking Greater Boston player, entries of many local and sectional stars have been received by the West End House for the New England table tennis championships to be held May 8 and 9.

The closing date is May 6, next Wednesday, at midnight, and a draw of 128 is expected. To date 80 entries are listed.

TOLD FOR THE FIRST TIME
—the real secret of why PHILLIES is America's largest-selling cigar

For years, you men have been dissatisfied with cigars. You've switched from this brand to that brand—and with the same result . . . a bitter, biting, rasping taste. Millions of cigars thrown away in disappointment, half smoked.

Then came Bayuk PHILLIES for 5c. Smokers tried it—and in a few months made it America's largest-selling cigar. Why? Because it had rich, smooth tobacco taste all through. No bitterness—no harshness—no biting the tongue.

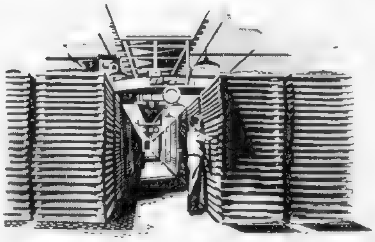
WHY THIS DIFFERENCE IN CIGARS?

The answer is this—and it's the real secret of why more men smoke PHILLIES.

All cigar tobaccos—in the raw—contain certain bitter oils and harsh elements. If left in—you get a cigar with a bitter, biting, rasping taste. Taken out—you get a cigar that's a real pleasure to smoke . . . mild, mellow and retaining all its real tobacco taste.

Bayuk takes them out—and by a process used by no other cigar manufacturer in America. Bayuk's process begins where ordinary methods end.

This process—invented by Bayuk and covered by patent protection—more perfectly conditions tobacco for cigars than any other method known. As a result—no harshness, no bitterness, no rawness get into PHILLIES.



This picture shows an important unit in the exclusive Bayuk Process for extracting the bitter oils and harsh elements from fine cigar tobaccos. This Process—invented by Bayuk—begins where other methods leave off. It enables you to enjoy the full flavor of the fine tobaccos used in PHILLIES without any bitter, bitey, harsh taste. No other cigar manufacturer uses this process. Bayuk invites you to visit its factory to see this process in operation and what it does to the tobaccos in PHILLIES.

PROVE THIS FOR YOURSELF

Get a PHILLIES—and smoke it. Note the absence of bitterness or bitey taste—even to the last draw. You taste the pure flavor of its fine Havana and Domestic tobaccos—and nothing else.

Don't be fooled by claims! It's easy to make extravagant claims about cigars—and many are now being made. But you can't smoke claims!

Bayuk makes no claims for PHILLIES that smokers haven't supported themselves. Proof? They've made it America's largest-selling cigar.

FACTS—NOT CLAIMS ABOUT PHILLIES

PHILLIES' tobaccos are treated by an exclusive Bayuk process to remove rawness, harshness and bitterness. No other cigar manufacturer uses this process.

PHILLIES contains 100% fine, mild Havana and Domestic long-filler—and the finest Imported Sumatra wrapper.

PHILLIES is America's former largest-selling 10c brand reduced to 5c—not a cigar made to sell for 5c.

PHILLIES is smoked by more men than any other cigar in America—proof that it is the cigar most smokers like best.

ODDS-ON CHOICE SEEN FOR BREVITY

Louisville, Ky., May 1 (AP)—If Brevity wins the Derby, the payoff on the Widener colt probably will be at the briefest price since Twenty Grand finished on top in 1931 and returned 88 cents on the dollar.

It won't surprise us if the favorite is the odds-on choice at post time tomorrow, rain or shine . . . Hindoo, in 1881, was the shortest priced Derby winner, 3 to 10, but the favorites have won 28 out of 61 races, a pretty fair batting average in any league.

[illegible] Churchill Downs [illegible] The [illegible] Eastern sportsman was so disappointed [illegible] he refused to nominate a horse for the Derby until Peace Chance in 1934 . . . Peace Chance was an also ran behind Cavalcade, but later won the [illegible] Last year Widener nominated Chance Sun, Belmont Futurity winner, but the colt went [illegible] shortly before the Derby [illegible]

Of all things, Jack Dempsey, in town to referee the Barney Ross-Chuck Woods bout tonight, picks The Fighter, which won the Texas Derby and carries the silks of the Milky Way Farms . . . But the old mauler quickly added "I don't know a thing about horses" . . . Dempsey's contemporary in sportdom's "golden decade," Babe Ruth, is more interested in his golf than trying to pick the winner, though he's anxious to "get a kick" out of his first derby . . . "They tell me," hedged the Babe, "that this Brevity can win by a full niblick shot."

One-time Tammany chieftain John F. Curry, who has a reputation for cashing in on long shots, won for the Milky Way entry, The Fighter and Sun [illegible] in the future books getting 40 and 60 to 1 . . . The withdrawal of [illegible] and [illegible] among other things, has saved the winter books from having much to worry about . . . Kentuckians still think Colonel Edward Riley Bradley, despite his public optimism, has something up his sleeve and will play the $2 windows accordingly . . . They haven't forgotten how Broker's Tip, a maiden, came through to nose out Head Play in 1933 when Bradley "didn't have a chance" . . . The trouble with the Bradley pair is that most observers don't like Banster while the rest can't pronounce Bien Joli.

Indian Broom, hope of the Far West, is a Brookmeade stable castoff but Bob Smith, who saddled Cavalcade [illegible] two years ago, [illegible] his best [illegible] Major Austin C. Taylor, Canadian sportsman who owns the Indian [illegible] dry racing strip [illegible] may [illegible] horse [illegible] consent. [illegible] the hope of Detroit for another [illegible] quest . . . George Kendall, the turf editor of the Detroit News, [illegible] Grand Slam can win under any conditions.

Among the visiting notables is Sir Bede Clifford, British governor general of the Bahamas who, reports a local interviewer, laughingly admitted his private stable netted $10,000 annually when he was racing in South Africa . . . Since when did $10,000 become a laughing matter? . . . No matter what the weather developments, this looks like the wettest Derby since repeal . . . More bars are operating to handle the visiting firemen than ever before with beer [illegible] and mint juleps going fast at 40 cents . . . A downtown jewelry store displays the gold cup worth $5000, which goes to the Derby victor . . . Also miniature copies of the trophy, for ash trays, at $1.50.

By Associated Press

ERIC M'NAIR, Red Sox—Hit triple, two doubles and a single against White Sox.

JAKE POWELL, Senators—Hit single that beat Tigers 8-7.

GEORGE PUCCINELLI, Athletics — Got three singles, a double and a pass against Browns.

DANNY MacFAYDEN, Bees—Pitched five-hit ball to beat Reds.

BILL BRUBAKER, Pirates—Hit homer that beat Phils.

JOE MOORE, Giants—Got four hits in losing cause against Cards.

TEX CARLETON, Cubs—Beat Dutch Brandt of Dodgers 2-1 in pitchers' duel.

MONTE PEARSON, Yankees—Beat Indians with four-hit pitching.

RACE CONTEST

The Ann Marsters bankroll guessing contest is nearing the finish wire.

All entries must be mailed no later than midnight Monday night (May 4).

A top prize of $100 is waiting to be won, with season tickets as added incentives.

A last moment rush has already started. They're coming in thick and fast right this moment, with an avalanche promised in the final days.

The contest is open to all. Requirements are simple. Just guess the state of Miss Marsters' bank roll when the May 16 races at Narragansett have been concluded.

You will recall that Walter O'Hara, boss-man at Narragansett, entrusted $500 to Miss Marsters, only woman handicapper in New England, with which she was to play the races in modest fashion.

The total sum, whether profit or loss, is to be turned over to the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund, together with an outright gift of $500 by the same Mr. O'Hara.

Remember, horse fans, that entries sent in after Monday midnight will be rejected. All entries must include races as of May 16 and only ONE guess per person is permitted.

If your's has yet to be mailed, better get it in today. Perhaps your guess will collect the tidy little sum of $100.

Five More Days For Park Entries

Only five days more remain for teams to enter the Park Department Baseball League for this season, was the warning sent out today by William M. Mullen, director of the Park League. The books will positively close on May 5.

More teams than ever before, composed of boys from the ages of 14 and up will compete in four classes this year. It is estimated that more than 25,000 boys will play regular games.

France May Shun Olympic Games

Paris, May 1 (US)—Because of the [illegible] position of France's [illegible] and the possible failure of the new Chamber of Deputies to make financial provision, a France [illegible] may not participate in the Olympic games in Berlin this summer, it was said today.

Emerging from a three-hour meeting of the French Olympic committee, Secretary Denis said:

"If we participate in the Olympics we must send at least 200 persons to Berlin and we have no money.

"Unlike America and England, we have to depend on our government for money.

"As the result of the forthcoming anticipated election of a Leftist government, we are not sure of any Olympic appropriation and it would be at least three months, anyway, before an appropriation bill could pass the new chamber.

"Even the French athletes are losing interest and are no longer training with the same enthusiasm."

And the Kunnel, charmed by the [illegible] added that, though the people in his end of the [illegible] a horse, else they would not be true Kent[illegible] standing sports of the region are still [illegible] —voting the Democratic ticket and running [illegible] officers.

WHO ARE MY PARENTS?

BEFORE THE MALE peacocks and gorgeous young females, who depend much on their beauty on dressing and mature poise, arrived to give a pre-view of the Darby scene, the Kunnell, Adams and I went out on his private balcony, which is similar to the captain's bridge on an ocean liner, and watched a snake-bellied, chestnut colt splash around the muddy saucer, in his final workout.

The Kunnel said it was Brevity, the heads-on favorite, and whispered while funnelling his hand over his mouth that the paddock prattlers, who like nothing better than to bury their mouths in a succulent morsel of gossip, said the little steed was nothing more than a love-horse, whose male parent was either [illegible] or Chance Shot, from a kind of girlhood romance with Ormanda.

But don't be certain, said the Kunnel, that Brevity would grab the brass ring in tomorrow's merry-go-round. Dear dear no. There was Bien Joli, and Grand Slam and Indian Broom and Teufel and Tintagel. And if the race didn't handle more than a million, the Kunnel would never slip another lip over a julep.

But what has Science to do with the making of Howard Clothes?

■ What is he doing here—this trained textile technician . . . this man who works with chemicals and precision instruments . . . here in this virtual world of Fabrics – Machines – Needles – Sheers – Thousands of Hands?

The Howard testing laboratory, located right in our own tailor plant, is the sentinel that guards the quality of every material that enters into the making of Howard Clothes. Only Howard Clothes wearers profit by the totally new clothing standards it develops! The first important thing about a suit of clothes is 100% all wool fabric . . . without that, what good is smart style or careful tailoring?

All the manufacturing facilities of our giant tailor plants mean more to you since the establishment of our testing laboratory for testing the wear, the contents, the color fastness, the shrinkage, and the quality of every material that goes into Howard Clothes. Howard Clothes must give satisfactory wear . . . when woolens are selected with such scientific care!

ANN MARSTERS' BEST BETS FOR TODAY

It hasn't been going very well the past few days. Yesterday two of my choices ran second, while another ran third. None of my four choices won. BERGERE and PARADE GIRL ran second, while RUST showed. RED BADGE was scratched.

The bankroll is now $514.40—after twenty-five days of the experiment. With the opening of Narragansett Park, I'm hoping for a change in my betting fortune.

ANN MARSTERS' BETS

$2 Win Taranto, Jamaica 3rd
$2 Win Care For, Pimlico 1st.
$2 Win Tack, Pimlico 8th.

Late Specials
$2 Win Jacobs entry, Jamaica 1st.
$2 Win Cachalot, Pimlico 7th.

BANKROLL IS NOW $514.40. DAY'S PLAY $10.

This afternoon, I'm betting TARANTO in the third at Jamaica. The same goes for CARE FOR in the first at Pimlico and TACK in the eighth at the same track. It's $2 on each to win.

My two late specials are the JACOBS ENTRY of OUT OF STEP and ETHELS CHOICE in the first at Jamaica and CACHALOT in the seventh at Pimlico.

(At the suggestion of Walter O'Hara, Miss Marsters has set out to determine that conservative bets can result in satisfactory profits, or at worst small losses. Walter O'Hara, Narragansett Park owner, provided the capital with a $1000 gift. Half was turned over to the Boston Evening American Christmas Fund immediately. The remainder will be similarly handled at the end of the experiment. This is the twenty-sixth day.)

Mr. Boston
Wilson For Bold Venture

By Jack Conway

DAVE Wilson, America's ace track handicapper, is back in Boston ready for the opening of the New England turf season at Narragansett Park on Saturday afternoon.

Since Narragansett closed last Fall, Dave has been in Florida and Maryland. His 1936 selections, as usual, have [illegible] the field. [illegible] had made a [illegible] win [illegible] every [illegible] picked to [illegible] first [illegible] the [illegible] would [illegible] made more [illegible] other handicappers [illegible] winners on seven and eight-card racing programs [illegible] equalled [illegible] mark.

Mr Boston

Wilson now comes [illegible] with Bold Venture [illegible]. A few weeks [illegible] from [illegible] win the [illegible] have [illegible] with Bold Venture.

"Bold Venture was sired by St. Germans who was also the sire of Twenty Grand which holds the Derby record.

"I question how Brevity will do over the mile and a quarter distance. He won the Florida Derby at a mile [illegible] track that had been specially rolled so [illegible] new [illegible] in the Derby may cause Brevity's downfall.

* * *

GRAND SLAM

"GRAND Slam didn't measure up to expectations in recent starts, and may be overtrained.

"The recent Chesapeake Stakes failed to furnish any outstanding horses. Gold Seeker, the filly that won while carrying 109 pounds, is not a great horse like Cavalcade and other famous thoroughbreds who have won the Maryland classic in the past.

"Getting back to Bold Venture, I saw this horse do a mile and a fourth in 2:10. Dick Thompson who trains the Bradley string, tells me Bold Venture is strictly the horse to beat to win the Derby.

"Osmond, a half brother of Brevity, who was exceptionally fast at a mile, couldn't win the Derby. The extra quarter of a mile was too much for him."

* * *

$50,000 RACE

I ASKED Dave how F[illegible] had fared in competition with California racing.

"Florida had the best of the two and three year olds," replied Wilson, "but California was out in front in the matter of the older stake horses. The Santa Anita Handicap, of course, is the big drawing card for California. Next year there will be the $50,000 Widener Challenge Handicap at Hialeah. This event will attract some of the better stake horses."

Wilson looks forward [illegible] successful racing season in New England.

"It would help racing in New England if there were contests for the jumpers," said Dave. "During the Maryland race meetings, the jumpers were featured and they attracted thousands of people to the tracks. The betting is not very heavy on these races, but they are colorful affairs and interest a new class of people in racing.

"With such a long racing season in New England it will be necessary to get away from the routine to keep up racing interest here."

Wilson stated that some of the competition in Florida this year was poor.

* * *

SEES WORKOUTS

ON HIS way to Boston from Maryland, Dave stopped off at Narragansett Park to see the thoroughbreds work out. He was anxious to get the last minute information on the horses that will compete at the Pawtucket, R. I., racing strip.

I asked Wilson what he thought of the success of Miss Ann Marsters in picking winners.

"I take off my hat to Miss Marsters," said Wilson. "She has been doing a fine job. Anytime a handicapper is able to make money while picking five horses a day the system is a success. It is much easier to keep ahead if naming only two or three horses a day. The more horses one picks the greater the percentage is against success."

* * *

$2,000,000

I ASKED Dave how much the racing stable of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt was worth?

"Easily $2,000,000," was the quick reply. "He has almost 100 horses, and also a breeding farm. Discovery alone is worth $125,000 while you couldn't buy Identify for less than $50,000. Gallant Mac is in the $15,000 class.

"Vanderbilt broke even on his racing stable last season as a result of the splendid performances turned in by Discovery. Over the years the big racing stables lose money. Owning such stables is a millionaire's game."

OAKLEY Sale Hint IN AIR

COUNTRY CLUB TEAM SHINES

By Bill Grimes

Annually, the rumor is circulated that the Oakley Country Club will be sold to a real estate promoter and cut up into house lots.

Now, a story is making the rounds, that there's a deal on, whereby the new owners of the Belmont Spring Country Club will trade their equity in the Waverley layout for Oakley.

Due to the fact that the parties who bought in the Belmont Spring Country Club are real estate men, there may be something behind the [illegible].

The Country Club made a race of the W. G. A. team match championship by defeating the Southern District 5 to 4 yesterday at the Dedham Country and Polo Club.

In meeting the Clyde Park representatives Southern had a clean slate with four victories. Mrs. E. S. Kelley turned the tide in favor of The Country Club by nosing out Mrs. S. W. Gifford 1 up, with the count four all. Mrs. Kelley came through under pressure. Mrs. Gifford had chipped from the right front edge of the 18th green dead to the cup before Mrs. Kelley's approach from the back of the home green to within a foot of the cup.

While The Country Club was spoiling Southern's record of straight wins, Midland was breaking into the matches won column with a 7 to 2 victory over Northern at Kernwood.

Starting the last half of the championship Southern is out in front by a margin of one match over The Country Club and Centre, with Middlesex and Northern tied for fourth place and Midland [illegible] in the cellar.

The Massachusetts Golf Association season opens today with the North Shore and Needham golf clubs acting as hosts to the open tournament players. The North Shore and Needham opens will continue through tomorrow and, weather permitting, will attract large fields.

There will be three classes in both of these events and many of the "regulars" plan to play both courses.

Ted Learnard is taking his first fling at junior varsity competition. . . He's playing with the Brae Burn Twilight League team. . . George McLeod is off to a fine start as the professional at the Fresh Pond Golf Club. . . [illegible] has a large following which will be in evidence this season at the Cambridge "Munie" . . . Johnny McCann, who was the unsuccessful finalist in the Hearst New England junior championship last year at Sandy Burr, will play on the Thorny Lea four-ball team Sunday . . . Incidentally, Gus White has made so many changes at Sandy Burr, especially in the clubhouse that few have recognized either the exterior or the interior of the structure . . .

Denny Shute has spent about 90 percent of his time since he arrived at Brae Burn teaching . . . He has given as many as 18 lessons in one day . . . Charles E. Mason, president of the Massachusetts Golf Association, has played seven rounds this season without getting a birdie but he has had one [illegible] . . . On a dare from George Bickford Jack Onslow, the old coach himself, has taken up golf . . . He'll probably spend the remainder of his life trying not to "hit behind the runner" . . . He was a dead right field hitter in baseball and already has developed the habit of hitting golf balls off the toe of his clubs . . . Jack may be hit with a few erring shots but he'll not have to worry over contacting bean bags with his handsome countenance.

With Gene Sarazen, who will be the defending champion, Denny Shute, Jug McSpaden, Charlie MacAndrew, Joe Fogarty and Jimmy Thompson entered in the Mass. open at Oak Hill, I hope Lawson Little has not spent any of the $[illegible] the Fitchburg club will offer for cash prizes . . . Al [illegible] is doing a nice job as caddy master at Charles River.

Bees' Trade Places Them Near First Division

By Joe Cashman

Now that President Bob [illegible] of the Bees has turned David Harum again by sending "[illegible]" Whitney back to Philadelphia in exchange for [illegible] Moore, [illegible] don't be surprised if he engineers a few more swaps in the near future. At least, you can bet he'll try.

The Bees' most creditable showing of five victories in their first 12 starts, has convinced the [illegible] that he needs very little new strength to have a first-division contender and he'd leave no stone unturned to bolster his forces.

The Whitney-Haslin shift [illegible] like a ten-strike for the McKechnie men. It can't possibly hurt [illegible]. Whitney a great ball player before he came here from the Quakers, has never been outstanding as a native. Haslin is years younger, much faster, and can play second and short as well as third base. He [illegible]

[illegible]

Now that he's been [illegible] from St. Louis [illegible]. And if [illegible] the Tigers [illegible]

Have [illegible] though [illegible] that he would be waived out of the American League.

The Tigers suffered another misfortune in their Thursday tilt at Washington, just 24 hours after Greenberg sustained his broken wrist. Manager "Mickey" Cochrane bruised his foot while catching and had to retire from the conflict. It's believed he'll be on the sidelines for a week or ten days. That won't help the champs any.

The first two innings of the Tuesday [illegible] to complete [illegible] "Doc" Cramer [illegible] were to bat [illegible] twice [illegible].

There [illegible] more than one [illegible] a hundred [illegible] triple [illegible] when Doc Cramer [illegible] the eighth [illegible] of the [illegible] with the Sox [illegible] it was the second time this year that he garnered the [illegible] honor. In an exhibition game [illegible], the Browns [illegible] North [illegible].

[illegible] smash was [illegible] triple and [illegible] double, both of which traveled to the centerfield wall. The drive shot off the bat into the hands of shortstop Luke Appling so quickly that Rick Ferrell and Eric McNair were caught [illegible] off second and first respectively.

Only 2½ games separate the first place Giants and last place Bees in the National League. The Red Sox, leading the American League parade, have a 7½-game advantage over the last place Browns.

Harvard Dramatic Club's Show Attracts Fashionable Audience

By BETTY ALDEN

RADCLIFFE, the Junior League and Erskine School contributed the talents of their leading ladies to lend the necessary feminine touch to the Harvard Dramatic Club's spring production "The Wind and the Rain," which opened last evening at the Peabody Playhouse . . .

Isabella Gardner, who has starred in a number of Junior League shows, interpreted the character of Mrs. McPhie, proprietress of a lodging house in a Scottish university city, where, it seems, it rains and rains and rains . . . a fact which greatly surprised us for we have always found the Scotch to be very dry people . . .

BETTINA GRAY

Bettina has a great time in the play, being quite motherly in a thorny Scotch dancer, to the same young men who in real life are her dancing partners at society parties . . .

Bettina Gray, post debutante daughter of the William C. Grays of Brookline, forsook her studies at Erskine school to be Lilians "who loved and [illegible] while Lois Hall, a Radcliffe undergraduate, waited quietly in the background to finally get her man . . .

The Harvardians in the cast were [illegible] Killam, Jr., a comedian who gave the audience many a chuckle with his antics, Norton Goodwin, the hero; John Flower, a sympathetic fellow student; Alfonso Ossorio, Paul Sturges and John Barnard . . .

Mary Killam, a post-deb who has tried her hand at acting also, was in the audience to watch her brother's performance . . . Her blondeness accentuated with a chiffon gown of violet blue and a short mink cape on her shoulders . . .

Mrs. Elting Morison (Anne [illegible]) attended to see what the Harvardians could do, and was very frankly delighted with the production . . .

Mrs. C. Nichols Greene's distinctive white coronet braids could be seen in the front row . . . over her scarlet velvet wrap and black and white flowered silk gown . . . She gave a small dinner party and had with her British Vice-Consul F. B. A. Rundall and Mrs. Rundall . . .

SISTERS AMONG USHERS AT ANNUAL PLAY BY HARVARD AMATEURS

HELEN LANG ELIZABETH WENTWORTH AMY LANG

MISS HELEN LANG and her sister, Amy, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Lang of Brookline, were among the ushers who seated the audience at "The Wind and the Rain," the Harvard Dramatic Club show which was presented last night at the Peabody Playhouse. Also an usher was Miss Elizabeth Wentworth, daughter of Mrs. Mark Wentworth of Concord.

Amy Lang Heads Ushers

LOUISA BEANE, Connie [illegible] and Emilie Dreyfus attended with escorts and others in the audience were Mrs. George H. Monks in a black and white flowered silk gown . . . Mr. and Mrs. Talcot Banks, Jr. . . . Miss Jane Megrew, Mrs. William Gray, mother of one of the leading ladies, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Benton, who also gave a small dinner party before the opening . . .

Amy Lang seemed to know, from her experience at the Junior League shows, just how to manage her bevy of ushers and handle the audience with the least confusion . . . Her assistants included her debutante sister Helen who wore a darling dress of rose moire with a fitted jacket, puffed of sleeve and buttoned tightly down the front with tiny buttons . . . Elizabeth Wentworth, who has just recently come back from Bermuda, gave Anne Hurlburt a few tips about the best ushering technique . . .

Anne's dress was worthy of any leading lady's wardrobe . . . made of blue and white [illegible] checked taffeta under a [illegible] puffed sleeved coat of navy blue [illegible] . . .

Mary Jane Dewey and her chum, Kay Baker, wore the smartest of spring prints for their balcony ushering . . .

Among the members of the Harvard Dramatic Club who served on the management committee for the show were Stephen Greene, Walter Teehan, [illegible] Chase, S. L. M. Cole, Warren Webster, John Garlick, Carl Drey, Jr., Benjamin Roth, [illegible] Webster, Norman Hunt and [illegible] Sommers . . .

Owing to mourning in the bride's family, plans for the wedding are quite simple and only the families and most intimate friends of the couple will attend . . .

The ceremony will be performed at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. George C. Fraser, and Miss Ursula Corn[illegible] of Basle, Switzerland, is to be the maid of honor . . . The bridesmaids are the Misses M[illegible] and Joan Hopkins of [illegible], Susan Hallowell [illegible] and Emily Cross of New York . . .

Henry Robbins, a Harvard senior, has gone down to serve his brother as best man and the ushers will include [illegible] H. Dickson, 3d, of West[illegible], Hiram Sibley, Jr., of Rochester, N. Y., William A. Shurcliff of Boston and George Fraser, Jr., brother of the bride, of Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y. . . .

An informal reception will follow the ceremony, before Mr. Robbins and his bride leave for their honeymoon . . . They are going to live in Auburn, Me., as Mr. Robbins is associated in business in nearby Lewiston . . .

The bride attended the Brearly school and made her debut in the season of 1930-31 . . . She graduated from Bryn Mawr in 1924 . . . Mr. Robbins was a member of the class of 1928 at Harvard where his clubs include the Hasty Pudding, Institute of 1770, the Phoenix S. K. . . . He is a brother of Miss Celina Robbins and of Mrs. Hiram Sibley, Jr., of Rochester, N. Y. . . .

Junior Philomatheia Hears News Talk

FRANK J. CONNAUGHTON'S lecture on "Journalism" was an extension course for members of the literary round table of the Junior Philomatheia who attended the informative talk at the chalet last evening.

Mr. Connaughton is assistant publisher of the Boston Evening American. In a straightforward, sincere manner he discussed the various fields of newspaper work, advertising, news reporting and circulation.

He likewise impressed his listeners with the necessity of accuracy in reporting and paid glowing tribute to such masters of journalism as William Randolph Hearst, Frank Munsey, Adolph S. Ochs, and Roy Howard.

Mary Clarissa McCarthy introduced the speaker . . . her [illegible] frock of navy crepe was [illegible] with bright print. Virginia Grimes, president of the club, took in the evening [illegible] ensemble of navy [illegible] with a [illegible] white collar.

Dorothy [illegible] of Newton topped her [illegible] skirt with a [illegible] of black [illegible] and a [illegible].

Deeply interested in the evening's lecture were Agnes McIlrath, her brown and white print most effective; her sister, Roddie, in beige wool colored in lynx. Accompanying them were Margaret Cavanaugh, her black costume most effective with her blonde hair and Geraldine Brady, who was similarly attired in black.

Others in the audience were Mary [illegible] Donald of Cambridge, Eleanor [illegible] of [illegible] and Dorothy [illegible] of Waltham.

Betty Beatley [illegible] the opportunity [illegible] patrons for the club's spring supper dance at the Hotel Somerset on May 1[illegible]. The arrangements for the affair [illegible] to be quite [illegible] and [illegible] ingenuity is being [illegible] to make it the season's best.

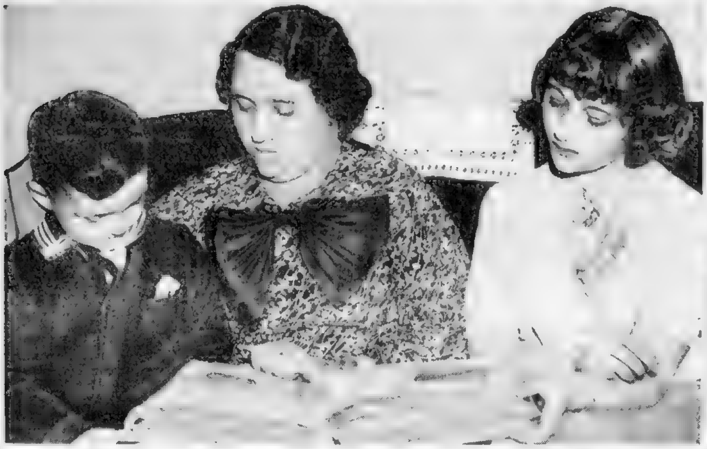
BOYLSTON AT ARLINGTON STREET BOSTON

Girl, 11, to Follow Dad Into Depths; Daredevil Diver's Wife Unworried



FREDERICK, JR. MRS. FREDERICK J. WALLACE ELEANOR WALLACE

(Picture from International News Photograph Service)

"We rarely have an anxious moment"—so declared Mrs. Frederick J. Wallace, with the dare-devil diver of 20-fathoms fame. And her daughter, Eleanor, 11, is ready to carry on the tradition of the family—to go down in the depths with her daddy. Frederick, Jr., 5, thinks he'll be a doctor. (Other photographs on Page 30.)

When pretty Dorothy Cullington forsook the serene confines of her family circle and a promising career in the millinery business to marry "that dare-devil diver Fred Wallace," both family and friends warned her what to expect.

Not that Fred J. Wallace wasn't an excellent young man in every respect. They all agreed on that. But he was a diver.

Not just an ordinary diver, but the famous descendant of three generations of divers, and hardly a day passed that didn't see his name in the headlines engaged in some hazardous job [illegible].

Life, they warned her, as Mrs. Fred Wallace would hardly be the serene, secure type best calculated to add to a wife's peace of mind.

But like countless other young ladies hopelessly and romantically in love, Dorothy Cullington did exactly what they advised her not to. She married the daring young man.

And she has never regretted it.

Anxious Moments

Nor has she experienced any more qualms or anxious moments than would the average young wife of the average young husband.

Although there are tremendous risks to be encountered resulting from undersea currents and pressure as well as possible accidents, she only worried once, on the job that required him to search for the body of a murdered gangster in the murky waters of the Quincy quarry.

"It may sound silly now," she said, "but at the time I was worried. You see the leader of the gang to which the murdered man belonged was also named Wallace.

"I don't know why,—but for one thing the connection in names bothered me so I couldn't leave the telephone until I knew that Fred was safe."

"He succeeded in bringing the body to the surface with no more [illegible]

"Guess I thought those gangsters would try to prevent him from doing his duty. But they don't know Fred. He always gets what he's after," she added laughing now at the memory of her anxious moments.

The Wallace family group now numbers four.

There is little Frederick Jr., five years old, and Eleanor, 11.

Strangely enough it is Eleanor who is destined to carry on the traditions of this famous diving family.

At first it was naturally supposed that only a boy could do that. But fate took a hand in the proceedings when one of the little boy's ears were affected by an abcess.

It is necessary in working far beneath the sea, that the ears are perfectly attuned to withstand the heavy pressure.

Mrs. Wallace can tell a rather amazing story of an incident in connection with her daughter's inborn desire to carry on the family profession. It sounds weird, almost fantastic, but two doctors have testified to its authenticity.

"It happened when she was two years old," explained the mother of this unusual family. "She had pneumonia and was very low. The doctor told us that she was dying, and that nothing could save her. But miraculously she pulled through.

"The attending physician upon examining her, discovered quantities of natural compressed air within her lungs. Subsequently another physician confirmed this, and declared that it must have been present in the lungs from birth."

Well, In the theater they say one has grease paint in one's blood when they follow the family tradition. In the newspaper business it's called [illegible].

One thing is certain about the Wallace family. It's going to carry on the diving tradition.

Nome Paddlers Make Albany

Albany, N. Y., May 1 (INS)—Sheldon Taylor and Geoffrey Pope, New York to Nome canoeists, were in Albany today after completing the first lap of their arduous journey. In the five days it took them to paddle up the Hudson from the metropolis the youths averaged 32 miles a day and on Wednesday covered 55 miles.

They nearly lost their lives on Wednesday when they were caught in a maelstrom of six-foot waves.

Late Bird

Orangeburg, S. C., May 1 (AP)—The maxim says the early bird gets the worm, but the bird who stayed up all night got a goldfish.

It happened at the home of H. C. Wannamaker, Sr., who reported an owl caught a goldfish from a pool in his back yard, then sat in a tree overhead while Wannamaker and the neighbors threw rocks at it.

PETERMAN'S DISCOVERY

Not just 3 or 4 "talking points"... but

A Whole Car Full of High Priced Features

Why pay more? V-type 8-cylinder Engine costs you $1645 except in the Ford V-8.

Why pay more? 186 Square Inches of braking surface.. more per pound of car weight than any car under $3195.

Why pay more? The Centerpoise Ride costs you $1275 except in the Ford V-8.

Why pay more? ¾-Floating Rear Axle costs you $1275 except in the Ford V-8.

Why pay more? Dual Down-draft Carburetion.. costs you $765 except in the Ford V-8.

Why pay more? A Torque-tube Drive costs you $765 except in the Ford V-8.

YOU simply can't judge the Ford V-8 by its low price. In many vital respects it is built differently from any other car on the market. This difference results in values which compare with those you find only in cars costing hundreds of dollars more. These features are basic advantages—not superficial "talking points" of questionable value or importance. Many of these extra values can be measured in dollars and cents. All of them are vitally important to you, because they give you performance, riding comfort, ease of handling, safety and operating economy far beyond the price you pay.

You can't judge this Ford V-8 from a distance, either. Only by driving it can you know, first hand, what these extra values mean in all around satisfaction to you. Why not do that today? Just telephone your Ford dealer for a car to try.

Six Men in a Boat

How John Garnish Acquired a Watch And a Flock of Medals

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY:

It isn't often that heroes get the medals they deserve for their brave deeds, but here's one that did. He is John Garnish of Dupont street, Brooklyn, N. Y., and if the reward is any criterion of the deed, John must have done the most heroic act of the century. He got, not just one medal, but two. And in addition, he was presented with a gold watch and two life-saving certificates.

FLOYD GIBBONS

Now I've got you wondering what a man could do to deserve all that stuff for one act of heroism. Well, John just threw away his life, that's all. He just tossed it out on the waters—chucked it into the laps of the Fates. And it was nothing but dumb luck—or maybe an act of Providence—that it came floating back to him.

It was September, 9, 1922. The Lamport & Holt Line steamship Euclid picked up an S O S call from the Hamburg-American liner Harmonia.

It was 6 a. m., and a storm was raging in the Bay of Biscay, through which the Euclid was ploughing its way, but the S O S was urgent—the Harmonia was sinking rapidly—and the Euclid was only a few hours run away. The skipper ordered the ship about and set the men who were off duty to lowering all available Jacob's ladders over the side and tying them fast.

John Garnish was a fireman on the Euclid. He was one of the men off duty and working on the Jacob's ladders. He saw the whole rescue from start to finish, and wound up by getting right into the thick of it.

The Euclid reached the Harmonia at 9:30 a. m., after having fought its way through a sea that had seriously injured one of the sailors. "What a sight she was," says John. "I have been through the World War in the merchant marine—have seen ships torpedoed and sunk—have watched oil tankers burst into flame, drop out of the convoy and go to the bottom. But the Harmonia is one ship I'll never forget.

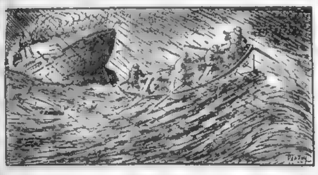
"As we approached her she was lying on her starboard side, her rails almost in the water. The lifeboats on her port side were useless on account of the list. Of the starboard boats, only a few had been able to get away because of the heavy sea. We saw dozens of corpses floating in the water. But the storm made it impossible for us to lower our own boats. We could only stand by and wait.

"A lifeboat from the Harmonia came toward us and our skipper saw that it was filled with members of the crew. He ordered them to go back and rescue women and children. Instead, they scrambled and fought for the ladders until our skipper brought the ship around to the weather side and the boat was swamped by the heavy sea."

It was one of those disgraceful things that happen every so often in sea disasters. The captain of the Euclid gave orders to fish the panic-stricken sailors out of the water and turned to the chief officer. "I won't order my men to take a boat out in that sea," he said, "but if any of them want to volunteer, they can go ahead."

John Garnish heard him say that. So did another fireman. Both of them volunteered on the spot. John wasn't the only hero on that boat that day, nor the only man to earn—and deserve—watches, life-saving certificates and a flock of medals. Three more sailors and the chief officer joined with them and they lowered a boat into the raging sea.



The wind and waves buffeted the little boat about like a cork. The six men in her were tossed high in the air on the crest of every wave until it seemed little short of miraculous that their cockleshell boat wasn't capsized and swamped. They fought like fiends against the power of the Atlantic, and at length they reached the stricken liner.

"We came close under her stern," says John, "and soon discovered that this was a mistake, for the sea was washing up on her well deck. We pulled out again and came back in amidships. I caught one of her port holes with a boat hook and a sailor grabbed one of the blocks that was dangling over the side of her davits. Passengers now started jumping from the saloon deck. Many of them missed the boat and landed in the water, but we got them. We started back for our ship loaded down with forty people and I never thought we'd be able to make it.

"Half way between the two ships we saw an upturned boat with four women and a little girl clinging desperately to the bottom. It was a pitiable sight, but we could do nothing until we had unloaded our passengers. However, we reached the ship safely, got all our people aboard, and then set out to aid the upturned boat."

That was the most terrible part of the whole adventure. The men at the oars were already exhausted by their grueling trip to the Harmonia, but they rowed on until they reached the upturned lifeboat. After a bitter fight they got there, pulled the castaways into their boat and brought them safely back to the ship. Then the brave crew of that little boat dragged themselves aboard the Euclid with the cheers of the people they had rescued ringing in their ears.

Other ships began appearing on the scene now and helped with the rescue work. The Harmonia sank, and the captain, the last man aboard, was rescued by the crew of the Kingsford Castle. But a hundred lives had been lost in the excitement and panic that reigned aboard the stricken vessel before the Euclid had reached the scene.

Well, sir, I'm mighty glad to be sending John a check for ten bucks, to add to his collection of trophies from that experience. Any more of you want a ten-dollar bill? Well—send me YOUR STORY.

'The Walking Dead' Best Of Karloff's Films

By MARION FRENCH

"The Walking Dead," one of the ne[illegible] Paramount and Fenway Theaters this week, is about the best of the "horror" pictures to date, in our opinion.

Not only does [illegible] Boris Karloff, surpass his past characterizations of weird, inhuman creatures here, but the picture's plot, unlike many of its predecessors, has an element of realism and probability which increases its effectiveness.

The [illegible] that [illegible] man could be brought back to life offers unlimited possibilities in the way of thrills, shivers and dramatic climaxes. In "The Walking Dead," such a situation [illegible] place when Boris Karloff, as a man falsely condemned for murder, is returned to the ranks of the living through a surgeon's [illegible] after [illegible] mile."

Edmund Gwenn is cast as the operating physician. He has tried [illegible] to save the doomed pr[illegible] [illegible] him to be innocent. These youngsters, played by Marguerite [illegible] been intimidated by the real culprits and are afraid to testify as [illegible] Judge Shaw, who had sentenced Karloff to ten years in the peni[illegible] slain.

How the "walking dead" man gets revenge on the five guilty racketeers who have framed him after "rubbing out" the judge for personal reasons, provides many hair-raising and gruesome episodes in this exciting and suspenseful picture.

The entire supporting cast, which includes Ricardo Cortez, Barton MacLane, Robert Strange, Eddie Acuff, Joseph Sawyer, Kenneth Harlan and Henry O'Neill, [illegible] standard of acting set by the star, Boris Karloff. Joe Morrison sang "Roses of Picardy," "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and other favorites. He obliged with a cowboy medley which included "The Last Roundup," the song he sang with such success while appearing with Whiteman's Band, for which he took many bows.

Hal LeRoy exhibited his magic stepping and is at his best in a fast-stepping dance done to "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes."

LEWIS HANEY ON TREND

Relief in Jersey BALKED BY TAX GAINS, Suffers Collapse

By LEWIS HANEY
(Professor of economics, New York University)

New York, May 1—One of the most interesting and important developments of recent days has been going on in New Jersey. This is not the Wendel kidnaping or the goings on of Governor Hoffman. It is the breakdown of the central public relief system in that state.

The New Jersey Legislature has decided that the people of New Jersey will not stand a heavier burden of taxation. They have therefore scrapped the old relief set-up and turned the relief problem over to the counties and towns.

* * *

The people in that state are tired of growing taxes.

They are disgusted with the waste of centralized political relief, which has been swelling their taxes.

They are beginning to realize that they can't shift the cost of relief to someone else, but that it all comes back to them. The nation or the state, after all, has no means except what it takes from its individual citizens. What the central governments spend, they tax or "borrow" from the people.

Why, the New Jersey citizen asks, should we not handle our relief problem directly? It will cost us less in the end.

* * *

At first, there were misgivings aroused by action of a little group of professional relief-takers. These persons entered and held the meeting place of the New Jersey Legislature in the State Capitol. Many good citizens asked themselves: "Is this the beginning of the 'social revolution' about which we have heard so much whispering?"

But the affair soon developed into a side show, which in its futility was half silly and half sickening. It was no revolution. It was merely a sordid demonstration.

Neither the people of New Jersey nor the people of any other state deny the existence of great depression, millions of unemployed, and the necessity of giving much relief. Some relief there must be. But in what way should it be given? To whom? How much?

Why should the relief burden keep on increasing?

Why should it become a matter of politics?

* * *

We are gradually coming to see two great truths. One of these is that "employment" and "relief" are two very different problems. A man is employed when he is helping to produce goods that can be sold to others who want them enough to pay for them. His wages should be in proportion to his productivity. Relief, however, is a matter of providing for the wants of the needy—those who cannot find employment. It should be according to need, and is not a matter of industry or economics, except that it should be as economical as is consistent with decency.

These matters should be kept separate. (And neither is a matter for the central government or for politics.)

* * *

The second great truth is that relief as now administered, mixed up with "employment" and politics, leads to a vicious circle.

It doubles the cost of relief.

This runs up our debt, and doubles the taxes.

The result is that people who have or are earning money, have less left for buying goods.

So business is handicapped.

Thus there is less employment, and more people ask relief! The more "relief" we give this way, the more we have to give.

As the mayor of one New Jersey town says: "If a town administers i's own relief, it knows who is on the rolls. If those on relief know the town is caring for them through taxing their friends and neighbors, the tendency is for fewer people to seek relief. There is less of this feeling when the money comes from the federal and state governments, the feeling being, "Well, I might as well get mine.' "

RETAIL Trade GAINS

WEATHER IS FACTOR

By Associated Press

New York, May 1—Better weather conditions during the week enabled retail trade to advance to a level 8 to 12 per cent higher than a year ago, it was revealed today in a survey by Dun & Bradstreet.

"The definite turn to more seasonable weather reacted favorably on nearly all branches of trade during the week," it was stated.

"It influenced shoppers to spend more freely, which pushed sales of spring goods to a new high for the season.

"The oustanding gain, however, was in wholesale markets, the influx of buyers building up the best volume for the period since 1931.

"The few instances of recession provided no check to the general forward movement of the industrial pace, the profits reported by numerous manufacturers for the first quarter attesting the extent of the improvement."

* * *

At retail, it was stated, consumers apparently had more money to spend, and not only purchased more goods but also demanded better quality than at any time in the past five years.

"Although the strong recovery of consumer buying enabled a number of cities to report increases up to 15 per cent over the preceding week's retail sales," the review continued, "the gain over the previous year's total was narrowed.

"Taking the country as a whole, the estimated volume of distribution ranged from 8 to 12 per cent higher than for the corresponding 1935 week.

"Wider retail distribution benefited the forward trend of wholesale trade, as gains were recorded in most branches during the week. Most of the markets had the largest attendance of buyers for the week, with purchases covering late spring, summer and winter requirements."

ERIE ASKS Loan Extension

The Erie Railroad has applied to the ICC for a three-year exteision of an RFC loan of $2,775,000 due May 31, 1936.

In its application Erie reported a net loss of $172,167 for the first three months of 1936, against a net loss of $423,262 in the first quarter of 1935.

The road estimated its net income for 1936 at $1,440,044.

Wall St. Hears

New York, May 1 (INS)—That first half earnings of National Steel (NAX) are likely to fall below the $3.04 reported in the 1935 period.

That Loew's (LW) profits for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31 are estimated at around $5 a common share.

That another dividend payment in October by Columbia Gas & Electric (CG) is probable.

That First National Stores (FST) earned approximately $3.50 a share in the year ended March 31.

OPPOSE Devaluation OF MARK

DEMANDS ARE FOUGHT

By William Shirer
Universal Service Special Cable

Berlin, May 1 — In a desperate move to obtain sorely needed raw materials, Germany concluded new trade agreements with Russia and Manchukuo as Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, supplanted "economic dictator" of the Nazi Reich, in a stormy meeting at Chancellor Hitler's offices, vigorously fought against demands for devaluation of the mark made by German industrialists.

That the financial difficulties which led to Air Minister Goering being appointed dictator of foreign exchange and raw material matters over the head of Schacht are largely based on a grave need of raw materials to feed Germany's industrial machine was indicated by the Frankfurter Zeitung. The newspaper stated:

"The stocks of raw materials have diminished to a level beyond which they cannot drop any farther, if the trends of industry are to be maintained."

Reliable reports which could not be officially confirmed stated that Schacht, president of the Reichsbank and Minister of Economics, smarting at having been shelved in favor of Goering, who is the new "financial dictator," offered his resignation to Chancellor Hitler but that Hitler would not accept it.

* * *

Other reports that Schacht had spiked when he appeared at the meeting in the chancellory, where thirty-six leading industrialists held what was described as a stormy discussion over the question of devaluating the mark and this year's industrial levy. It is the industrial levy which furnishes the fund from which German exports are subsidized.

Exporting industrialists, backed by Nazi politicians, were reported to have demanded devaluation. But Schacht opposed it and no definite decision was reached.

Instead, Schacht was understood to have won his point by enforcing the export levy for another year. Last year the levy amounted to 1,000,000,000 marks. No word of the meeting at the Chancellory was allowed to be printed in the German press.

REPUBLIC TO Spend $1,250,000

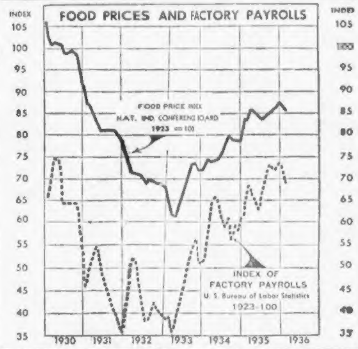
Republic Steel Corp will make expenditures totaling over $1,250,000 at plants in Youngstown, Cleveland, Buffalo, Canton and Warren and its northern ore mines and one of its Pennsylvania coal mines.

In Youngstown it will spend nearly $560,000 in installation of heat-treating furnace, together with necessary auxiliary equipment, in enlarging and modernization of some of its open-hearth furnaces and in other smaller improvements.

United Stores

United Stores Corp. reports for year ended Dec. 31, 1935, net loss of $57,259.

FOOD PRICES DECLINE



Index Now Stands At 85.7

For the first time since last summer the food price index declined during the first two months of 1936.

The index now stands at 85.7. (1923 equals 100.)

The Northwestern National Life Insurance Company estimates this drop in food prices means a saving of $1,000,000 a day to consumers.

Coincident with the drop in food prices is the decline in factory payrolls. This is due mainly to the seasonal reduction of operations in many lines of production and the reduced volume of retail trade following the Christmas buying season.

Severe weather conditions were responsible for slack periods of employment, especially in building construction and quarrying industries.

Wall Street Sidelights

New York, May 1—Use of light-weight, streamline, Diesel-driven trains by the railroads is expanding.

The Burlington, a pioneer in the fast stream-line field, yesterday sought permission to issue equipment trusts to buy two new 6-car and two new 10-car "stream-liners."

Union Pacific, another pioneer, has two of the streamline trains in operation, and will put four more in service during May and June. Union Pacific has found the first cost of Deisels about four times per horsepower greater than steam equipment. The new 6-car Burlingtons will cost $578,000 each, and the 10-car trains $1,109,000 each. Analysis of Union Pacific figures shows fuel oil to drive the "streamliners" averages about 21 cents a mile, against an average coal cost of 23 cents a mile for steam locomotives.

* * *

Bargain Hunters Noticeably Absent

Stock market experts expressed much concern yesterday over the failure of so-called buying by "bargain hunters" to develop during the latest phase of the price decline. Among the reasons advanced for this was the opinion that the list thus far has indicated no immediate rally sign and the belief that successive fresh selling waves this week is discouraging new buyers. At the same time it is being admitted that the Federal Reserve Board regulations requiring a 55 per cent margin on all new purchases is partially prohibiting new purchases in old accounts. The rules forbid the use of surplus funds in an existing account for additional purchases in cases where the original 55 per cent margin has become impaired. Only by putting up the deficit to make up the margin requirement on a new transaction can the trader "average down his holdings."

* * *

Gold Price Rise Rumors Revised

Each decline of any drastic proportions in the stock market since the dollar was devalued early in 1934 has encouraged revived rumors of the change in the American gold price. The present instance is no exception and the talk is that the revision will occur if the current slump persists for any length of time. Bankers, however, doubt such a possibility. While on the subject of gold, figures on world production recently published by the London Economist are interesting. It points out that in 1936 gold output totaled 31,000,000 gold ounces, an increase of 50 per cent over 1929. Some experts have predicted a world gold production of 40,000,000 ounces by 1940. These statistics tend to dispel fears held in some quarters that lack of gold might force the world to find some substitute for the yellow metal.

Calls Viewpoint Reversal Needed

Now is the time, said one security analyst yesterday, for the investor to switch from long-term bonds to short-terms and sound equities. What are sound equities? He thinks equities are sound, for the investor, when because of earnings and price they seem to promise a return of about 4 per cent or better. Despite the recent drop in stocks, this would, he pointed out, still eliminate from the investor's consideration many equities on the Stock Exchange. Examples of the stocks he had in mind were Woolworth at a yield of close to 5 per cent, Corn Products yielding close to 4 per cent and General Foods yielding close to 5 per cent. His judgment is formed from several angles. First, he thinks that long-term bonds are in their sphere at about the point equities were in September, 1929. The incentive to buy them, he believes, has been eliminated by their extremely low yield. Short-terms, of course, he said, have little or no yield, but if his expectations are fulfilled, it will be better to have them coming due a year to a year and a half from now than to be forced to sell long-terms at a discount from current levels. Secondly, he thinks inflation is a dream which will not come, because of our productive capacity and natural resources. In the third place, he declares that if general business continues to expand in the next year as it has in the past, the demand for money by business will raise interest rates, and conversely depress the prices of long-term bonds.

25 Years Ago

New York, May 1 (INS)—Rail financing totaled $427,910,00 for year to date.

U. S. Steel common jumped 1⅛ on sales of 110,400 shares.

N. Y. Central March net dipped to $582,275.

International Harvester sales rose to $101,166,00 for year.

Freight Loadings Show Increase

Washington, May 1 (AP) — The Association of American Railroads reported today loadings of revenue freight for the week ending last Saturday totaled 666,181 cars.

This was an increase of 23,524 cars, or 3.7 per cent, compared with the preceding week; an increase of 107,245 or 19.2 per cent, compared with a year ago, and an increase of 56,477 or 9.3 per cent, compared with two years ago.

The week's loadings of various classifications, giving comparisons with preceding week, and corresponding week a year ago, follow:

Fleeces Quiet In Boston Mart

All grades of fleeces were quiet in the Boston market, the United States Department of Agriculture reported today.

Nominally quotations were about unchanged from last week. Some strictly combing bright fleeces were offered for delivery within the next few weeks at 35 cents in the grease. Most houses were asking 36 to 37 cents but mills showed little interest.

Users of wools, especially a few topmakers, were making offers on fine territory wools of average to good French combing length in original bags at 78 to 80 cents scoured basis for delivery within a few weeks. Asking prices, however, ranged mostly 82 to 83 cents scoured basis.

Dividend

Vanadium-Alloys Steel Co. declared a dividend of 50 cents, payable June 2 to stock of record May 20.

Bar Silver

London, May 1 (AP)—Bar silver steady and unchanged at 5-16d. (Sterling price equivalent to 45.19 cents).

Bar Gold

London, May 1 (AP)—Bar gold advanced ½ penny to 140s 10d. (Sterling price equivalent to $34.78).

COTTON Trade Losing GROUND

SANE U. S. PLAN IS NEEDED

Pinehurst, N. C., May 1 (AP)—Thomas H. Webb, of Concord, N. C., told cotton manufacturers here today that mill production, cotton consumption and cotton exports have fallen off since the federal farm program was inaugurated.

"Cotton manufacturing," he said, "will move on to some other country or countries if not treated sanely. It is not destined to remain in any area or be dominant in any country. England once thought no one could spin and weave except herself. New England thought the South had no manufacturing genius or capital. Now many in the South think the industry has come here to stay and treat it in any way."

Webb is president of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, in convention here. He read, in his presidential address, these statistics, which he called "ominous."

SPINDLES REDUCED

"Spindles in the United States have been reduced from 36,047,361 (in 1921) to 29,382,594, with only 23,193,734 operating in December, 1935.

"Consumption of American cotton in the United States from 1928-29 to 1934-35 dropped 1,417,000 bales.

"Production of American cotton during the same period dropped 4,020,000 bales. Exports last year dropped approximately 1,000,000 bales.

"And yet world consumption dropped only 350,000 bales."

Webb said the textile industry operated at an aggregate deficit of $90,313,475 during the eight-year period 1926-1933 inclusive.

PUBLIC COULD HELP

He then said the public and politicians could help "in ridding the industry of disturbing state and national legislation such as excessive government control of the industry; doubtful laws which to the average layman seem so unconstitutional and unfair that doubt as to their permanency destroys confidence in business; unreasonable labor legislation which is incapable of being understood or enacted and which, if not in this category, would so regiment industry as to lessen and possibly kill its efficiency; burdensome tax laws which come under the above classification; inequitable freight rates, and foreign competition — exports and imports — which harass the domestic market and narrow the productive demand."

Bond Market Turns Upward

New York, May 1 (INS)—Paced by industrials and some of the second-grade rail issues, the bond market turned upward in dealings today in moderately active trading.

Bush Terminal 5s led the way with a spurt of 3 points to 60, while gains of a point and more were shown by Auburn 4½s, Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 5s, Postal Telegraph 5s and Paramount 6s.

Others to move well above their previous closings included Warner Brothers 6s, Utilities Power & Light 5s, International Telephone 5s, General Theaters certificate 6s, American Telephone debenture 5s, and U. S. Rubber 5. Pure Oil 4½s and Third Avenue Railway 4s were lower.

EASTERN MASS.

Street RAILWAY EARNS Profit

By Hugh E. Bradshaw

Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway earnings for the month of March are the largest reported by the company in years. And the quarter ending with March recorded the best net income in recent times.

In March alone better than one dollar per first preferred share was realized while earnings in the quarter totalled $2.75 per share.

Thus does the Massachusetts transit system, so many thought was all through, turn the corner. The writer quite frankly admits his pleasure in reading the report since it is just a few months less than two years ago that he made the first of many regular recommendations to accumulate the securities of the company.

* * *

The operating report of Eastern Massachusetts for March is particularly interesting. Revenues increased over March, 1935, by $60,756. And slightly better than one-half of this sum, $30,546, was carried down through the balance sheet to net income account, swelling that item to $42,781, compared with the $12,235 of March, 1935. Considering gains in operating expenses, taxes and depreciation and equalization, this is a fine showing. It was made possible in large measure through the operation of buses, in our opinion. And should be the first of many more such cheerful comparisons.

* * *

Notebook: Today impresses as a good time to list a few fairly broad and fairly reliable selling rules . . . Stocks that have broken out of well defined congestion areas and rally back to the lower edge of the area are usually good sales . . . Stocks that fail to join in a moderately active rally embracing nearly the whole list should be trimmed out of accounts . . . What not to sell includes those issues and groups practically unaffected by a sharp slide such as that just witnessed . . . The can stocks are a good case in point . . . For even if they work lower we have excellent evidence of a good speculative position.

* * *

It seems safe to say that the stock market at the recovery highs witnessed so far has not had the full runback one might normally expect. It may be that by rallying on the third day in such brisk fashion the list will need more time to negotiate a good turn. Perhaps the full five sessions that could elapse before making a turn will be used. In any event we would not suggest new buying as we much prefer to concentrate on getting tardy sellers to place their accounts in better shape.

* * *

This and That: If the lows of Thursday mark the minimums before a full-blown technical rally the Dow-Jones industrial average could reach back into the 151-153 area . . . The companion rail average should be good for 45-47 . . . In finding likely areas from which technical rallies may start tops set during the upswing are fairly reliable . . . Thus prices are now back to tops set last November and December . . . If news dispatches from abroad are not frightening and if Washington stays out of the headlines technicians will take a cheerful view of the prospects from Thursday's lows.

Black Admitted As Partner

AM. TELEPHONE TURNS HEAVY

New York, May 1—Strength of scattered specialties, a number of which extended their recoveries of Thursday by 1 to 3 points, helped to bolster today's stock market.

It was far from a one-way move, however, as American Telephone again turned heavy, dropping more than 3 and Douglas Aircraft was off 2 at the approach of the fourth hour.

Some of the steels, motors, utilities and rails were also inclined to back water. Trading verged on dullness after a rather active opening.

Conspicuous on the upside were Columbian Carbon, Allied Chemical, Case, Deere, duPont, Johns-Manville, American Smelting and Continental Can. Among losers of fractions to a point were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Consolidated Edison, North American, N. Y. Central and Northern Pacific.

Wheat pointed lower on reports of rains in the drouth districts and other commodities were mixed. Foreign currencies were narrowly irregular, as were bonds.

Official figures showing a more than seasonal upturn in last week's car loadings had been forecast and the carrier stocks were not especially responsive. Miscellaneous freight shipments accounted for most of the increase.

Current Items

With happenings at home and abroad a bit complex, many traders in stocks seemed to find their seats on the sidelines quite comfortable. These, while agreeing with bullish protagonists that industrial progress shows no sign of important interruption, still seemed a trifle dubious regarding the ability of equities to resume, for any length of time, the upward stride.

Both retail and wholesale distribution, Dun & Bradstreet noted, pushed ahead briskly during the week, responding partly to better weather conditions and partly to demands of merchants in restocking their shelves. The wholesale volume was said to have been the best for the period since 1931.

Although consumer buying in a number of cities was found to have exceeded by 15 per cent the preceding week's total, the gain over the corresponding 1935 period narrowed.

The weekly statement of the Federal Reserve System disclosed a rise of $50,000,000 in excess reserves of member banks due to heavy disbursements by the Treasury.

An increase of $20,000,000 in brokers' loans was attributed principally to the desire of the commission houses to obtain additional credit before the reserve board's new bank margin regulations went into effect.

At the beginning of foreign currency dealings, the French franc was off .00⅛ of a cent at 6.58½ cents, and sterling was up ¼ of a cent at $4.94.

Comments of Brokers

Rallies like the one yesterday vary in length and not infrequently recover a third or more of the ground lost. This could mean further gains of several points on the average before any substantial downturn. G. M. P. Murphy & Co.

New trading commitments, in the main, should be delayed pending the inevitable secondary setback and test of yesterday's lows. —H. D. Comer—Paine, Webber & Co.

We would prefer to watch the market, rather than participate in it, until a basis, other than purely technical considerations, is furnished for an advance.—J. E. Molloy—Hornblower & Weeks.

A trading attitude still seems best in view of the European uncertainties and the congressional discussion of tax bill.—N. F. Hyde, Jr.—Josephthal & Co.

Unless there is some more bad news on tap this morning we would expect early strength to carry the average at least to 147.—Soucy, Swartsweiter Co.

Under exising state of sentiment only technical factors can be expected to influence demand for the remainder of the week so that a trading policy should be maintained.—J. P. Maher—Shields & Co.

Additional improvement may be consummated immediately or may be gradual, taking as much as three sessions for its completion. A secondary dip would be expected to follow it to furnish a test as to the validity of yesterday's resistance levels. J. S. Bache & Co.

With a view to adjusting ourselves to a digestive market over the next two months, speculators should consider a review of their holdings with the thought of switching into issues which have promising prospects over the near term. —R. S. Feigus, Prentice, Blauner & Brady.

MARKET Traders Feel CHIPPER

SHOULD BE CAUTIOUS

By International News Service

New York, May 1—Market traders feel as chipper as ever today following yesterday's spectacular right-about-face, forgetful for the moment of the havoc wrought in bullish ranks as a result of the successive shakeouts of the past three weeks.

The decision as to whether this recovery is but a temporary interlude in an intermediate downtrend, or a definite swing to the constructive side, will of course have to be held in abeyance for future developments.

However, there could be no mistaking the vigor of Thursday's late comeback. Measured by the Dow-Jones averages, the industrials closed two points to the good, the rails were up one, and the utilities were up better than half a point.

This does not quite tell the whole story, for the rally did not set in until the list had experienced another sickening decline, in which new losses of 1 to 5 points were sustained in ranking leaders.

Speculators

As usual in performances of this character many speculators found themselves badly whipsawed, running from selling to buying side without regard to price, though at a sad loss when the net result of their operations were computed at the end of the day.

Although current technical indications call for some further recovery from present levels, traders should watch their step very closely pending unmistakable evidences of a climax to the pressure.

Aside from the tax bill, there were several items in the day's batch of news which will bear watching.

One was the disclosure by the SEC that corporation officials were largely on the selling side of the market during March.

The other was contained in the Chicago address of Chairman Landis of the SEC in which the implication was made that the government might be forced to take a firmer grip on business and financing in the future.

BOOT, SHOE Production Off

Although productions of boots and shoes in March increased from February, it remained below March, 1935, the Department of Commerce reported. Production during the first quarter of this year, however, was 3.7 per cent above the first quarter of 1935.

March production was 33,595,671 pairs, against 32,142,450 in February and 34,228,167 in March, 1935. Production for the first quarter this year was 98,158,110 pairs, against 94,667,174 during the corresponding period of 1935.

Washington Notebook

Washington, May 1 (AP)—Boot and shoe production, as reported to the census bureau, fell off somewhat in March but for the first quarter was 3.7 per cent larger compared with the corresponding 1935 periods.

Output by 934 factories of boots, shoes and slippers for the month totaled 33,595,671 pairs compared with 34,228,167 in March, 1935.

For the first quarter the total was 98,158,110 against 94,667,174 in the comparable period last year. The figures covered 98 per cent of the industry's production.

A gain of 2 per cent in the dollar volume of retail sales in March compared with the same month last year is shown in reports to the commerce department from 801 concerns.

Substantial gains in sales of automotive products, lumber and hardware offset declines in food, general merchandise and coal and ice groups.

Indications of sustained trade improvement were seen in an increase of about $40,000,000 last month compared with April, 1935 in treasury collections of miscellaneous internal revenue, which includes liquor, tobacco, gasoline and other levies on important articles of consumption.

A sharp increase in new orders for steel boilers in the first quarter of this year was reported to the census burea by 68 manufacturers.

They totalled 2,023,427 square feet of heating surface compared with 1,322,572 in the first quarter last year and 836,643 in the corresponding 1934 period. The March total was 589,676 against 647,062 in the like 1935 month . . .

Commerce Department fixtures for March on consumption of raw wool in this country reflect a further slowing of operations in the industry following the unusually high peak reached in the second half of last year.

Bankers ARE NOT Panicky

By B. C. Forbes

Bankers are not at all panicky. At an influential private gathering of representative bankers from most parts of the country this week, comparison of notes revealed that a somewhat freer lending policy is coming into vogue and is likely to be substantially broadened.

Bankers are just as eager as any other business men to earn profits when they feel they can do so without incurring undue risk.

They are impressed by the extent of the economic betterment already achieved in most lines and in most sections of the country. Although they keenly dislike the trend of events at Washington, and are not enamoured over the longer political outlook, they are finding an increase in acceptable business borrowers.

* * *

This, imparted to me by perhaps the most influential banker in America, is reassuring:

"The outlook at the moment is for four more years of Roosevelt. Washington admittedly has been acting most disconcertingly. The administration doesn't seem to realize that re-employment on a satisfactory scale can be achieved only by inspiring confidence among the employing and inventing classes.

"But don't forget that the American people still retain a very large measure of commonsense, and that they are likely to oppose effectively any further ultra-Socialistic political proposals."

He added:

"You may be interested to know that from our connections in both London and Paris we have all along received quieting rather than alarming advices concerning the prospect of declarations of war. I am in constant communication with them by telephone. They declare that there has been far more of a war scare in the United States than in Europe. They emphasize that neither Mussolini nor Hitler is in a position to finance a European war."

Here's hoping they're right!

* * *

Baldwin Locomotive used to confine its activities mainly to building railway locomotives. Because of the long abstinence of engine-buying by railroads, the present management, under President George H. Houston, has so diversified its activities that more than three-fourths of its production volume is now in other lines.

Baldwin is undergoing reorganization with a view to cutting down its fixed charges very drastically, an essential step in view of the fact that, whereas its locomotive business in 1923 exceeded $98,000,000, the total barely topped $1,000,000 in 1932. Half-hearted reorganizations are rarely even half-way successful—as railway reorganizations have repeatedly proved, to the discomfiture of security holders.

3 Bids and Proposals

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—Metropolitan District Water Supply Commission.—EAST BRANCH BAFFLE OR DIVERSION DAM.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Metropolitan District Water Supply Commission, ninth floor, 20 Somerset Street, Boston, Massachusetts, until 11 A. M. Daylight Saving time (10 A. M. Eastern Standard time) Thursday, May 14, 1936, for the construction of a baffle or diversion dam of earth embankment with riprapped slopes containing about 550,000 cubic yards in Greenwich and Hardwick, Massachusetts. Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $10,000. A bond or other approved security in such sum not to exceed 75% of the amount of the contract, as the Commission may determine after the bids are opened, will be required of the successful bidder to secure the faithful performance of the contract. Special attention is called to the minimum rates of wages prescribed under the provisions of Chapter 461 of the Acts of 1935 by the State Department of Labor and Industries for the construction of this public work. A schedule of such rates is on file and may be obtained at the office of the Commission. Plans may be seen and forms of proposal, contract and specifications obtained at the above address from Frank E. Winsor, Chief Engineer of the Commission, about May 4. A complete set of blueprints of contract plans may be obtained upon deposit of $3.00 per set which will be refunded only to those returning plans prior to opening of bids or to bidders. The site of the work may be seen by applying at the office of the engineer at Shaft 12 of the Quabbin Aqueduct, near the site of the work in the town of Greenwich, Massachusetts. The Commission reserves the right to reject any or all proposals or to accept any one which seems to be the most advantageous for the Commonwealth.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT WATER SUPPLY COMMISSION, by R. Nelson Molt, Secretary, ninth floor, 20 Somerset Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Invite Annihilation

ONE OF the gravest dangers that all thinking Americans should awake to is the propaganda being carried on by active minorities against national defense.

It seems almost incredible that with ten million more men under arms today in Europe than at the end of the World War there should be Americans so fatuous and deluded as to believe that this country should be UNPREPARED to meet sudden attacks by sea, air or land.

Still more incredible are those Americans WHO REFUSE TO DEFEND AMERICA.

Assistant Secretary of War Woodring, in addressing an American Legion convention in Florida, made this startling statement:

> "We find organized minorities have carried on, with increasing vigor, a campaign against adequate defense for the protection of these United States.
>
> "I am thinking of a recent poll made of 22,000 clergymen, professors and students. One-third, 8000, said they would never bear arms for the United States in any event."

When 8000 out of 22,000 clergymen, professors and students say they would not defend the United States if it were attacked it is time for a campaign of education in common patriotism—also in the obvious and universal law of SELF-PRESERVATION.

It is fortunate for us all that the Roosevelt Administration has not been influenced by these pressure groups as it has been by other crackpots.

To refuse to defend one's self or the country of which one is a native is to INVITE ANNIHILATION.

As Mr. Woodring says of these clergymen, professors and students:

> "THEY ARE PRACTICALLY PREPARING THE WAY FOR THEIR OWN DEATH WARRANT."

The "Altruist" Camouflage

THE VERY last place that Communism or any form of totalitarianism should be taught is in an American schoolroom or from an American pulpit.

Arthur M. Hyde, former Secretary of Agriculture, in an address before the annual convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution, in Washington, warned the country of the danger that confronts it when he said that Communism and Socialism would make steady headway as long as—

> "It is taught to the youth in schools; so long as it masquerades in politics in terms of security and altruism for the average man, and so long as it dons the livery and speaks with the fervor of religion to the young people of the churches.
>
> "A considerable section of the clergy is giving willing ear to those shrill voices which proclaim an easy road to the new Jerusalem of economic plenty and security via a 'co-operative commonwealth.'"

What we need is a MILITANT MOVEMENT to restore our government, our schools and many of our pulpits to a consciousness that their very life depends on FUNDAMENTALIST AMERICAN DOCTRINE.

And the public should be wary of doctrines for "social change" under whatever name, whether Collectivism, Marxism, Socialism OR Communism.

As Mr. Hyde pithily remarked:

> "COMMUNISM is only SOCIALISM armed with a club."

The Restraining Hand

IN THE forthcoming political campaign, New Dealers will doubtless seek to take credit for everything of a favorable nature which has occurred while they have been in office.

On the other hand, adverse developments, such as the drought and the floods, will be disowned as acts of Providence.

The constructive achievements of 40,000,000 hard-working, self-supporting Americans will be ignored by the spellbinders.

The trade building implications of the monumental series of Supreme Court decisions, including the National Recovery Act verdict, will be artfully discounted.

Moreover, in seeking to capitalize the fact that business is no longer at the bottom, political propagandists will seek to blind the public to the fact that this recovery has been rendered exceptionally slow nd uncertain by the misguided efforts of New Deal mateurs bent on social reform.

In reviewing the nature of worldwide recovery 1935, the editor of the London Times, who is aloof m American politics, said:

> "Business gained more ground in the United States than in either of the two preceding years, ut THERE IS STILL A DIFFICULT COURSE TO BE STEERED THROUGH THE CONFLICT OF REFORM AND RECOVERY."

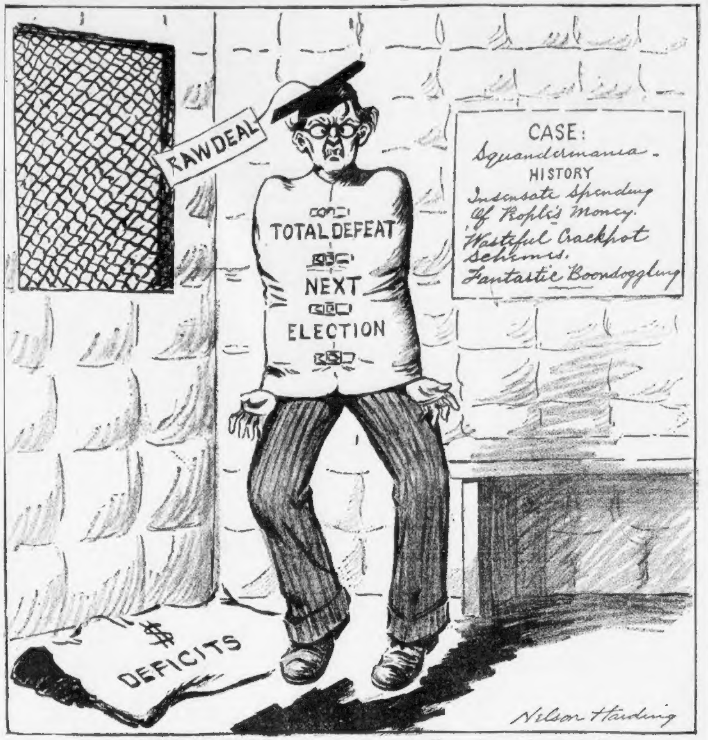
In other words, man-made barriers to full recovery are still compelling millions of Americans to remain idle or to go on the temporary payrolls of the overnment.

The sober common sense of the American people will recognize that business baiting, punitive taxation or other trade disrupting experiments cannot be expected to promote genuine prosperity.

This type of evaluation will unquestionably be reflected in their voting next November.

Straitjacket Best Cure for Squandermaniacs

By Nelson Harding



A strong straitjacket, buckled tight,
Would stop insensate spending.
On other remedies and cures
There's little use depending.

The mania must be restrained
For everyone's protection,
And that restraint should be the cure
Applied at next election.

"Solidarity Forever"

Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

THE GLOBE TROTTER OF HEARST METROTONE NEWS

The Russia of today, and those in America who ally themselves sympathetically with its cause, have a watchword, a song, that sounds the refrain, "Solidarity Forever!" And that, in simple United States language, means let's-stick-together-boys! And what of the Russia of yesterday, and what of those who gave it their allegiance, and still are loyal to its aristocratic memories?

Edwin C. Hill

There is no place in the much-publicized Soviet for the royalists who are known to the world as White Russians. They are, perhaps, the largest group of international expatriates in our century. Scattered as they have been, however, they have a unity of fraternal feeling which appears not to need a slogan.

In the major capitals of Europe—Vienna, Prague, Budapest, Bucharest—and most of all, in Paris, are colonies of men and women, many of them titled, who once were czarist lords and ladies of all the Russias.

EXODUS TO AMERICA

So, to the outstanding democracy of the world, the country, which stands firm on the doctrine of equal-opportunity-for-all, to America, in fact, was the logical move of homeless people who found they had to begin life once more.

New York, then, the cosmopolitan center of our country, was their Mecca. Most of them were realistic enough to waste no time brooding about the grandeur that was Russia; they were soon inoculated with our American success serum. They set to work as plain Mr. and Miss, whenever it was diplomatic.

They are restaurateurs of the ultra-social Mayfair set. Wherever and in whatever fashion possible, they have brought the colorful voluptuousness of the barbaric culture of which they were once the vanguard.

AID LESS FORTUNATE

Without ostentation, their ranks have organized various charities, by means of which they may take care of their less fortunate brothers. Leaders have come forward to guide the work, and of these probably the most eminent is Prince Serge Obolensky.

Others, such as the Grand Duchess Marie, Princess Keto Mikeladze and Alexander Tarsaidze, are constantly engaged in charitable functions which aid such organizations as the Association of Former Imperial RussianNaval Officers and the War Invalids of the Russian Imperial Army.

Religion, as well as their ties of La Patrie, has been instrumental in binding the close comradeship of the White Russian colony. Seldom do they forget the Old-Country devotion for their Orthodox Church.

FOLK TRADITION STRONG

Folk tradition, too, has a strong hold on yesterday's children, strayed from the Arabian Nights pageantry of their St. Petersburg court. In this country we know that barbaric—and naive—splendor from the lavish ballet, such as Rimsky-Kozsakoff's famed "Scheherazade."

On New Year's Eve, in contrast to the gin-and-horn-blowing, typically New York shambles with trumpets blaring, music that went 'round-an-'round (with our heads), let us see how White Russia welcomes the infant 1936.

We find Prince Obolensky and his Russian and American friends greeted by a silver-white swan, borne regally by two gigantic Cossacks, fierce in the light of blue-flaming torches. Monarchic sophistication? Yes—but in the same ceremony, a rooster was placed on the floor, corn scattered over the wine-colored plush, and great excitement bubbled at the omens derived from Prince Chanticleer's peckings.

RECREATE GAYETY

And on the Russian Easter the old Russia cracks open the hard-boiled rainbow eggs—even as you and I—but theirs will be eaten with black salt. In the intimate atmosphere of their gathering places, they recreate the strange Russian gayety, which alternates the intense, sad longing of gypsy chant with the sudden wild burst of a mock-ballad!

With the friends they have won among our American bluebloods, they will receive benisons of their priest in a room redolent of spiced delicacies, a luxuriant scene aglow with their inherent Oriental strain, their passion for color.

But this is no idle ritualistic gesture. It is, in truth, a humble tribute, despite its external magnificence, for the gala occasion, which follows a tradition of 9th-Century Russia, will aid the American Society for the Relief of Russian Exiles.

No, White Russia in the United States need not emblazon "Solidarity" on their banner—for it is graven in their hearts.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

New York, May 1—Thoughts while strolling: How the imagination wanders when one sees a trunk all criss-crossed with foreign labels! Opening a bottle of pop named Sonja Henie. Helen Morgan always looks as though she was just ready to bust out in a good cry.

O. O. McIntyre

Add biggest of blunders: After building New York's flock of skyscrapers, regional experts discover that they are impractical. Why not an American conductor for the New York Philharmonic? Most durable of the Hollywood Romeos: Gilbert Roland. The audiences that leave "Ethan Frome" unsmiling.

John Drew's kin, Jack Devereau, is a nifty dresser, too. With flowing hair and a paunch, Dwight Fiske could pass for Gilbert White. Last stand of the cuspidor—Alaska. Who remembers when Baked Alaska was hot diggedy as a dessert? Town Hall ladies who look like those Helen Hokinson drawings.

Nothing freshens up Manhattan like a sudden shower. Never knew a fellow with a few drinks who wouldn't recite Robert W. Service if asked. Appropriate nickname for Raymond Clapper: The Bell Ringer.

Broadway with all its upsets for Evelyn Nesbit has not yet completely untrussed her. She came back recently to hostess in a not too opulent bistro. While the years and successive distresses have obliterated much of the beauty once hers, she is still personable and sparks faintly the glamour that set her apart from the usual chorus girl. Her philosophy is thoroughly Nietzschean, her reflections darkly bitter but she manages to perk gay enough when necessary. Her dominating pride is in the air exploits of her capable and stalwart son Russell. To one reporter she expressed a desire to live but one year.

In contrast, Harry Thaw seems to have completely lost his taste for caper along the street where he so long cut intermittent swaths. The last time he was seen he was having a quick bite at a drugstore counter after the theater near the Astor preparatory to motoring to his estate in Pennsylvania. He has taken on weight and his heavy shock of hair is snow white. But his eyes are still starey!

The times and economic consequences have also entirely obliterated the flashy type of spender who used to strut the White Way with his trail of gleaners. It takes hefty dough these days to bulge the eyes of lookers on. In the old days the man who spent $200 in a place was extravagantly bowed to his carriage. To make that sort of a splash with present prices would set one back a grand.

I was with a gentleman in one of the expensive spots a recent evening for dinner. He called the waiter captain and explained he had a little check he had not paid for a party on a previous evening. He paid it with four $100 bills and received back only a few small bills.

Now and then over the Major Bowes program, the Major addresses some remark to "Messmore." This is his long time friend and early New York associate Messmore Kendall, owner of the Capitol Theater and a capitalist of influence and esteem.

Kendall, a self-effacing gentleman, has one of the most complete collections of Washingtonia. And his wife, Kitty Kendall, is a most deservedly popular young hostess. He has one of the tasty estates at Dobbs Ferry and an enormous apartment over the Capitol, where Major Bowes also has his city home. Kendall came originally from Grand Rapids and his fortune was amassed in the Montana copper fields, where he was identified with the Bradens. He frequently attends the Bowes broadcasts.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

I'm out to sock a tune.

Mind you, I know it's lovely. I enjoy listening to it as much as millions of other Americans. I'm wishing all luck to its creators—and probably would have gotten a Big Bang out of composing it myself, if I'd been smart enough.

Elsie Robinson

Yet, speaking as a two-fisted human instead of an orchestra addict, I'm out to sock that tune—and its name is—"DINNER FOR ONE, PLEASE, JAMES."

If there were any further proof needed that we, as a nation, have gone completely sissy and cry-baby, it is furnished by our unanimous enthusiasm over this tune. Particularly the male enthusiasm. Sit down and consider it, sans violins or saxaphones.

Here comes a man, or something bearing the name, whose wife suddenly and with complete lack of proof accuses him of infidelity and announces that she will leave him—

A man, mind you, of spotless character, who has given said wife years of unselfish devotion.

And what does this Brave Hombre do when the Missus pulls a tantrum and lets her nasty imagination run amuck?

Does he, with dignity and firmness, override her squealing tantrum and state HIS side of the case? Or, better still, does he hand her that wallop on the jaw which she so well and richly deserves—and, being female, is secretly yearning to receive?

No, stranger, he does NOT.

He takes it like a worm—and then comes down and blubbers to the butler. Goes one hundred per cent martyr! Whimpers over the wine—snivels over her "favorite flowers"—instead of grabbing the whole outfit and jamming them down her nagging little throat! The big softie!

THE BIG SOFTIE

Nor is this particular tune unique in this attitude. Nine out of 10 of our popular melodies are equally spineless. Al Jolson—who despite it is a grand guy—began it by Going Mammy. Thereafter we all started pleading to "Be Taken Back To" some place—any place—where we could once more wear rompers and suck lollipops.

At the present moment the yodeling Cowboy holds the spotlight, with his bleat to be buried on the wild praire-e-ee. By most conservative estimate, we are burying cowboys at the rate of three per square foot hourly.

As a matter of fact, the last thing any real cowboy ever wanted—and well I know the breed—was to be buried anywhere, anytime, by anybody. He was willing to provide funerals for any number of spectators, but never for himself. But cowboy songs, like all other national lyrics, are infected by this blight which has fallen upon us within recent years.

SPUNK NEEDED

The psychologists have a name for this blight. They call it "defeatism." And it infects any individual or any nation which has become just too soft to stand up and tackle life As Is.

There is more to defeatism than plain cowardice. There is also a vicious form of exhibitionism. The heckled husband in "Dinner For One, Please, James" was not merely yellow. He was also a showoff. He made an act of his heartbreak — TURNED MARTYR BECAUSE HE DIDN'T HAVE THE SPUNK TO BE A MAN.

And nightly, millions of Americans tune in on him and have themselves a swell time bawling big, wet tears of self-pity because they too, would rather be martyrs than men.

The Whipping Question

By Winifred Black

The pretty little girl came to school with her cheeks painted, her nose powdered and her eyes beautifully shaded with purplish-black mascara.

Teacher told the principal and principal and teacher kept the pretty little girl after school, then teacher held the pretty little girl, while the principal whipped the child with a leather strap.

The girl was 15 years old.

When the whipping was finished she ran home and told her mother and mother went downtown and swore out a warrant, charging assault and battery.

The principal and teacher resigned from the school.

And now the little town where all this happened is divided into two camps, one pro-whipping and one anti-whipping camp.

Would you have stood by the teacher and the principal if you had been president of the board of education? Or would you have told the mother of the girl that she did just right in filing suit against them?

After all, you may not approve of a 15-year-old girl who paints her cheeks until they blush like twin roses, but was it really fair of the teacher?

There is a good deal to be said on both sides of this whipping question.

I've never believed in whipping children of any age for any reason. It seems to me that a full-grown man or full-grown woman who cannot expect obedience and respect from a little goose of a child without resorting to violence isn't much of a human being.

But sometimes when I'm forced to spend an hour or so in the company of children who have never been spanked I'm tempted to change my mind.

How do you feel about it?

Alien Propaganda

By James T. Williams, Jr.

In the Farewell Address, George Washington bequeathed to the American people, as he said the "counsels of an old and affectionate friend." And he did so in the hope that his advice and admonition would in the years to come serve the following useful purposes:

1—"Moderate the fury of party spirit."

2—"Warn against the mischiefs of foreign intrigue."

3—"Guard against the impostures of pretended patriotism."

Foreign intrigue today is employing "the impostures of pretended patriotism" to undermine American institutions by shaking American confidence in their integrity and their efficacy. And foreign intrigue, if it is not checked in time, will on some evil tomorrow aggravate "the fury of party spirit" as a means of reducing "the household of the nation" to the predicament of that "house divided against itself, which can never stand."

"HOUSE DIVIDED"

During the Great War the Old World witnessed the power of America united, and ever since the end of that conflict the warring nations of the Old World have never ceased their efforts to divide our nation against itself.

Propaganda has been one of the weapons employed by foreign intrigue against the unity of the American household. Propaganda is prepared by foreign governments and their subsidiaries and distributed by their tools and dupes to divide America politically along lines of race, religion and occupation.

AGENTS OF INTRIGUE

This foreign propaganda is brought here from time to time by preachers, teachers, writers and organizers from foreign countries. These agents of this intrigue come in different disguises. They employ many and varied "impostures of pretended patriotism."

Some of these purveyors of alien mischief pursue their intrigue on American soil under the specious pretext that they are promoting world peace. When has the world peace ever been promoted by dividing the American family along lines of race, religion or class?

Some of the foreign mischief-makers come as the advertisers of their liberties and other wares. Some come for money, others for publicity, others for converts to various causes except the cause of America united.

Latterly this foreign propaganda, which, as Senator Borah truly said the other day, "has degenerated into a racket," has resorted to new artifices with which to attain its anti-American and wicked ends.

For example:

"The mischiefs of foreign intrigue" have recently spread to the American pulpit, various and sundry organized minorities and the American press.

All sorts of inducements are offered American educators and their students to travel in Old World countries at low rates and to swallow whole the propaganda of those countries which is deliberately designed to weaken the confidence of Americans in their own institutions and to entangle America in the political quarrels and racial hatreds and religious animosities of countries beyond the seas.

DISGUISED PEACE WORKERS

Disguised as world peace workers, the walking delegates of foreign intrigue are organizing on American soil gullible groups of Americans to combat the traditional foreign policy of their own country, to discredit the defense authorities of their own country and to defeat the defense program of their own government.

At first the mischief-makers engaged in this foreign intrigue angled chiefly among women's clubs for their victims. Latterly these alien anglers have been baiting their hooks for American youth in school and college.

When a young American picks up an American newspaper and reads in one of its columns a signed editorial interpretation or comment regarding national administration or national legislation he assumes that because the commentator is an American he is interpreting his subject from an American point of view.

If inquiring American youth in school and college will institute a searching inquiry they will hit the trail of the new mischief which foreign intrigue is making on American soil.

This is the mischief caused by employing American commentators on American newspapers to represent simultaneously, and without the knowledge of their American readers, foreign newspapers either subsidized or under the control of foreign governments.

HIRED TO INTERPRET

Any ten-year-old boy or girl in school knows well enough that in dealings with national affairs an American commentator cannot interpret them from an American point of view if he is at the same time hired to interpret them from a foreign point of view."

"No man can serve two masters," and those who would elucidate major questions of foreign policy from an American point of view must be free from foreign entanglements if they are to discharge their grave responsibility to their readers and listeners with fidelity and without fear.
